WOULD MAKE LINERS SAFE FROM ATTACK

Asks Assurance of Warning for Passenger
Ships Even When Defensive
Armament is Carried.

ACCEPTS LUSITANIA AGREEMENT IN THAT CASE

Washington, Feb. 17.—Secretary Lansing today accepted the Lusitania agreement as acceptable to the United States insofar as it relates to that case but asked Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, for assurances that Germany will not carry its policy of sinking merchant ships without warning to liners even if they carry defensive armament.

The question of what constitutes defensive armament is to be determined later in a way not yet agreed upon. It is suggested that the United States may propose that guns mounted on the stern of ships and capable of being swung from 15 to 30 degrees in either direction might come within that class.

Explains It Fully.
Secretary Lansing explained fully to the ambassador the position of the United States in the light of the new developments and is understood to have told him that while Germany's position is recognized as well founded, the United States must insist that Germany confine all her practices to international law inasmuch as the entente allies have declined to make any changes.

The Lusitania agreement will be kept by Secretary Lansing and later will be published with the assurances which the United States hopes to receive from Germany covering the points brought up by the new submarine campaign. The new assurances, if they are given, would be embodied in a separate note.

Going After Allies Now.
Meanwhile, it was said, the United States would make efforts to have the entente allies agree not to put guns on any kind of passenger-carrying liner and in turn would expect assurances from Germany for their safety.

It was understood that the principal objection for the United States to accepting the Lusitania agreement as governing the future was that it merely referred to the assurances previously given that unresisting liners would not be sunk without warning but it did not actually embody or reiterate them.

Ambassador von Bernstorff when he returned to his embassy, sent a long dispatch to his government setting forth fully the position of the United States as Secretary Lansing had outlined it to him.

It was stated authoritatively that Germany, because of its unusual position, cannot and will not accept the suggestion of the United States as it now stands that liners carrying arms shall be immune from attack under previous assurances.

Berlin Expects Assurances.
Germany is prepared to inform the United States that if passenger liners leaving American ports with defensive armament are to be immune from submarine attack without warning, as the German government promised last September in the Arabic case, the Berlin government expects some assurances that the liners will not attack the submarines.

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, has an engagement to confer with Secretary Lansing today and is expected to convey this view in reply to the secretary's statement on yesterday that it was desirable that the German government make a declaration that in carrying out its new submarine campaign of sinking armed merchantmen without warning, after Feb. 29, it intended to abide by the assurance it gave in the Arabic case that "liners" would not be attacked without warning unless they attempted to resist.

Continue Study of Note.
President Wilson and Secretary Lansing today continued their study of the Lusitania agreement as it was formally submitted yesterday to determine whether any of its terms would be nullified by the principles of the newly announced submarine campaign.

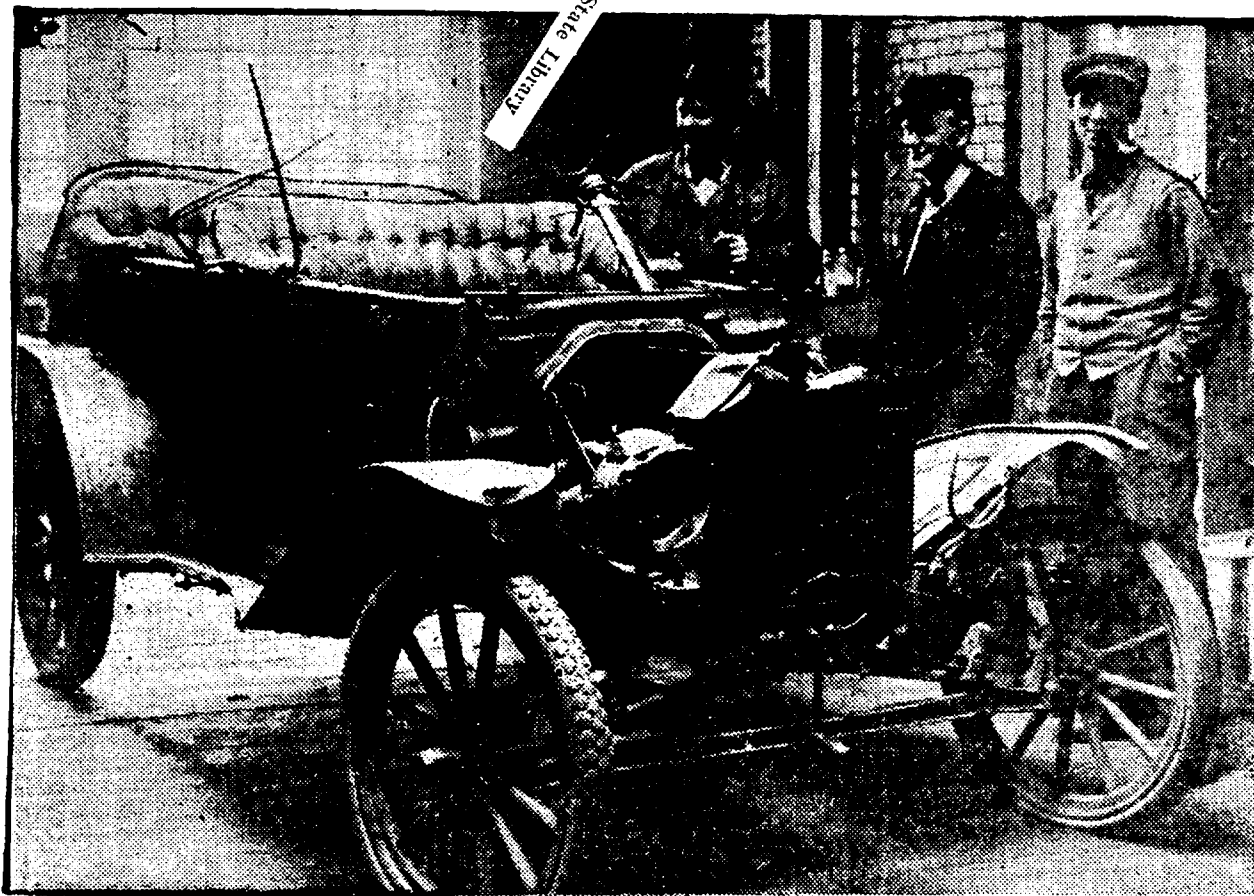

American officials expressed the opinion that the submarine controversy with Germany cannot be closed until assurances are given that the safety of neutrals and non-combatants at sea have not been altered by the latest German declarations. They fear that the United States is confronted with a long series of diplomatic exchanges and feel that the question is where it was several weeks ago when it was described as "grave."

Would Give Assurance.
It is said a close study of the proposed Lusitania agreement may disclose that it is not sufficiently comprehensive to embody guarantees for the future and that Germany be asked if she intends to sink ships armed for defensive purposes only. Teutonic circles it was said that undoubtedly Berlin would give such assurance but would request information as to what the United States considers to be defensive armament.

Announcement of a delay in the settlement was made by Secretary Lansing and came in place of the long expected announcement of a satisfactory conclusion of the negotiations. The German agreement has been presented by Count von Bernstorff in a form substantially acceptable to the United States.

Von Bernstorff's Opinion.
It was said Mr. Lansing asked the ambassador if Germany intended to abide by its promise not to sink un-

100,000 TURKS IN RUSS HANDS

Gigantic Total of Prisoners
Erzerum.

BOOTY INCLUDES
OVER 1,000 GUNS

British Lose Very Heavily
in Mesopotamia, Says
Constantinople.

Today's War News Given in Summary

More than 1,000 guns were captured by the Russians when they took Erzerum, the Turkish stronghold in Armenia, according to estimates in a Petrograd official statement. If these figures are borne out, the Russians' haul in cannon probably sets a record for the war in the capture of any fortress. When Novogorodsk fell the Germans took 700 guns.

The Petrograd estimate places the garrison of Erzerum at 100,000 men giving ground for an assumption that the capture of this number of Turkish troops is claimed. Previous reports had indicated that the garrison was bottled up in the fortress.

There has been continued fighting between Italians and Austrians along the Austrian frontier. Vienna reports a defeat for the Italians in the eighth attack by their outposts on the Austrian position at Jevreck while before the new Austrian position in the Rombon district the ground was covered with Italian dead.

According to the official account the British Mesopotamian forces have been heavy sufferers in the recent fighting. The British losses in the battle at Bathia west of Korna, aggregated 2,000, it is stated.

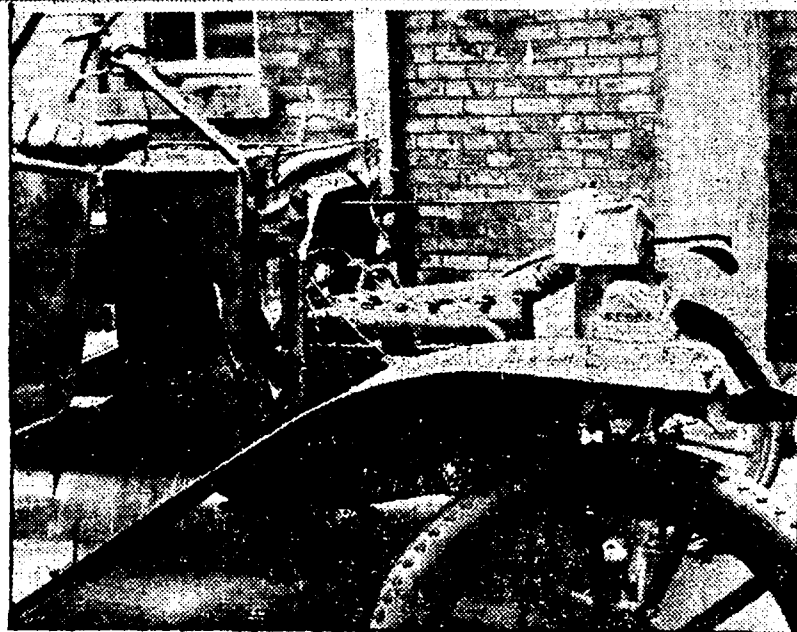

Fighting on the western front has lessened in intensity, probably because of the prevailing bad weather and similar conditions prevail in Russia.

Petrograd, Feb. 17.—The Official Messenger estimates the Turkish garrison at Erzerum, capture of which by the Russians was announced yesterday, at 100,000 men. It is also estimated that more than 1,000 guns were captured.

President Wilson telegraphed congratulations on the capture of Erzerum today to Emperor Nicholas and Grand Duke Nicholas, commander of the Russian forces on the Caucasian front.

Public rejoicing over the capture of Erzerum is reflected in the newspaper comment on the fall of the fortress. The Novoe Vremya considers the capture to have enormous importance, as it points out that Erzerum is a center of trade and railway routes as well as of military administration and has immense deposits for ammunition and supplies. It declares the fall of the city opens routes north and south to the Russians and will seriously affect the activities of the Turks in Mesopotamia and Syria.

The jitney bus lost in Spy Run for several weeks after the Lawton park bridge collapsed under it, has been paid for by the city and the firemen at No. 1 engine house have been commissioned to repair it. It is little more than a bunch of junk, but the department mechanics feel that they can make it as good as new and when it is finished it will be placed in city service.

WOMAN THROWN FROM BUGGY AND INJURED

Horse Runs Away With Little Child as Only
Occupant of Rig.

Mrs. William Albersmeyer, residing in the country, was painfully injured Thursday afternoon when the buggy in which she was riding with her little daughter was struck by city car No. 54 at Fairfield avenue and Main streets, throwing her out and causing the horse to run away with the child as the only occupant.

The horse had gone about a block when Raymond Keim, 808 Davis street, rushed out at the risk of his life and succeeded in stopping it. The little girl had presence of mind enough not to jump. The horse was slightly injured and Mrs. Albersmeyer was removed to St. Joseph hospital. She was badly sprained about the wrist and was otherwise painfully hurt, although her condition is not regarded as serious.

HARNER IS ILL IN BOSTON HOSPITAL

Word has been received by friends in Fort Wayne of the illness of Joseph G. Harner, in a hospital at Boston, who for two years was connected with the naval recruiting station in this city. According to the doctor who is attending him he is suffering from Bright's disease. While there is little hope for his complete recovery his condition at the present time is not regarded as critical. Mr. Harner left Fort Wayne a couple of months ago for ship duty.

PUBLICITY WRECKS HIS NOVEL WOOING

Miss Owen Flees Lover Who
Did His Courting in Thought Waves.

Evansville, Ind., Feb. 17.—O. Abbott Burton, lecturer on psychological phenomena, today announced that publicity, temporarily at least, had defeated his "thought wave wooing" that brought Miss Olive Owen, Brooklyn, N. Y., poetess, to this city to survey him as her prospective husband. Burton said Miss Owen had left without announcing her decision. On the arrival of the poetess, Burton said he had met her at the home of a friend in Chicago and later communicated with her by thought wave at her Brooklyn home. It was after this communication, he said, that Miss Owen came here as the guest of his mother. Miss Owen, Burton said, has gone to Chicago to visit a friend whose name he professed not to know.

This action is regarded by bankers as a precautionary move in case of a break in the relations of the Greek government with the entente allies.

FIGHTS EXTRADITION.

Stock Fraud Charge.
Indianapolis, Feb. 17.—The fight to prevent the extradition of Elmer E. Vessey, a hotel keeper at Elwood, from Indiana to Cleveland, O., where he is wanted on a charge of having obtained $7,850 from a woman by false representation, was resumed before Governor Ralston this afternoon. Attorneys representing Vessey and Harry Yonick, of the Marion county prosecutor's office, appeared before the governor yesterday.

Vessey contends he as well as the woman involved lost money that was put into Nevada mining stocks. The offense charged was committed in 1910, the papers show, but the indictment against Vessey was not returned until a few months ago. Vessey is charged with having made false representations as to the value of the mine.

PARENTS CONDEMN TEACHER.

Hannamond, Ind., Feb. 17.—Parents of 100 boys and girls of the East Chicago grammar school condemn the action of Wayne Miller, teacher of physiology who invited the children to remain after school to see a cat dissected. Alexandria, Ind., Feb. 17.—Rev. A. A. Fletcher, of Warsaw, who has received a call from the Baptist church here, recently accepted an invitation from a saloonkeeper at Bens, Ill., to preach in a saloon in connection with a series of revival meetings. Mounting two whiskey barrels and some motion picture films, the minister spoke to 500 persons. In beginning he said: "My right foot is on 50,000 yards of motion picture films and my left on 5,500 headcases. One hundred and twenty gallons of whiskey supporting my body, priced at $4 a gallon, make this the most costly pulpit I ever preached from." During the sermon a drink was sold every ten minutes.

Lorimer Expects to Win in Bank-Wrecking Charge

Chicago, Feb. 17.—William Lorimer, once holder of a seat in the senate of the United States, today attended the opening session of his trial on a charge of wrecking the LaSalle Street Trust and Savings bank, of which he was the principal founder and head. He refused to discuss the case except to say he had no fear as to the outcome.

Judge Dever, of the criminal court, who presided, granted preliminary motions of the defense that the major charge of conspiracy to defraud be consolidated with the minor charge of receiving deposits after the bank's insolvency was known and of operating a confidence game resulting from alleged misrepresentation of the institution's assets. The state made no objection to the consolidation.

MOTHER-IN-LAW IS TO GAIN BENEFITS

Aided Himself, Charles La Tourette, Gets Tanlac for Relative.

Charles La Tourette, manager of the Novelty department of the Fort Wayne Printing company, who lives at 1114 Lake avenue, this city, told recently how Tanlac, the Master Medicine, gained his firm friendship.

Mr. La Tourette is very well known in this city. Scores of friends know him as a man of unquestioned honesty and integrity and consider statements from him as coming from a most reliable source.

"I have suffered from stomach trouble for a long time and recently I had an attack of the grip," Mr. La Tourette said. "Because of the stomach trouble I slept very poorly and would awaken in the mornings with burning pains in my stomach. My appetite also was poor. The attack of the grip left me with an aching all through my body."

"The symptoms of the grip became less severe the second or third day after I started taking Tanlac. I kept right on taking the medicine and now my stomach also is in much better condition. Where, formerly, I was forced to diet on soups and light foods, I now am able to eat anything I care for. I also sleep fine now."

"Tanlac has helped me as nothing else ever did. I am recommending the medicine to my friends and relatives and, only last Sunday, I bought a bottle of it and sent it by mail to my mother-in-law, who lives in Pittsburgh, Pa."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism, nervousness, loss of appetite, sleeplessness and the like and is fine for relieving the after effects of hard coughs, cold, la Grippe, pneumonia and the like.

Tanlac is now being introduced in Fort Wayne at the Wayne and Calhoun streets store of the Meyer Drug Co., where the Tanlac Man is explaining the new remedy. It also may be obtained at the other Meyer stores, Calhoun and Columbia, 1420 Calhoun, and Broadway and Taylor—Adventures.

CHILD IS RECOVERING.

Mary Loving Was at Death's Door With Peanut Kernel in Lung.

Mary Loving, aged 7 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Loving, of 1510 Kentucky avenue, who had been at death's door for the past week as a result of having a peanut kernel lodged in her lung, was pronounced as much better at the Lutheran hospital where she has been a patient. The object first lodged in her throat and when effort was made to remove it, it had slipped into the lung. An X-ray examination to locate the foreign object proved to be unsatisfactory. The attending physician states that nature will work its own cure in this case and that the kernel will be removed in small particles from the lung. He states that a violent cough may also dislodge the object.

Miss Dorothy Bunch is spending a few days in Muncie, with relatives, and Mrs. Paul Bunch is visiting her mother in Kendallville.

POISON SUSPECT IN LETTER TO PRESS

Jean Crouce Writes Regarding Banquet Poisoning.

New York, Feb. 17.—A letter purporting to be signed by Jean Crouce, the fugitive Chicago chef who helped prepare the banquet at Archbishop Mundelein at Chicago, at which many of the diners were poisoned, was received yesterday by the New York Times. The letter appears to be genuine, but its authenticity is being investigated by the New York police.

The communication gives a detailed description of the contents of Crouce's room and the Chicago police have been asked to verify the information it contains. The author of the letter is evidently in or near New York. He says he has bleached his hair white, that he has a job and that he is living quietly in a village near this city. The letter, with its imperfect grammar and misspelling, follows in part:

"Everything I have read in the papers regarding my case is either foolish or untrue. I declare that my story is true. In America I am since the 6th May, 1913, and worked for three months in Castels old French restaurant Grand City, Staten Island, as chef. After that I worked for 1 year, in New York, and after that in Chicago, Cleveland, in the Country club and back to Chicago at the University club, I was chef of the old west room and did not have anything to do with the soup."

"I always was in the Radical movement as a worker and as a true comrade to my fellow workers. Meanwhile I have studied science (astronomy and chemistry) as I leave science I hate religion and as I have seen the menu for that dinner 12 days before I thought that it was a sanitary thing to make a good clean up. I worked till late in the night every day and I prepared the poisons but the most had a bitter taste. Later I agreed for arsenic and barium chloride."

"No one in the world has known those things before. After I had a placed the poison in little quantities in different dishes which were ready for the dinner."

"After that I went home. I took a solution and made my hair white as snow. Two times I was over kommen by the gases evolved. Then I left home with nothing but my clothes, some explosives and some poison, also a knife and a revolver. Those explosives are very dangerous for the smallest shock causes an explosion which will have terrible results. I deny that there were any explosives in my room after I left. The six cans which the stupid Chi-ago police believed gun cotton is nothing but asbestos around for safe shipping.

"I must laugh at the letters which the police find, I did never have any other letter but from home. Those letters and all my papers I have burned before I left."

BIGGEST WARSHIP OFF FOR OFFICIAL TESTS

Builders Confident Pennsylvania Will Meet All Requirements.

Newport News, Va., Feb. 17.—The super-dreadnought, Pennsylvania, the largest battleship yet built for the United States navy, left the plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company early today for Rockland, Maine, to run the official government speed and endurance trials. The builders predict that she will easily meet the contract requirements as to speed, endurance and fuel consumption. The Pennsylvania, with her main battery of twelve 14-inch rifles mounted in four turrets on the center line, is declared by naval experts to be the most powerful sea fighter afloat. A broadside shell fire from her big guns would weigh 18,000 pounds, which is said to be greater than the broadside fire of the Queen Elizabeth, of the British navy, which mounts eight 15-inch rifles. The Pennsylvania is 600 feet long and will have a full load displacement of nearly 33,000 tons.

RIVER IS TOO WIDE AT SWINNEY PARK

Wallace Rice and Donald Robertson, of Chicago, who will probably be engaged to put on the pageant here next June, in connection with the centennial celebration, were not as favorably impressed with Swinney park as a desirable place for holding the pageant as was the pageant master from St. Louis. It is very probable that another location will be selected. One of the principal objections to Swinney park raised by Mr. Robertson was the width of the river, which would prevent the speaking parts from being heard. Messrs. Rice and Robertson returned to Chicago Wednesday afternoon.

ALL FRANCE SWEEP BY TERRIFIC GALE

Weather at West Front is Worst Known Since the War Began.

Paris, Feb. 17.—A gale swept France yesterday and caused serious damage in Paris and the provinces. A number of shipwrecks have been reported from the maritime districts and the channel services have been delayed and at some ports entirely interrupted. Many telegraph wires and many trees have been blown down and several persons were killed and injured in Paris by falling tiles and chimneys. In the Chambery district a local torrent broke its banks and flooded the plains lying below.

Reports from the front describe the weather for the last forty-eight hours as the worst experienced since the war began. The gale was particularly severe in the Belgian district.

HOLLAND HARD HIT.

Amsterdam, Holland, Feb. 17.—The northwesterly storm is still blowing with undiminished violence and the situation is described as critical. Reports from various places of the damage which has been done are causing grave apprehension.

Monnikendam has suffered considerably. The water rose a foot yesterday afternoon in this town, in the province of North Holland, a few miles from Amsterdam, and is still rushing in. At Volendam twenty houses have been abandoned. The railway embankment between Purmerend and Oostzaal in the same province has been destroyed threatening a fresh catastrophe. Breking of the dykes around West Linder lakes at Aalsmeer, eight miles southwest of Amsterdam, appears to be inevitable.

HIS MIND BLANK FOR 5 DAYS; NOW RETURNS

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 17.—J. M. Gott, a section hand on the Monon railroad, who was given up as a suicide a few days ago by his friends and family, greatly surprised them last evening when he staggered into his home. Gott went to work as a track walker last Friday morning. When he did not return in the evening his family became alarmed and searching parties were instituted. His tools were found near the bridge that spans the Big Wet creek, five miles south of here and it was thought he had jumped into the swollen stream. The bed of the creek was dragged but no trace of the missing man was found.

Gott said last night that his mind has been a blank for the past five days and that he could not recall who he was or where he belonged. He has had no solid food during his absence and lived on roots and herbs gathered in the fields. He recovered his senses last evening about 5 o'clock while walking in an open field. He is almost a nervous wreck and is greatly emaciated.

UNCLE SAM SAYS NO BOOZE FOR ALASKA RAILWAY WORKERS.

(Special Correspondence.)
Seward, Alaska, Feb. 17.—Uncle Sam is taking as much pains to protect the workmen on his government railroad out of Anchorage from the demon rum as from any other possible causes of inefficiency. Twenty-eight women bootleggers were recently arrested at Anchorage, the main construction camp, and fined $100 each for selling liquor to the men.
The sale of booze is prohibited there, under rules of the Alaska Engineering commission and a stipulation included in the deeds to town lots by which they are forfeited in case of conviction. The latest arrests indicate the government's vigilance in seeing that the liquor traffic is stamped out there at any cost.

AMERICAN LAWYER IS GIVEN PRISON TERM

Sentenced at Manila for Charges Against Many High Officials.

Manila, Feb. 17.—An American lawyer of Manila named Kelly, who was a delegate to the democratic national convention in 1902, has been ordered by the supreme court to six months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $500 for the publication of a book which says that Gen. Noriel, the insurgent leader who was put to death in Jan. 1915, for the murder of a political enemy, was innocent and that sixty persons, including high officials and supreme court justices, were guilty of assassination in connection with the execution of Noriel and his two colleagues.

Kelly filed criminal charges against the officials whom he accuses and he applied for the release of two others who were sentenced as accomplices of Noriel to life imprisonment. Kelly has now sent a cable dispatch addressed to the United States supreme court in Washington asking that he be liberated pending an investigation of his case.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Psalms 118:1-14.

- 1 O give thanks unto the Lord; for he is good: because his mercy endureth for ever.
- 2 Let Israel now say, that his mercy endureth for ever.
- 3 Let the house of Aaron now say, that his mercy endureth for ever.
- 4 Let them now that fear the Lord say, that his mercy endureth for ever.
- 5 I called upon the Lord in distress: the Lord answered me, and set me in a large place.
- 6 The Lord is on my side; I will not fear: what can man do unto me?
- 7 The Lord taketh my part with them that help me: therefore shall I see my desire upon them that hate me.
- 8 It is better to trust in the Lord than to put confidence in man.
- 9 It is better to trust in the Lord than to put confidence in princes.
- 10 All nations compassed me about: but in the name of the Lord will I destroy them.
- 11 They compassed me about; yea, they compassed me about: but in the name of the Lord I will destroy them.
- 12 They compassed me about like bees; they are quenched as the fire of thorns: for in the name of the Lord I will destroy them.
- 13 Thou hast thrust sore at me that I might fall: but the Lord helped me.
- 14 The Lord is my strength and song, and is become my salvation.

The Cost and the Value.

Secretary Henley, of the republican state central committee, expresses the belief that the expense to several of the larger counties in Indiana—including Allen, presumably—in connection with the nominating primary in March will reach $20,000. He further estimates that the total cost to the ninety-two counties in Indiana may foot up to the staggering sum of $700,000. Mr. Henley's estimates may, or may not, be too high. He is among those who have not been especially friendly to the measure and he can scarcely be expected to see beneficence sticking out all over a law upon which his party in Indiana has frowned for the reason that it is a democratic measure if for no other.

But whether the primary law is, as a matter of fact, worth any such sum as that estimated by Mr. Henley remains to be determined after we see what sort of results we get from a trial of the law. Some things are worth whatever they may cost and others are extravagantly dear at any price at all. One thing should be clearly impressed upon the voters at this stage of the proceedings, and that is that the results they are going to get from the state-wide primary will depend on just what the rank and file of Indiana voters determine they shall be. They can have any variety of outcome they choose.

This much, however, is certain: Unless the voters generally—not merely the politicians, the ward workers and the one-man partisans—manifest sufficient interest in good government, in clean candidates and in high-class nominations to turn out and assist in making them, the operation of the law is going to be disappointing as well as expensive. If the voters generally fail to take advantage of the provisions of a law framed for the definite purpose of giving the entire people a say-so in the naming of candidates instead of turning that work over to the machine organization in the various parties, the outcome is going to show no advantage whatever over the old method of complacently accepting the slate the other fellow has framed without consulting them.

Local health officers all over Indiana have just been sent instructions to rigidly enforce the state board's recent rule requiring freedom from disease for all persons working with food products in this state. It applies to bakers, cooks, waiters, grocers, clerks, employees in canneries, slaughter houses, dairies and "every one who in any way comes in contact with food." The action is both a reasonable and logical supplement to the state and federal pure food laws. It is not too much for the public to ask that the food it purchases be of good quality and be prepared under sanitary conditions, but that it be handled and served to them only by persons who are free from disease. Some Fort Wayne concerns have already taken steps to have an examination of their employees and to secure certificates of health that comply with the law. We believe the remaining ones will do so gladly and without delay.

No city has ever manifested a finer spirit than that displayed by Fort Wayne in the ready response to the suggestion that a memorial to the late Perry A. Randall be placed in one of the city parks as the people's tribute to the memory of a splendid citizen. Without a word of personal solicitation, and without effort beyond the public invitation, subscriptions have poured in upon the committee in generous fashion and they are still coming. There is now assured not only the bronze bust of the dead civic leader, but a setting and an approach that will be in every way worthy of the inspiration of Colonel Foster that gave the idea birth.

Fred Landis, in a recent address at Logansport, voiced the belief that the people should use more care in the selection of public officials. Perchance Mr. Landis' recollection for the moment went back to the harassing outcome a few years ago when he himself went down to defeat though gallantly carrying the glorious banner of the bull moosers in the very forefront of the bitter fighting as a candidate for office.

An armless man has been arrested at Terre Haute on a charge of forgery, and the police believe the man wielded the pen with his teeth. Doubtless he had merely become a bit too enthusiastic in following out some of the inspiring old admonitions regarding the surmounting of obstacles that beset life's pathway. Even some of the good things may be overdone.

Reports from Washington to the effect that President Wilson is now considering men from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri for the vacant position as secretary of war may account for the pained effort of certain distinguished citizens of these four states to appear as unconcerned as though nothing were likely to happen.

To save him a lot of wholly unnecessary embarrassment, let it be hoped the intrepid commander of that Teutonic submarine never discovers that it was a mere muleship that drove his fighting craft off with its dinky little guns in the Mediterranean recently.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 17.—Out at the Ford plant they have an investigating and welfare organization that pries into the most intimate secrets of every employee's affairs. There is not a man excepting one in the 15,000 or more whose pedigree is not worked out like that of show-ring live stock.

And the one who is outside of this scrutiny is the boss of the whole kit, young Edsall B. Ford.

Less is known about the only son of Henry Ford than of the average young man who has attained prominence through gifts of his own or of his forebears.

Edsall Ford is so modest that he hardly would tell his age if he were asked, but he is 23, was born in Detroit, went to the high school and then to the Detroit university school for a spell and since then he has been working.

Somewhat of a mechanical genius, he preferred this to higher education, and his father thought it about as well, for he never went very far into school himself.

In the absence of his father, Edsall Ford was boss of this biggest motor car plant in the world.

He does not sit on a gilded throne and blow rings of cigarette smoke—cigarettes are barred there, anyhow—but he gets right down to brass tacks and ranges and roams through the miles of floors in the factory.

You may find him in the assembly room, in the foundry, in the body building department, anywhere, but wherever it is, he is busy thinking, if not doing something with his hands.

Those who know the factory know that the boy is earnest and on the job many hours of the day.

He is grasping all details of a quantity production that has been the marvel of the industrial world, and it is no secret that some of his suggestions have been considered, then put into force.

COMFORTABLE FOLK.

(Milwaukee Journal.)

"We pray for the comfortable, who do not care for anything so long as they are left at ease."—Rev. L. M. Powers, at the inauguration of the council of Gloucester, Mass.

A word makes us stop and think a bit. Comfort is a pleasant thing, but it is not one of the motive powers of the world. If comfort had ruled, Isaac Newton would have sat in the shade of his apple tree watching the apples fall and idly wondering. And Christopher Columbus would have sought some one to publish his deductions about the other side of the Atlantic, but never to persuade men to go there. Today, the comfortable people do not ask that the things that disturb them should cease, but rather that no one should talk of them. They are not disturbed by the suffering of child workers, but they would like not to be reminded of it. They suppose there must be some corruption, but the muckraker is a pernicious fellow to be always sticking under their noses. Councils and legislatures and congresses are an affliction, but it is more disturbing to find out about candidates and then go out and vote.

It is a pleasant picture—to have enough to make one comfortable, to stay at home with the family and luxuriate in their comfort, to breathe a sigh for the woes and wrongs of the world and a prayer that they come not nigh me, to say that one will live and let live. It is pleasant, but the amateur orator on the street corner impassionately weaving for a curious crowd a fabric of false statements may have more in him of the stuff that has made the world's advance from age to age.

FOR FAIR JUDGMENT.

(Indiana Daily Times.)

An appeal is being made by the railroads of the country for fair judgment on a matter that vitally affects the railroads. The postoffice committee of the national house has made the Moon railway mail pay bill a rider on the post-office appropriation bill. The railroads are very definitely against the Moon bill and are on record as protesting against its advancement. In an open letter to Speaker Clark of the house, Ralph Peters, representing the railroads, declares for prompt action which will separate the Moon bill from the post-office appropriation bill and allow its free and fair discussion on the floor of the house. We do not see why there should be any hesitancy in putting the Moon railway mail pay bill before the house on its own merits and demerits. We do not see why such a measure should be made a rider on an appropri-

tion bill. It is not an appropriation bill but is an attempt to adjust charges for service. It should be fairly discussed with an eye not only to the well-being of the public, but with an honest eye also to fair play for all concerned, including the railroads.

Councilman Agne on Lakeside Situation

To the Editor of The Sentinel: After reading the Journal-Gazette and the Fort Wayne News Tuesday, in which they gave the proceedings of the meeting at the Lakeside school, they told the people of our beloved city what they thought about our honorable mayor. The Fort Wayne Sentinel came out with an answer from the honorable mayor, giving his side of the controversy. He claims that he is in waiting for the committee from Lakeside, and will tell them a thing or two about the drainage system. I hope he will stay there one year, ten months and thirteen days, after which time his office expires. It will be a great benefit to the people of our city, and especially those of Lakeside, if he will only remain in waiting, and not leave his office. What good would it do for this committee to ask him to turn the key back to our park board, where it belongs? I wish to state that we have men that compose our park board that we are proud of. I do not think there is a better board in the United States, men of high standing, and good, honest, upright business men. Still our honorable mayor steps in and takes their authority away from them, as being incompetent. I, for one, will say no, they are not and should not have any authority taken away from them for any such reason. The mayor's statement, in both The Sentinel and Journal-Gazette, and in the Journal-Gazette's editorial, "Gentlemen: You ask the public to go over on Edgewater avenue and see for yourselves where the Moellering Construction company is repairing the sewer that broke down and gave the trouble of the sewer backing up into the cellars."

It is true that this sewer broke down, but you are all absolutely wrong when you claim that this is what caused the sewage to back up into the cellars. Here are the true facts: By the Edgewater sewer breaking down it could not deliver any of its contents to the pump, and all had to back up into the Tecumseh sewer. Now then, understand me correctly: None of the Tecumseh sewerage could get to the pump at all, which left the Morton avenue sewer line to deliver to the pump, cutting down the sewerage about one-third, by the Tecumseh sewer being put out of commission. Now then, do you know which sewer gave the trouble to the people by backing into the cellars. All the telephone calls I received that Sunday evening were from people who were connected with the Morton avenue sewer. So you can see that the breaking down of your sewer and keeping the sewage back surely did not make the Morton avenue sewer back up as it did into the cellars. As was stated at the meeting, if the pump had been run on Saturday night, all this would not have happened. Now mayor, come on, be fair. Give the people what you promised them during your campaign. No. 1, flood prevention; No. 2, track elevation; No. 3, modern garbage plant. No. 1, flood prevention, a rank failure; No. 2, track elevation, nothing done as yet; No. 3, modern garbage plant, is no further now than when you took office. You endeavored to coerce the city council committee on garbage through an opinion from your city attorney that you could proceed with the erection of

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Incumbent rains during the past forty hours have caused the rivers to rise to flood stage.

John Ottenger, of the staff of the New York Staats-Zeitung, a former Fort Wayne boy, is in the city to visit relatives and other friends.

County Supt. G. F. Felts is contemplating an enrollment of school children of the county, outside the city.

T. J. Fleming has sold his general store business at the old Peter Kiser stand to Warren Sweet, formerly of Hoagland, and more recently of Sheldon.

Manager Billy Meyer is negotiating with Guy Hecker, who managed the Pittsburgh base ball team last year, to manage the Fort Wayne team this season.

The Amateur Athletic association has disbanded and James B. White, jr., has purchased the furniture and other belongings. He will probably organize another club.

Commodore Foote and his sister, Fairy Queen, the world-famous midgets of this city, are playing an engagement in Huber's museum in New York.

Prayers of the congregation were asked in the Cathedral Sunday for the recovery of Bishop Joseph Dwenger. The bishop is quite ill, but his condition is not critical.

F. V. Culbertson, local manager for Dun & Co., finds it necessary to increase his office room and soon will secure additional quarters at his present location in the Pixley-Long block.

Last evening at a meeting of civil war veterans in G. A. R. hall committees were appointed to draft resolutions and to make arrangements for memorial observances in this city on the day of General Sherman's funeral.

Former County Auditor M. E. Argo and W. S. Buck, who recently associated themselves in business, have just returned from New York, where they completed arrangements for taking the agency here for the Equitable Life Insurance company, their territory covering Indiana, north of Jay county.

specifications? 2—Your broken down sewer along Edgewater avenue which cost $3,000.15 was uncalled for. This bill is also paid. What the people want is also paid. What the people want is also paid. What the people want is also paid.

3—We have expended about $25,000.00 for a park which was to have a lake and lagoons in connection with it. You claim that as long as you are mayor you will maintain the lake and lagoons as a cesspool, the same as it was nineteen years ago. Under these conditions prevailing we refuse to accept this $25,000.00 improvement and ask that you give us credit for same.

So you can readily see if you do the square thing and give us credit for the money we paid out for something we did not order or receive, we can very easily pay you for your current and your overcharged labor. I want to call the attention of the public to the time when Delta lake was built nineteen years ago. Col. D. N. Foster was then president of the Fort Wayne Land & Improvement Co., and he told the city when they put in the overflow from their first sewer, the Tecumseh sewer, that they would allow it only under one condition and that it was to be put in only temporarily until the city could make provision to take care of their sewage. Just think of it, nineteen years ago, and today the same thing prevails.

What did Mayor Hoesy do to relieve this condition? He has been in office for the second time and has done nothing to better this condition. Since the first sewer was built without a proper outlet, they came along and built the second one, the Morton avenue sewer without an outlet. The worst is yet to come. Last year several new additions were drained into this sewer, and a little later they connected the feeble-minded institution to drain into it also. Now mayor, if your idea is correct, don't you think you had better start building more lakes and lagoons to take care of this great volume of sewage that did not flow nineteen years ago?

New Rules for Street Traffic Recommended

As Result of One Year's Study Safety First Federation Offers Uniform Regulations for Cities.

New York, Feb. 17.—The growing sentiment throughout the country for uniformity in the regulation of street traffic, which shall be reasonable as well as enforceable, has finally been crystallized through the compilation of a standard code of traffic committee of the Safety First Federation of America.

The announcement of this accomplishment after a study and investigation of the subject extending over a year will be welcomed by every one conversant with the present chaotic condition caused primarily by the varying traffic ordinances in force in our municipalities.

Heretofore, each city has drafted its own traffic ordinances, following no general policy, creating a variation of important requirements in detail of enforcement, and in penalties imposed. In many instances the research work of the street traffic committee has led to local ordinances which conflict with state laws, while others contain provisions which should be the subject of legislative rather than of local regulation.

One of the principal reasons advanced last year for the organization of the Safety First federation was the necessity of compiling a standard code of traffic regulations which would be suitable to the needs of all communities, or at least tend to establish uniformity as to cities of a certain size.

Committee Gets Real Results
 In this work the street traffic committee, composed of state and city officers and representatives of automobile clubs, transportation and street railway companies, has had the hearty co-operation of the authorities having under their jurisdiction the regulation of street traffic in sixty-five important cities in the United States and Canada.

The result of the committee's efforts has been a source of gratification to those who foresaw the possibility of this achievement under the leadership of the Safety First federation, particularly in view of the unsuccessful attempts previously made by other associations in this direction.

Among the important features of the standard code as compiled by the street traffic committee, are the following:

- Prohibiting the use of the muffler cutout.
- Prohibiting excessive emission of smoke or fumes.
- Prohibiting the unnecessary use of warning signals.
- Providing that all vehicles shall carry lights from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise.
- Approval of the near-side stop regulation for street cars.
- Providing car stop safety zones for persons getting on or off street cars.
- To Protect Car Stop Zones
- Providing for protecting the carstop safety zones from encroachment by vehicles, either moving or standing.
- Requiring that all vehicles must come to a full stop at least five feet behind a street car when stopping, or which has stopped, to receive or discharge passengers.
- Requiring pedestrians to cross the street at the regular crossing, to cross with the traffic and comply with the signals of traffic officers.

Requiring the locking of unattended motor vehicles to prevent their removal by unauthorized persons.

Requiring properly illuminated license tags on automobiles, and favoring the adoption by automobile manufacturers of a uniform transparently illuminated license tag holder.

Requiring in the event of an accident that the driver must stop and render all possible assistance to persons injured, giving name and address to any persons concerned or any person requesting same, and, in the absence of a police officer, the driver shall report the accident to police headquarters.

Recommending the licensing of all motor vehicle drivers or operators, subject to suspension or revocation by the issuing authority. It is contended that the adoption of this regulation by the various state legislatures will result in a material reduction of highway accidents. The chief requisite for securing the license shall be proper physical, mental and moral qualifications.

Regulating the Headlight
 The details of granting the license necessary rests with the several state legislatures and would include such matters as affixing to the license card a photograph of the licensee, for the purpose of affording a means of identification and adding to the practicality of enforcement.

Approval of the following regulation for removing headlight glare:
 Wherever there is not sufficient light within the limits of the highway to allow clearly to reveal all persons, vehicles or substantial objects within said limits for a distance of at least 150 feet, the headlights of all motor vehicles in motion shall give sufficient light to reveal any person, vehicle or substantial object on the road straight ahead of such motor vehicle for a distance of at least 150 feet. The headlights shall be so arranged that no portion of the beam of reflected light, when measured 75 feet or more ahead of the lamps, shall rise above 42 inches from the level surface on which the vehicle stands. Such headlights shall also give sufficient side illumination to indicate any person, vehicle or substantial object 10 feet to the side of said motor vehicle at a point 10 feet ahead of the lamps.

The term "beam of reflected light" as used in the above provision shall be construed as meaning the approximately parallel focalized rays gathered and projected by a reflector lens or other device.

To Standardize Signs and Signals
 It is proposed to further eliminate the possibility of street accidents by standardizing signs and signals, and the street traffic committee has approved of the mechanical traffic semaphore that has been in successful operation on Fifth avenue, New York, and adopted in Detroit, Baltimore, Washington, St. Louis, Boston, New Orleans and other cities.

It is intended to standardize methods of dealing with traffic at congested corners so that when pedestrians are crossing the street they will not be endangered by approaching vehicles. This will necessitate the conferring of authority upon police departments to regulate pedestrian travel as well as vehicular traffic.

Standardization of accident report blanks, and a method of compiling statistics for the intelligent study and investigation of the most common form of accidents, is also to be undertaken.

The adoption of the standard code with the view to securing uniformity in traffic regulations will be of much help to the authorities in many cities who have been slow to recognize the importance of the safety first movement, and will bring to them the experience of the more progressive municipalities. It will afford a means of instructing all drivers, visitors as well as residents, in the simple rules of safety. If the standard code is adopted substantially in the form as approved in all of the larger cities, automobilists touring from one city to another will have no excuse for violating traffic rules.

Motorists Worst Offenders
 The records show frequent and tragic proof of the fact that motorists have been to a great extent the worst offenders against traffic regulations. It has been the aim of the street traffic committee to draft uniform requirements with the view to reducing the number of preventable accidents, to eliminate indefensible maimings and killings, and to do away with excuses that do not excuse, and with methods of keeping records that do not show the actual, true accounts of accidents and their causes.

The result of the committee's work will be to effect various economies, expedite the movement of traffic, permit police officers to give greater attention to pedestrians and at the same time advance the movement for the conservation of life, limb and property.

The standard code of traffic regulations will be issued in loose-leaf book form, and the publication will be ready for distribution in February. This event will commemorate the first anniversary of the founding of the Safety First Federation of America.

The compilation of this code has been under the personal direction of Hon. John Gilchrist, police commissioner of Detroit, who, as chairman of the federation's street traffic committee, has visited all of the important cities in the United States and Canada in connection with this work.

NEW MEN MEET TO DISCUSS SITUATION

Letter from Harry S. New on Questions of Preparedness.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Harry S. New for Senator club was held Wednesday evening in the law offices of Judge Walter Olds in the Old National bank building. Among the speakers were Captain W. A. Kelsey, Harry G. Hogan, Judge Walter Olds, Arthur W. Parry, Harry Dermody, E. A. Wagner, Norman Olds and E. K. Dorr.

The following letter from Mr. New on the question of preparedness was read:

"I am most certainly in favor of thorough preparedness, believing that the condition of our relations with more than one foreign power makes this imperative necessary. In this day of aeroplanes, the submarine, high powered rifles, swift battle cruisers and all sorts of things, the condition of the United States is, to my mind, such as to cause the gravest fear for what might happen if we were to be attacked by even one of the second-class powers, and all the sentiment and abhorrence of war that good men and women may very properly entertain is not going to do away with the necessity for proper and adequate preparedness for resistance of the unjust demands and encroachments of foreign powers."

A meeting of the New workers in the rural districts will be held in Judge Olds' office next Saturday afternoon. A meeting of the Seventh ward branch of the New-for-Senator club will be held Thursday evening in the Jones paint shop, on East Leith street. A similar meeting will be held at the De-mone home, in Lake township.

Charles R. Lane, candidate for the republican congressional nomination, spoke at Monroeville, Wednesday evening, confining his remarks principally to a discussion of the tariff and preparedness. The meeting was largely attended. Mr. Lane says that every day he is receiving new assurances of support from all parts of the district.

Hilgemann Speaks.
 Harry H. Hilgemann, candidate for the democratic congressional nomination, was the principal speaker, Wednesday evening, at a democratic meeting at Hoagland. Mr. Hilgemann said he believed the people were in sympathy with the administration and would give it their endorsement next November. Dr. J. L. Smith, former county auditor, presided.

Republican Love Feast.
 Fort Wayne will send a big delegation of republicans to the love feast to be held at Kendallville, Friday evening. The supporters of Bob Hannu have chartered a special car to be run over the Fort Wayne and Northwestern line and have also engaged the Elks' band. Supporters of Charles R. Lane and Prof. Lewis W. Fairfield are also planning for big demonstrations.

SPEED-WEIGHT NAMED AS A VITAL FACTOR

It Enters Into Calculations in All Modern Road-Building.

New York, Feb. 17.—"Speed-weight" is the name given by Col. E. A. Stevens, commissioner of public roads of New Jersey, and recently elected president of the American Road Builders' association, to a newly designated factor in road building which must be more carefully considered by highway engineers in the future. The rate of speed at which commodities of given weights can be carried over a road has a definite relation to the value of the road, the commodities to a community, in dollars and cents; and to construct roads which will stand under the present heavy automobile and motor truck traffic, a most careful study of "speed-weights" is required. It is expected that Colonel Stevens, in his address at the American Good Roads congress at Pittsburgh, Pa., February 28th, will place this problem squarely before the convention for highway officials and engineers to study.

The vast amount of money being spent every year in road and street construction and maintenance, amounting to several hundred million dollars, and the constantly growing necessity for a greater mileage of improved roads which will sustain modern traffic, and the rapid development of motor vehicles to handle both commodities and passengers at high speed, all tend to stimulate highway officials and engineers to a higher appreciation of the economic and scientific principles involved.

The Sixth American Good Roads congress, which includes the thirteenth annual convention of the American Road Builders' association, and the Seventh National Good Roads show, and which will be held at Pittsburgh, Pa., February 28th to March 3rd, is attracting unusual attention from the governors of the various states who have been invited to appoint delegates. Some governors have announced their intention to be present in person, and almost without exception, have announced their determination to appoint delegates who will certainly attend and take part in the proceedings of the congress. In many instances these delegates include officials of state highway departments, who are also members of the association. Mayors of a large number of cities have either appointed delegates or expressed their intention to do so.

Orville Rummel, of Kendallville, who has been in the Lutheran hospital for the past ten days, as a result of an accident which will cost him the sight of his left eye, is getting along nicely and expects to leave the hospital the first part of next week.

TODAY'S BEAUTY TALK

You can make a delightful shampoo with very little effort and for a very trifling cost if you get from your druggist a package of cantrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. Your shampoo is now ready. Just pour a little at a time on the scalp and rub briskly. This creates an abundance of thick, white lather that thoroughly dissolves and removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt. After rinsing, the hair dries quickly, with a fluffiness that makes it seem heavier than it is, and takes on a rich luster and a softness that makes arranging it a pleasure.—Advertisement.

Agony of Leg Sore Stopped by D.D.D.

Woman Tells Pitiful Story
 "I am the mother of 12 children. I have various ulcers on my leg at the birth of each child five years ago I used ointment that I made. I was laid up for nearly five weeks with a doctor attending me who did nothing but treat these kind of things.

Doctors told me to lie in bed, but where there is a big family one cannot do that. Then I heard about D.D.D. and as I used to hear my leg at night until it was a bleeding mass, I determined to try a bottle. I can't tell you the ease it gave me. I never used to sleep for the pain. Now I sleep as soundly as a baby. Thanks to the blessed D.D.D. I never expected it to cure. I only got it to take away the terrible itch. By degrees I saw the big sore getting smaller."

NOTES

Miss Jean Duffy, of Pittsburg, was the honor guest this afternoon at a thimble party of Miss Duffy's hosts, Miss Irene Miller, of West Creighton avenue. It was a Washington party and the national colors were used to remind the guests of the near approach of the twenty-second of the month. There were "hatched" place cards at the supper, red and white roses in a blue Japanese bowl for table decoration, red candles in candle holders tied with red tulle, and fancy baskets of nuts, all of which afforded the company much pleasure. Miss Miller's guests numbered a dozen.

Mrs. Herbert Miller, of Lake avenue, was hostess this afternoon for a lovely party to honor Miss Keplinger. A game of bridge was followed by serving of tempting things to eat and drink and beautiful decorations arranged by the Misses Flick. Pink roses were used in all the rooms and the supper tables held crystal vases filled with pink sweetpeas and forget-me-nots. The hostess presented her honor guest with a pretty gift as a pre-nuptial souvenir of the day. There were players for seven tables so Miss Keplinger had an opportunity to meet many of her nearest girlhood friends.

Miss Grace Koeley, of Baker street, invited a number of Miss Evelyn Lordier's friends to spend the evening at her home on Wednesday, all in honor of the latter young lady's approaching wedding day. Three colors were carried out in the decorations, pink, green and white. After playing a game of progressive bino in which Miss Lordier was the prize, the hostess passed writing materials with a suggestion that each one write a letter to the bride to be read one at a time by her while she is taking her wedding trip. An excellent supper was enjoyed late in the evening after the letters, all sealed and with the writer's name had been given to Miss Lordier. There were present, Misses Loretta Lordier, Stella Metz, Marie Somers, Ruth Koenig, Agnes Tholen, Carrie Ely, Georgia Rice, Lillian Carter, Marie Singleton, Adeline Keller, Nellie Braun, Ruth Kennedy, Mrs. John Eckrich.

The active members of the Duodecimo club held their annual luncheon at the Wayne hotel on Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock. All but two members were present and the two absent ones were kept away unavoidably. Covers were laid for thirty-eight. The table was handsomely decorated with pink carnations and set in a private dining room. The entertainment of the day consisted of two things aside from the elegant menu served. The club is studying Indiana, so each woman wore something to represent a county of the state and the others guessed what each was. Immediately following the banquet and its attendant fun over the county names and the costuming of some of the characters of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," a playlet adapted from the Eggleston novel was given. Mrs. Albert Schaaf wrote the lines and the characters represented were Mrs. Means by Mrs. J. N. Study, the Harbottle preacher by Mrs. Guy Mahurin, "Squire Hawkins by Mrs. C. E. McKeehan, Bud Means by Mrs. W. E. Davis, Miranda Hawkins by Mrs. Charles

Meigs. Lovely souvenirs of the luncheon were the place cards. They were water-color drawings and the work of the skillful hand of Mrs. Walter Griffiths.

Mrs. J. A. Greenland is going to her former home in Virginia soon for a visit of several weeks.

Mrs. O. E. Maxwell entertained an embroidery club of which she is a member Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Alva Gard and son Cedric, of Spy Run avenue, have returned from a two months' visit in Parsons, Kan.

The members of the Margaret Bottomo circle are to be guests at dinner on Friday evening of Miss Elsie Lee.

Mrs. Louis E. Martin, of South Wayne avenue, had as her guest on Wednesday Mrs. Lucy Thompson, of Bluffton.

Miss Hazel Pumphrey and her grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Pumphrey, have returned home from Celina, O., where they made an extended visit with relatives and friends.

Miss Florence Fleming has returned from a theatrical tour in which she took part as a dancer in a musical comedy production and will be with her mother, Mrs. Emma H. Fleming, for an indefinite length of time.

Paul Parks, who came here to complete his studies in the city high school, ending with the semester closing in February, will return to Chicago within a day or two to join his parents, who moved there last fall.

Mrs. George Philbrick gave a dinner party with covers for ten ladies at her home in Washington boulevard west on Wednesday evening to honor her guest, Miss Ruth Reed, of Oberlin, O. Jonquil was the floral decoration at the handsomely appointed table.

Miss Dorothy Sattler, of 312 Washington boulevard west, gave a dinner party on Wednesday at the English tearoom in honor of her guest, Mrs. Fred Gluss, of Hamlet, O. In the company were Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Stiles, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Timme, Mrs. Jack Wolff, Miss Marie Sattler and William Timme.

Invitations to parties to honor Mrs. Armando Breen are not all issued yet, but the following plans are definite: Miss Irene Lennon, a party at the New Palace Thursday evening; Miss Julia Bruman, at the same theater next Monday evening with a few friends; Miss Lucile Miller, at her home next Wednesday evening; Misses Matilda Boyce and Irma Bloe will combine their efforts at the Boyce home during the coming week, and Miss Mary Travis will be a hostess at a still later date at her home.

Mrs. E. T. Horton, of Prospect avenue, was honored on Wednesday afternoon by two of her friends, Mrs. J. E. Haubecker and Miss Martha Wilson, who invited a number of other friends to give a farewell party at the Herron home. There were thirty-five ladies present and they not only expressed their deep regret at the coming departure of Mr. and Mrs. Herron for their new home in Valhalla on the first of March, but they presented Mrs. Herron with many beautiful gifts and showered her with them as well as with good wishes.

Two new performers have been added to the cast to give "The Women Who Did," the play the Mary Penrose Wayne chapter of D. A. R. is to furnish as entertainment on Washington's birthday anniversary in Shrine temple. They are Miss Edith Hughes and Mrs. Gertrude

Greene Young. The proceeds from selling tickets to the performance are to be used by the society in its work of marking historical places about this city. It is not an invitation affairs and tickets can be bought of the chapter ladies or at Woodworth's drug store.

A leap year dinner party was given at the Wayne hotel on Wednesday evening by a number of young married couples. There were rapid place cards hearts for decoration of the table and other suggestions of leap year, and beauty in the form of a beautiful arrangement of red and white carnations for the table. Through the kindness of Mr. Peters dancing was enjoyed for a short time after the dinner. Participating were Mr. and Mrs. Will Grake, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Beall, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Honeck, Dr. and Mrs. Herman Michaels, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Zickgraf, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kieckley, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Feagles.

Lamle-Schuster. Miss Minnie S. Schuster and Mr. Gottlieb Lamle were married on Tuesday at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Schuster. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Philip Wambaughs and the attendants were Miss Clara Schuster, a sister to the bride, and Mr. W. B. Howe. The bride wore a beautiful dress of white crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The bridesmaid was dressed in a pale blue crepe de chine gown and her flowers were a bouquet of pink roses. A sumptuous wedding dinner was served later in the day after congratulations had been extended to the bride and groom by the relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Lamle are going to housekeeping at 1650 Oakland street.

Franklin School P.-T. Club. The parent-teacher club of the Franklin school will meet Friday afternoon and Dr. Bliss, of the state school, will give a short talk. Refreshments will be served after the program. All members of the district are cordially invited to be present.

SACRED HEART ACADEMY NOTES. Many Programs of Literary and Social Pleasure Given. February is proving to be a month of gaiety at Sacred Heart academy. Scarcely had the evening with "The Merchant of Venice" passed, than the faculty and students were invited to the reading of the second issue of the school paper, the "Fleur-Marie." Preceding the reading of the paper was a pretty contest of American poets for the laurel crown of excellence to be awarded by the Goddess of Liberty, alias Miss M. Kuebler. Personating each a poet, the Misses Bales, H. Kenny, C. Cotter, K. Lynn, C. Carroll, H. Bridge, M. Kiley, Y. Denoon, A. Homan and F. Narkter recited in turn a short patriotic poem, the prize being given to Francis Scott Key, the author of our national hymn, "The Star-Spangled Banner." The first half of the "Fleur-Marie" was then pleasingly read by Miss E. Bloom, after which Miss M. Michael cleverly rendered the amusing recitation, "When Ignorance Is Bliss." Miss C. Tobey in her usual clear voice then finished the interesting numbers of the paper. The evening's program closed by a charming discussion on the merits of the different national flowers by the Misses A. Murphy, C. Murphy, M. Michael, M. Berling, E. Bloom, M. Dillon, K. Golden and C. Tobey. St. Valentine's evening found the beautiful recreation room aglow with rosy lights and decorated in true valentine fashion the first academic and commercial classes presenting a pretty and amusing program. Miss B. Baltes opened the evening by an interesting account of the life of St. Valentine and the origin of the custom of sending valentines. Much merriment was created by the anglers in the valentine fish pond and the recipients of mail from the postoffice. A violin solo, "La Boheme," by Miss L. Jackson; a plaintive little song, "The Whippoorwill," by Miss L. Mallicka; "I'm Awakin' for You," with an encore, "I Love You Truly," by Miss J. Henry, varied the evening's fun and contributed greatly to the pleasure of the audience. A dance then filled in a gay hour.

AT THE MAJESTIC. "Twin Beds" Friday and Saturday.

Selwyn and Company, whose name is to a theatrical production what sterling is to silver, after their production of "Within the Law," "Under Cover," "The Show Shop," "The Lie," "Under Fire" and "Rolling Stones," will bring their laugh festival, "Twin Beds" from its run of fifty-two weeks in New York to the Majestic Friday and Saturday with a splendid cast of comedians.

"Twin Beds" is the joint work of Salisbury Field and Margaret Mayo, the latter the author of "Baby Mine," and it concerns itself with the harrowing experience of three couples who live in a big apartment house and through the first friendliness of one of their number, suddenly find that, try as they may, they cannot escape each other. In the scramble for peace and privacy, both of which recede steadily as the plot progresses, the characters in "Twin Beds" are incurably amusing.

AT KEITH PALACE. "FRESHIE'S INITIATION."

Kennedy and Hollis Have New One for Fort Wayne at Palace.

"Freshie's Initiation" is the new medium for the exploitation of the peculiar comedy abilities of Kennedy and Hollis, the original college boys. This skit, which is hot off the fire, will be introduced to Fort Wayne this afternoon as one of the headline attractions on the bill for the closing half of the week. Another skit on this same program that is calculated to renew one's youth is the childhood episode entitled "Yesterday," which is to be presented by Guy Rawson and Francis Claire.

Baron Lichter and his piano will supply fifteen minutes of music and laughs, while Angelo, Wiener and Dacey, the vastly different trio, will offer some flights in harmony arranged for them by Charles Pierce.

Victorine and Zolar, the interpretive dancers and singers, will present a delightful number featuring Ladans Duell, a pretentious effort, in which these two artists are to be seen at their very best. The Thaleros Circus is a comedy dog and pony act that the children especially will rave over. The bill closes Saturday evening with two performances.

AT THE TEMPLE. Fort Wayne theater-goers will have their final chance tonight to witness "The Ku Klux Klan" at the Temple theater. This hugely interesting tale of the reconstruction days in the south following the civil war has pleased hundreds of Fort Wayne theater patrons the past three nights. In addition to this splendid play tonight Temple patrons will get to see and hear a genuine, old-fashioned spellin' bee. He or she who spells down will get $5 in gold, and a number already have entered for it. A well-known local man will conduct the contest.

"The Red Circle," a story of mystery dealing with the operations of the Italian black-handers, will start a three days' run Friday night, with matinee Saturday.

AT THE JEFFERSON. THE SALAMANDER.

A Story of the Temptations That Befall a Girl in the City.

The current attraction at the Jefferson is "The Salamander," a picture of Owen Johnson's novel by the same name. When all the world has seen this play, all the world will be wiser—and, maybe, richer. It is a thrilling story, vividly and startlingly portrayed and will make a strong heart appeal to every man, woman and child everywhere. It reminds men that they may be shackled to a Salamander and not know it—that they must trade as shrewdly after dark as before—that only the "transaction" where the heart is given in exchange for thrills, beauty and interest—the story is intensified by liv-

AT THE GRAND

"In the Glare of the Lights" is the title of the three-reel feature at the Grand today for the last showing. Francis X. Bushman as Glen Duval, a worker in the steel mills, desires to become an actor. Brandigan, who is working in the same mill, is jealous of Glen because of the fact that Joe's sweetheart, Martha, appears to like young Duval too much.

One morning on his way to work Glen finds the unconscious form of Wanda Dawson, the actress, by the railroad track.

That evening, when Glen returns from the mill, he tells Wanda of his ambitions for the stage. She encourages him, and later Wanda's manager appears and engages him as an actor. Glen falls in love with Wanda, is afraid to declare it because his position is so much below hers. One evening Brandigan is unable to appear. The manager seizes on Glen as a last resort. Glen's work is a great success.

Brand offers Wanda the chance to start in another production, just then Glen enters to declare his love and denounces both and returns to the mills.

In the steel mills Brandigan has been

Indianapolis, Feb. 17.—Hogs owned by Lola Pickett, in Grant county, escaped through a gate in a fence along the traction line of the Indiana Railway and Light company and wandered on the track of the Toledo, St. Louis & Western, which was adjacent to the traction line. There was no fence between the railroad track and the interurban track. A railroad train came along and killed the hogs.

The woman sued the railroad company for damages, on the ground that the two companies were required by law to have a fence between the tracks. She alleged that if there had been a fence the hogs could not have wandered on the railroad track. The Grant circuit court decided against her, and the appellate court affirmed this decision.

The court held that the maintenance of a fence between the land and the adjacent right-of-way was all that was required by the law.

HERE'S WHAT Mlle. Fashion Will Look Like This Spring.

By Betty Brown. Mlle. Fashion all dressed up in her new spring suit makes her bow to you! You'll notice that the various turbans in her wardrobe are small—oh, very small and fit with the snugness of a nightcap.

Her collar is high—very high. The higher the collar the more style to the "en semble," says Mlle. Fashion. Her tailored suit of pale tan pinseal is short enough to show every bit of her light brown kid boots.

Her coat slopes in gracefully at the bust line, and it's rather long and has more than the usual flare to it. The vest is "old blue" satin piped with tau color suede, and the hat is blue suede with a draped band of tan faille.

The two important "Paris hints" this spring wardrobe offers are—hats are high, and close fitting, and collars are not merely collars, they are "choke-

U. S. GIRLS, BEWARE OF PRINCE OF WALES—COUNTESS SENDS WARNING HE'S NOT UP TO AMERICAN STANDARD.

BY COUNTESS RUSSELL

In an interview with Mary Boyle O'Reilly, London, Feb. 17.—I can see how the Prince of Wales could marry an American, for American women are charming-beautiful-witty; but, frankly, I cannot see why an American girl should marry the Prince of Wales!

Name the Anglo-American marriages which have proved worth while—for the bride. How many American peeresses are living with their husbands? How many silently thank their stars—and their shrewd marriage settlements—that they are not?

The plan to unite an all-important scion of degenerating physique with sound stock is not new. King Milan of Serbia—himself a stupid, drunken figurehead of royalty—realized that his dwarfed, ill developed son and heir, Alexander, bore all the principle stigma of degeneration.

The king therefore decided that the crown prince should marry an American! Her clean vitality would strengthen the rotten constitution hereditary in all royal families.

Milan demanded only that the bride bring a dowry of $20,000,000, of which he should appropriate one half, the bridegroom one quarter, and the remaining $5,000,000 to be spent on agents' commissions, palace furnishings and wedding expenses.

Three trans-Atlantic candidates for queenhood were discovered, but their hard-headed fathers insisted the stipulated dowry should be settled on the American queen and her male heirs. Milan's practical plan fell through. Alexander died childless, and his dynasty ended.

If you look at the photographs of all the reigning houses you will see how closely the members resemble each other. All royalties are too nearly related. Dog fanciers know that Japanese sleeve dogs, through being inbred, have no brains or power at all.

A progressive loss of mental power marks almost every ruling house in Europe.

Contrast the crown princes of Europe, all cousins and the children of cousins; the czarevitch stricken with a mysterious disease, the heir of Prussia a blood maniac, the Prince of Spain deaf, his brother deaf and dumb, the heir apparent of Austria descended from the mad Hapsburgs.

In all Europe there is only one royal family of healthy and beautiful children—the Italian king's. King Victor, an undersized, physically handicapped son of the usual royal father, wisely wedded Beolna of Montenegro, daughter of a peasant prince.

Physically the Prince of Wales is pitifully slight—head ill shaped and bony, arms and legs like pipe-stems. Intellectually, he is not clever. Those who know him best testify he knows his limitations, and shrinks from being kind.

Given sufficient spunk, the Prince of Wales could contract a secret marriage with a non-royalty, as his forebears have done ere this. But the union would not be legal unless the king gave his approval. Neither George nor Mary would ever consent, the heir to the crown would be forced to contract a royal marriage. What American girl would risk the danger of finding herself a plural wife?

The late king, Edward VII.—genial, poor in ready money, always in debt to "generous" German Jews, and for 50 years the quarry of designing women—once said, while watching the present Prince of Wales: "There goes the last king of England."

Why, then, should an American girl with life all before her risk her happiness to stand in the shadow of a threatened throne?

sleeping porches. The Anti-Tuberculosis society provides the water and gas and lunches for children who can not afford to pay for their own. The society also pays the car fare of children who are too poor to pay their car fare. In some instances the society gives the children the sleeping sacks.

From All Parts of City
The children in each of the open air schools are from all parts of the city. The classes at the Technical school are kept filled from a waiting list. Children in the public schools are examined by physicians, and when a child is found to be suffering from a mild stage of tuberculosis it is placed on the waiting list for the Technical school.

School No. 3, which has two open air rooms and the Irvington school, which has one room, do not take children who have tuberculosis. If any of the children there show signs of developing tuberculosis they are examined oftener than the others, and if tuberculosis develops the child is sent to the Technical school.

"Backward, dull, nervous children are bettered if they are taken from the regular school and placed in an open air school," Miss Meyers said. "We found soon after opening the school, however, that children in an open air school must be fed more than children in the regular day school. To provide for this we set apart a period, beginning at 10:15 each morning for a lunch to be served."

Parents Could Benefit
Miss Meyers said parents of the children might also be in better health if they would adopt the principle of being out-of-doors more. She said a general campaign of education beginning with the children would be the only way to effect that plan. She told the social workers that not much headway could be gained by accepting only children affected with tuberculosis. For that reason the open air rooms at school No. 3 and at the Irvington school were opened, she said.

The parents think the children will get too cold when they first enter the fresh air school, Miss Meyers said. She declared it was difficult to make the parents realize the work done, but that after a few months the parents and the several other children in the family wished they could enter the open air schools.

Mrs. Huston said there are two rooms at school No. 3, which are used as fresh air rooms. "Forty children are in the school, and the usual studies are taught. Mrs. Huston said at least ten more children could be cared for in her school.

Deep Breathing More Natural
Miss Thompson, of the Technical school, said that deep breathing became more natural in an open air school than in the regular schoolroom. The cold air makes the children breathe deeper, she said. Cross, irritable children quiet down after being in the open air school a short time, she said. The children at the Technical school sleep for an hour after their noon lunch.

H. S. Gruver, assistant superintendent of the schools, made a short talk before the social workers. He said that in accordance with a resolution of the city school board the parents of forty children in two consecutive grades in any school could have an open air room if a teacher could be obtained to keep the additional expense as low as possible.

An effort will be made to push the preparation and completion of the monument so as to have the unveiling ceremonies by next October. So far as contributors have expressed themselves, Swinney park is preferred for the location.

THE PERRY A. RANDALL MONUMENT COMMITTEE

Issues Its Call for Subscriptions

To the Men and Women of Fort Wayne and to All the Friends of Perry A. Randall:

It has been found that a practically unanimous sentiment exists in Fort Wayne that the memory of Perry A. Randall should be honored and perpetuated in this community by the erection of a suitable monument, to be surmounted by an heroic bronze bust, to be located in one of our city parks.

His unselfish devotion to public interests and his rare ability to efficiently perform public service were his marked characteristics. When the interests of Fort Wayne were involved, he spared neither time, effort nor money in the service that he rendered. He was always a volunteer; he never waited to be drafted. Obstacles did not discourage nor defeat dishearten him. Through all the years of his residence here, Fort Wayne has had no citizen who excelled him in usefulness and public devotion.

In the erection of this suggested monument to Mr. Randall, Fort Wayne will not only honor him, but will equally honor herself by thus showing her appreciation of his splendid citizenship.

At a meeting called for the furtherance of this matter, we were appointed a Committee to secure the necessary subscriptions for the completion of this work. About $2,000 will be required, but $2,500 or even more, would be better. A limit of $50.00 has been fixed as the highest amount any person will be allowed to subscribe and a number of our more wealthy citizens have each already subscribed that amount. It is, however, the desire of the Committee that all of our citizens should be afforded an opportunity of having a part in the preparation of this memorial.

The payment of no subscription will be asked unless a sufficient amount is subscribed for a monument of the character indicated. The success of the movement, however, seems to be already assured. Of twelve men asked to subscribe $50.00 not one declined. Other subscriptions of that amount are expected, while many others will be needed of $25.00; while from men of smaller and of small means will come subscriptions of from $1.00 to $15.00, and measured by their ability to give, these smaller subscriptions, in many instances, will be greater than the larger ones.

At the bottom of this call will be found a subscription blank, which kindly cut out, fill in with the amount that you desire to give, sign it and send it to Mr. Charles McCulloch, Treasurer, or to any member of this Committee. Any sum from $1.00 to $50.00 will be gladly received and the proper public credit given. Please do not delay action a single day as it is hoped to close up the matter within a week. Do not fail to have a generous part in this testimonial to one whom every citizen of Fort Wayne is so much indebted. Men and women are alike interested in this movement and the assistance of all classes of our citizens is confidently expected.

TELL OF WORK IN OPEN AIR SCHOOLS

Pupils Gain Physically and Mentally, is Verdict of Teachers.

Indianapolis, Feb. 17.—Even teachers and nurses in the city's open-air schools have increased in weight according to three teachers who talked to social workers on "The Fresh Air School in the Anti-Tuberculosis Fight," in the rooms of the charity organization society in the Baldwin block. The meeting was for the purpose of explaining the real need of the open-air schools and to let the social workers know of the work accomplished by the schools.

According to the speakers, Mrs. Louise Kendall Huston, of School No. 3, in Rural street, north of Washington, and the Misses Mary E. Meyers and Ella Thompson, of the open-air school at the Technical high school grounds, there have been surprising results in physical and mental strength of sick children and normal children in the schools. Only children suffering from mild stages of tuberculosis are in the Technical school, and at school No. 3 there are only two sick children, the others being physically normal.

Children Gain in Weight
Miss Meyers said the Technical open-air school opened last year with an enrollment of twenty-two children. Those children gained an average of 7.83 pounds each during the time they were in the school, she said. This year the enrollment is fifty. The gain in pounds for each child is only 5.99, being decreased to some extent through the rapid gaining of normal size of the children who were there last year and who returned again this year.

The Indianapolis school board employs the teachers and has built two

MY TIRED FEET ACHED FOR "TIZ"

Let your sore, swollen, aching feet spread out in a bath of "Tiz"

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a 25 cent box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.—Advertisement.

CLEARY HEADS SHOP LEAGUE; GOFF SECRETARY

Shop League Organized With Eight Clubs. Mart Cleary and Ora Goff Named Officers.

Electing Mart Cleary president and Ora Goff secretary-treasurer, the Fort Wayne Industrial league was organized at The Sentinel office Wednesday night as an eight-club exclusive shop league and made plans for the coming season. Although eight clubs were represented, one of them did not come within what the managers considered the scope of the league and the organization was made with seven teams, the eighth to be decided on within a week.

The entries are as follows:

Fort Wayne Rolling Mills—Charles Miller, director.

Pennsylvania Company—B. H. Hamm, director.

Dudlo Manufacturing Company—James Crowe, director.

S. P. Bowser Company—George F. Kephling, director.

Wayne Knitting Mills—Frank Rainey, director.

Western Gas Construction Company—C. Sunderlin, director.

Fort Wayne Electric Works—F. O'Brien, director.

Enthusiastic Meeting.

There was enthusiasm sticking out all over the meeting, and the delegates jammed The Sentinel editorial rooms. Nearly forty shop and factory fans were on the job, with the seven authorized delegates.

Mart Cleary talked to the shop boys and offered his assistance in any way possible, but declined to accept the presidency. However, as all other candidates had withdrawn before the meeting and he was the choice of all the managers, he was persuaded to take the office for a month. His election was unanimous.

Mart Cleary has been prominent in Fort Wayne baseball circles for nearly twenty years, first as a player and later as a manager and booster. He played ball on some of the best teams that ever sailed out of Fort Wayne under independent colors, and later organized and managed the Shamrocks, making the wearers of the green the fastest small-town team in the north end of the state, and holding it to that reputation for nearly ten years.

As a business man Mr. Cleary has made a success, and he has thousands of friends who will get behind and boost him in making the shop league boom.

Ora Goff, the new secretary, holds a position in the offices of the S. P. Bowser company, and since the years of the old shop league's organization has been an enthusiastic booster. He has played ball in his time, but in recent years has devoted a great deal of attention to the managing of teams. He is an excellent man and his election to office of secretary-treasurer meets with the popular approval of shop fans.

A Banner Year.

The reports from the shops indicate that this will be the biggest year in the history of local amateur ball. Every representative at last night's meeting came with stories of wild enthusiasm. At Bowser's everybody is talking baseball and the management has become so thoroughly enthused that it is backing up the team financially and offering any other assistance it can give. The Knitting mills and Rolling mills are jumping at each other's throats. At the Western Gas everybody is up and going and preparing for the coming season. The Pennsylvania is gradually whipping itself into shape, and to quote Director R. H. Hamm, "right now there are enough pitchers and catchers to make up a team of them alone." The Electric works boys are pretty well organized already, and a spirit at the faces of the fellows who attended the meetings gives one a good working knowledge of what they are doing at the lights, for there are a number of old time professionals in the crowd.

The only new arrival in the shop league lists is the Dudlo Manufacturing company, a shop that has been in existence only a few years, but which already employs several hundred men. Judging from the reports brought to last night's meeting by the delegates from this company the employees are a gang of baseball enthusiasts ready to back their team to the last ditch.

Yep, it will be a tight little race alright.

METEOR MURRAY BURNS FRESH TRAIL THROUGH EASTERN COURTS

R. LINDLEY MURRAY

MURRAY IN ACTION, SHOWING HIS DEADLY SOUTHPAW VOLLEYING.

(By Harold Johnson.)

Murray, the Meteor, is burning another crimson trail along the Atlantic seaboard.

After a year's absence from the east the sensational Californian has returned to New York in quest of fresh tennis laurels. In his maiden efforts at the seventeenth annual national indoor court championships the native son—Robert Lindley Murray, to apply his full moniker, merely warmed up by disposing of G. Carleton Shaffer, twice indoor doubles champion; Carleton Y. Smith, Cotton states premier and King Smith, daddy of all the Seventh regiment, New York national guard. While thus engaged the Meteor won thirty-six games and lost sixteen. Moreover he won his own service every time but twice.

A well-mell blistering style makes Murray the magnet wherever he appears. Just as some pictures point their fingers at you wherever you go so the tall-patented Stanford graduate keeps your gaze riveted upon his dashing, reckless play. Back in 1914 when the Meteor was on his most remarkable rampage he drove more than one ground keeper to despair and on every court where Murray appeared his sensational service and net play attended by rushes played hoth with the turf. In fact, Murray made the whole forecourt bald. Consequently the ground keepers were worked overtime sowing fresh seed.

Modesty is another of Murray's traits. After an early round of the 1914 metropolitan championship several players were homebound. Murray, with a large cap pulled down over his face was not recognized by his comrades. "Looks to me as if Fred Alexander will win the championship," Murray ventured to Abraham Bassford, Jr.

"Don't forget that boy Murray," was Bassford's response. "He's a wonder and I'll bet that he comes through." "Oh, he's a false alarm; he won't last," blandly replied Murray grinning. Murray won the metropolitan.

St. Paul's Will Meet St. Mary's In First Game of Championship Series

Tonight's the night.

Two flocks of lively Saints will cavort tonight in the Concordia college gym in the first of the big city series games. St. Paul's meet St. Mary's, and both clubs are on their toes, both expect to win and both have big following to root for them. This will be one of the most interesting games of the season in that the two teams that come together both have performed so well that it is hard for anyone to come close to picking a winner.

Ralph Miller has been chosen to referee. Miller is a clean player and in his work with St. Patrick's has proven that he believes in clean work. He never has shown the slightest tendency toward roughneck tactics himself while playing, although forty-two centimeter bombardments have been going on all around him. The going tonight ought to be good square basketball.

Richmond will work for St. Mary's to-night and Innscher will be back in the Walther league uniform to substitute if he is needed. The Concordia gym has had its seating capacity nearly doubled, and the crowds will be able to find seating space without difficulty. It will be a great game and full of exciting situations and should drag out a record crowd.

600 TEAMS ENTER.

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 17.—Six hundred teams have entered in the American bowling contest which begins here March 4, according to a statement by A. Langtry, secretary of the congress, who is here in personal charge of the event. Entries close tomorrow night, President E. J. Ryan came here from Detroit last night and turned in entry fees for twenty-five teams already gathered in the Michigan metropolis. This number will be increased by twenty Mr. Ryan said. Announcement last night was that Cleveland will have thirty-five teams. Toledo promises 200 and a large percentage of that number is already in.

Among those who will attend are Senator George McLean, of Connecticut; Henry S. Graves, United States forester; E. C. Hinchshaw, chief game warden of Iowa; George D. Pratt, chief game commissioner, New York; Samuel Evans, St. Charles, Ill., and Norman McClintock, naturalist.

Plans for conservation of wild life, started last year, will be extended.

The average adult inhales about one gallon of air a minute.

SURE, VIRTUE IS ITS OWN REWARD.

George Mullin is to pitch for Kokomo this year. Bado Myers is in the backwoods running Muskegon, Roger Bresnahan is coaching the Toledo high school boys and Franck Chance is out on the west coast.

MUSKEGON SURELY POSSESSES THE PEP

Will Put Up an Awful Wad of Money to Get Baseball.

Muskegon, Mich., Feb. 17.—Frantic over their opportunity to break into the Central league, and determined to show that no city in the circuit, although all of them are larger, so far as population goes, than Muskegon, the directors of the Muskegon club at a meeting held last night at the chamber of commerce offices, decided to locate the local park immediately adjacent to the southern limits of the city.

The grounds will occupy two entire city blocks, the move necessitating a legal proceeding being brought in Circuit Judge James E. Sullivan's court to close Clinton street, which bisects the property. The ground occupied by the venture alone entails an expenditure of $18,000.

This, with the elaborate stands and other details to be attended to, will mean an investment of from $25,000 to $30,000 for Central league baseball for Muskegon, an expenditure never before equalled. It is believed in the history of the national pastime in a city of this size, as Muskegon's population is only around the 35,000 mark.

The baseball tract is located alongside Peck boulevard, running between Muskegon and Muskegon Heights, which is one of the finest automobile roads in western Michigan. It is bounded by Peck boulevard, Laketon and Holbrook avenues and Jiroch street.

The obtaining of this ground would have been an impossibility had it not been for the sportsmanlike spirit of the two men who owned the property, William Harper and F. D. Smith. The former, who has been engaged in the greenhouse business for years, is forced to raise his home and his plant to make room for the baseball grounds. He accepted a price for his portion of the tract that is more than reasonable. F. D. Smith, an insurance dealer and real estate man, sold his part of the grounds at a similar price.

The entire project, which practically insures the financial success of Central league pastime in Muskegon, was put through by Charles W. Marsh, president of the club.

In connection with the club grounds and on two sides of the baseball park will be located a public playground, 100 by 600 feet, and a public picnic grove, the same dimensions, upon which there are now and will be located enormous oak trees, furnishing ample shade. Elaborate equipment for each of these smaller parks is to be installed.

The ball park itself will be 600 feet square, and will include a grandstand that will seat 2,500, bleacher space for an equal number and auto parking room for not less than 100 machines. Shower baths, dressing rooms and all other details will be installed below the main section of the grandstand, which will be built in the latest and most up-to-date manner.

Work on removing the small oak grove and other growth from the ball grounds was begun this morning, and will be rushed to completion in order that the park may be completed in plenty of time for the opening of the coming season.

A small pile of rags in the basement of the new Riegel building on West Jefferson street caused departments 1 and 2 to make a run to the building at 7:15 o'clock Wednesday evening. There was no loss.

MR. J. COULON IS THE ROMANTIC BOY

He Wears Same Pants to Fight in for Eleven Years.

When Johnny Coulon, ex-bantam champion, essays his comeback role at Columbus with Frankie Dean as his opponent, the former champ will wear a pair of frayed navy blue fighting trunks. They were presented Johnny eleven years ago at the Chicago Athletic association after Coulon had won an amateur title. He has worn the trunks in every engagement since that time and had 125 battles.

Victory, as a rule, attended Johnny while he was milling in these togs and even though he ran afoul defeat June 9, 1911, and lost his crown to Kid Williams, he is going to again don the trunks and stick to them in all future combats.

Johnny also regards a piece of whalebone given him by his father, as an omen of good luck. Coulon, Sr., deceased, used the whalebone between rounds to scrape foam from Johnny's tongue, thereby easing his breathing apparatus.

Stanley Ketchell was a great believer in the good luck to be derived from rubbing the "hump" on a hunchback.

Valentine (the original Knockout) Brown once traveled around with a hunchback called Louie. The latter brought the pride of New York's east side unbounded good fortune a few years back.

Ketchell, learning of the Kayo's little shipmate, took him to the ringside in New York one night when Willie Lewis was billed to tangle with the Michigan wildcat. Ketchell rubbed the "hump" before the fight and Lewis went down for the count early in the second round.

Then there's the case of Ray Bronson, Indianapolis gladiator, now out of commission. Bronson, who once spilled Pauley McFarland in New Orleans, at times insisted that his seconds wear blue jerseys on which the name of Bronson was boldly conspicuous.

Appellate Court Says Evidence Does Not Support Judgment on Fraud.

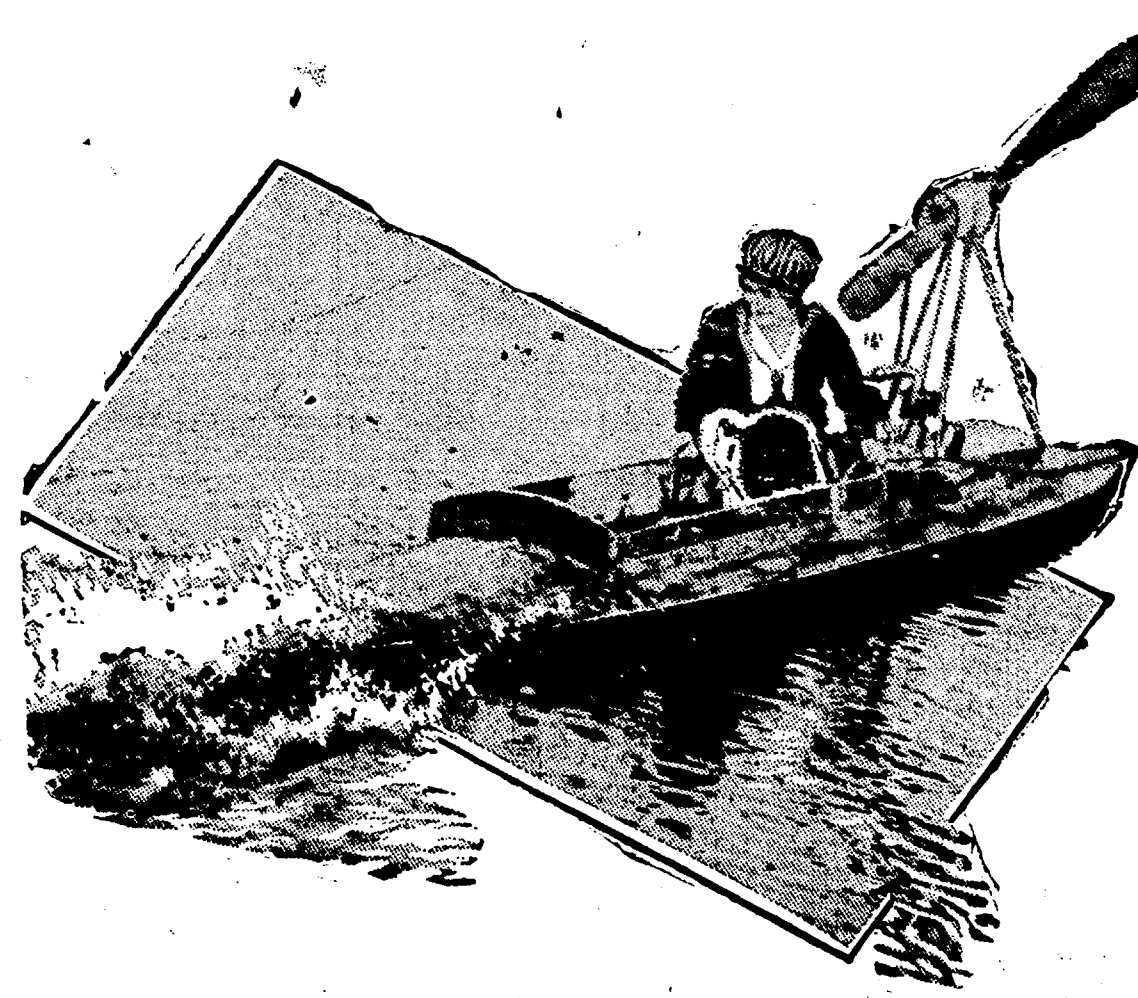

Indianapolis, Feb. 17.—The appellate court has reversed the Huntington circuit court for annulling for fraud a contract of sale by which Edgar Shell bought a second-hand traction engine of the Aultman & Taylor Machinery company. The engine had not been acquired by the company at the time of sale but it was on a trade of a new engine for it at the time Shell agreed to buy it.

By the terms of the sale to Shell he paid $100 cash and gave four notes of $100 each for the engine. The appellate court says that the action is founded on fraud, but that whatever defects there may have been in the boiler of the engine at the time of the sale, there was no showing that there was any fraud on the part of the company or its agents in misleading Shell to buy it, and as the judgment rests on fraud, the evidence does not support it.

PASSES AWAY ON HER BIRTH ANNIVERSARY

Mrs. Mary Ellen Casteel
Dies at the Age of 76 Years.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Casteel, widow of the late George Casteel, died at 11:45 o'clock Wednesday evening at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Gaskill, 605 Hough street, on her seventy-sixth birth anniversary. Two years ago she suffered a stroke of paralysis and since that time she had been in failing health. Two weeks ago, however, she sustained a fall in the house. Since that time she grew weaker and weaker until death followed.

Born in Wayne county, Ohio, February 16, 1840, she came to Fort Wayne thirty years ago and had resided here ever since. She became widely known throughout the city and her demise comes as a shock to many. She was a member of Calvary L. B. church and active in the affairs of that congregation. Her many acts of charity will never be forgotten.

She is survived by three children—Austin Casteel, of St. John's, Mich.; Mrs. Nannie Morgan and Mrs. Margaret Gaskill, both of Fort Wayne; five grandchildren, one great-grandchild, three brothers, Cyrus, A. H. and Lehman Smedley, all of Wayne county, Ohio.

Funeral services Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, Rev. J. W. Borkert officiating; interment at Lindenwood.

SMITH.

Mrs. Caroline F. Smith, widow of E. J. Smith and one of the pioneer residents of Allen county, died Wednesday afternoon at her home in Arcola at the age of ninety years. Death resulted from a stroke of paralysis sustained by the aged woman but a few days before.

Mrs. Smith was born near Watertown, N. Y., April 22, 1825, and when but seventeen years of age was married to Lyman Johnson, the date being Oct. 17, 1842. One son was born, Lyman Johnson, who lives in Whitley county. The husband died soon after. Mrs. Smith came to Fort Wayne 68 years ago. She taught school with great success in the Bullard and Holmes schools in Abbot township and in a few months she married for the second time, her husband being Frederick Fellows and her marriage taking place on July 29, 1848. Two daughters were born to that union, one of which died in infancy. The other daughter, Mary Lydia Fellows, married later a Mr. Meiser, and four children survive her.

Bereaved for the second time Mrs. Fellows later became the wife of Mr. Smith, to whom she was married on March 4, 1867, and who departed this life on May 4, 1903. No children were born to this union so that Mr. Johnson is the only child who survives her. There are a number of grandchildren: Mrs. James A. Turner, of Fort Wayne; Miss Bessie Meiser, of Richmond; Jesse Meiser, of California; and Clarence Rhodes, of Abbot township; Mrs. Rebecca Johnson Hively, Mrs. Nettie Johnson Hasty and Alva Johnson, all of Whitley county. There are seven great-grandchildren. Mrs. W. Stouder, of Arcola, is an adopted daughter when Mrs. Smith took to her home to care for while she was Mrs. Fellows. A devoted friend and housekeeper for the aged lady was Miss Fannie Jefferies, who has lived with Mrs. Smith for thirteen years.

Funeral services Sunday morning at 10 o'clock from the M. E. church at Arcola; interment at Lindenwood.

MERTZ.

George Henry Mertz, aged seventy-seven years, a retired contractor died Wednesday afternoon at the family home, 1109 Franklin avenue. He was born in Russia, but came to America in 1869. Twenty years previous to coming to Fort Wayne he had resided in Bluffton.

His wife preceded him in death thirteen years ago. Mr. Mertz was a member of the Baptist church. Surviving him leaves seven children: Edward, William, Fred and Otto, of this city; Mrs. Emma Withrow, of Elkhart; Mrs. Pearl Martinez, of this city; and Reinhold Mertz, of Fort Wayne; twenty-one grandchildren, one brother and two sisters, residing in Europe, and another brother living in South America.

CAPTURE OF CRONES NOW BELIEVED NEAR

Alleged Chicago Banquet Poisoner is Seen in Boston.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Jean Crones, accused of putting poison in the soup served at the banquet at which Archbishop Mundelein and hundreds of other prominent persons were guests, has been seen in Boston, according to reports reaching officials here today. The Chicago authorities have been in communication with eastern detectives and Crones' arrest is expected soon.

It was said the Chicago officials were informed that Crones was seen at the south terminal in Boston last night. Detectives today set about searching for details of the letter written to the New York Times by a man who signed the name "Jean Crones." They said information gathered here tallied with the acts explained in the alleged confession.

Presence of a second poison mentioned in the Crones letter as having been put in the soup served at the banquet was discovered today in tests by the city chemists. The poison found was of a metallic nature, according to chemists which would quickly induce excessive nausea and so tend to counteract the effect of the other poison mentioned with it.

CALLED GREAT VICTORY.

Paris, Feb. 17.—The capture of the great Turkish stronghold of Erzerum by the Russians is declared by the French newspapers this morning as the best item of news for the allies in many months. The military experts dwell upon the importance of the capture, declaring that it gives the Russians the key to Asia Minor and is a victory which will inevitably have far reaching consequences.

Constantinople, Feb. 17.—The losses of one of the British expeditions in Mesopotamia in a battle with the Turks near Batia, west of Korna, amounted to 2,000 officers and men, according to an official announcement given out by the Turkish war department under date of Feb. 16. The statement also says that the Russians lost 5,000 men in killed in a three day battle on the Caucasian front.

TAKES PESSIMISTIC VIEW.

Effect of Breach With U. S. Would Be Serious for Germans.

London, Feb. 17.—An Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company today says the manager of one of the greatest German shipping companies in an interview in the Bremen Tagblatt expresses a most pessimistic opinion concerning the effects of a possible breach of relations between Germany and the United States. This shipper, who, the dispatch says, is believed to be Albert Ballin, director general of the Hamburg-American Steamship company, is quoted as follows:

"A breach of Germany's relations with America would have a most serious effect. All America's money and munitions would be at the disposal of the enemy. We should have to take over the feeding of the Belgians and America's attitude probably would induce other neutrals to attack us. All our ships would finally be interned in American ports. This would represent taking away enormous wealth from us. Our plight would be most difficult. When the war is over Germany will have to replenish her stocks of raw materials. Do not let us entertain any illusions with regard to England. She will continue commercial warfare long after military operations are over. She will take away all our trade with South Africa and Australia and it will take years for our passenger service to reach a condition anything like that which existed before the war."

NEW LAW CATCHES ONE LAZY HUSBAND

Homer Young Will Work for Six Months on Roads of County.

The "lazy husband" act of the last legislature has laid its grip on one improvident father and in consequence Homer Young will spend the next six months at labor on the roads of Allen county or on other public work under the auspices and direction of the county commissioners. Young was tried in the circuit court Thursday before Judge John W. Eggeman under the late statute, was found guilty, fined $1 and costs and given six months in the county jail. Judge Eggeman will direct the county commissioners to give Young employment for which he will be paid $1 a day and this money will go to the support of his children. Young was arrested in Toledo a few days ago, given a preliminary hearing in the city court and bound over to the circuit court. His case is flagrant. His wife testified against him in the circuit court and made it as easy for her delinquent spouse as possible. Young offered to take his wife and children back to Toledo with him, but the court did not trust him and imposed the sentence.

Emory Yocum Is Acquitted.

After being in deliberation an hour and a quarter a circuit court jury Wednesday evening returned a verdict acquitting Emory Yocum of a charge of child neglect. The verdict was a disappointment to the prosecutor's office. Yocum's offense being deemed flagrant, it was shown that during the past year he had contributed a total of $50 to the support of his divorced wife and the three children he was alleged in the affidavit to have neglected. Mrs. Yocum is obliged to work constantly, had much sickness in the family and two of her five children are now ill. Neighbors testified that they had been giving imperative assistance to Mrs. Yocum at different times. Yocum testified that he had been unable to earn more than $2 a week at any time and that for periods he worked for his board. He had been staying, until his arrest, the greater part of the time at his mother's home in Winamac. He was found guilty of a similar charge over a year ago in the circuit court and Special Judge Edward O'Rourke sentenced him to one to seven years in the penitentiary but suspended it on Yocum's promise to faithfully obey the court's order to contribute $7 a week to the support of his children. The failure of this prosecution is viewed with misgiving because it will be likely to lead all such offenders to demand a jury trial and obtain immunity for vagabond and vicious fathers who would not be able to fool the courts with their clapping. Yocum was prosecuted under the "lazy husband" act, and if found guilty could have been compelled to work on the highways or other county improvements. The $1 a day wages the law allows going to the support of his family. Yocum was defended by Herbert L. Somers, county attorney for the poor.

APPROVE PLANS FOR GRADE SEPARATION

Coombs Street Subway is Ready for Council's Ratification.

The board of works at a meeting with officials of the New York, Chicago, and St. Louis (the Nickel Plate) railway Thursday forenoon approved the railroad's plans and estimates for grade separation at Coombs street and the matter will go to the city council for approval at the next meeting of that body. Those present at the meeting were Mayor W. J. Hosey, Board Members R. E. Kelly, F. E. Singrey and Henry Hilgeman, City Attorney Guy Colerick and City Engineer F. M. Randall, for the city, and Division Superintendent W. F. Waterson, General Agent Sol K. Blair and Chief Engineer Hart for the Nickel Plate. The plans provide for a subway with a 12½ foot clearance, two seven-foot sidewalks and two 18-foot driveways. The approaches will reach established grade at the first alley south of Liberty street on the south side and at Cochran street on the north side. The Nickel Plate in order to get the stipulated clearance will have to elevate its tracks five feet at the point of separation and this will necessitate changing the grade for near a half mile in each direction. The total cost of the work in which the railroad and city will participate will be $36,300. The city's work will cost $20,500 on the approaches and for the subway proper there will be an expense of $15,800, which the city and railroad will bear in proportions of 25 and 75 per cent. respectively. The Nickel Plate will incur an expense of $9,000 for changing the grade of its tracks. A stipulation in the specifications is that all the earth taken from the excavation shall be carried to the Coombs street bridge and deposited as the board of works may direct.

SEWER REPAIRS COMPLETED.

The Moellering Construction company on Wednesday evening completed repairs on the collapsed portion of the new sewer built a short time ago to connect the Morton street and Tecumseh street main sewers with the sewage lift pumps in Lakeside. The collapse of the sewer more than two weeks ago forced the shutting down of the pumps and caused sewage to back into cellars and as is the main incident that brought to a crisis the strained situation between the people of Lakeside and Mayor W. J. Hosey's administration. The pumps are now ready for operation whenever another rise of water in the Maumee compels a closing of the valves in the sewer mains.

JOHN D'S MIGHTY MILLIONS LIE OPEN TO "MOTHER" JONES IN HER LIFE-FOR-LIFE PLAN.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Can the Rockefeller millions give a "life for a life?" John D. Rockefeller, jr., thinks so. He is trying to obtain the freedom of Herman Copes, branded the "worst boy in the country" and under life sentence in Joliet penitentiary, educate him and offer him to society in restitution for the life of Harry Snyder, victim of the Ludlow mine riots—called the "best little lad in Ludlow."

A bullet a state militiaman sent into the heart of the 12-year-old Snyder boy at Ludlow, April 21, 1913, may be the force that will open prison doors to Copes, a farm lad, in Illinois, who on the day of Snyder's death confessed to a triple murder.

Copes, at 14, was convicted for the murder of Mrs. Maude Sleep, a woman for whom he worked on a farm at Plano, Ill. The two Sleep children shared their mother's fate and died at the hands of their playmate. Herman was convicted on his own confession.

On the Plano farm Copes toiled from 6:30 in the morning until 8 o'clock at night. Medical experts say he was not very bright, that he inherited bad tendencies and there were no good influences in the boy's home to offset his heritage. The claim was made that hard work deranged the boy's mind.

Mrs. Nora Leo Turner has resumed charge of the dispensary at the General Electric works, after a two months' vacation, during which she made a trip to California and later visited friends in Michigan and southern Indiana. During Mrs. Turner's absence Miss Florence Steele, a professional nurse of the city, had charge of the dispensary.

Engineer H. O. Dermody, of the Pennsylvania, is in receipt of a copy of the Morning Herald, published at Hagerstown, Md., which carried on its front page a three column picture of Fort Wayne's market house, together with the statement that "Fort Wayne has one of the most scientifically arranged city market places in the United States." The item then gives a good description of our market house.

The building committee, composed of Rev. C. O. Hadley, chairman, and J. W. Miller, W. F. Geller, Jacob Shaffer, J. W. Bauerle, W. M. Meyers and W. F. Benz recommended several changes in the plans as were first submitted. These changes have been made by the architect. The committee will meet Friday evening to discuss further plans and to dispose of business matters.

The old building will be torn away and the new building, which will cost approximately $50,000, will occupy the entire lot. According to the plans the new building will be one of the finest structures of its kind in Fort Wayne, which is now known as the City of Beautiful Churches.

Dr. Brent's Discovery

By Walt Gregg

S Dr. Brent turned the corner of the country road he jammed on the brakes of his roadster. The headlights brought into clear relief the figure of a girl plodding along in the ruts. Since she showed no intention of leaving the roadway, he went forward slowly, turning out into the grass.

"Say," he called out, "don't you know you'll be run over if you're not more careful?"

"I don't know that I mind," she answered, hopelessly.

"You don't mind," repeated Brent, his surprised eyes regarding the girl's firm, well-cared-for appearance.

"No," she replied moodily. "If I were to die now I'd escape a whole lot of unhappiness."

"By Jove, that's a mournful philosophy of life. Might I ask what you are doing on this lonely road at 11 o'clock at night?"

"I'm running away," was the answer. "Oh, yes," she went on after his ejaculation of surprise, "I know it sounds crazy. I have a perfectly comfortable home with two aunts who are extraordinarily good and who love me very much. But I'm tired of the same old thing every day. I'm tired of cream of tartar biscuits every night. Oh, dear! I guess I'm pretty wicked. With that she began to cry.

"Here! That won't do," said Brent. "I'm going to give you a ride." Then he picked up the sobbing girl, deposited her on the seat, and sent the machine chugging over the cool air, fresh with the fragrance of apple blossoms.

Soon the girl became quiet and Brent asked where she lived. In a low voice she replied, "I'd be ashamed to tell you. Besides we should never find it here at night. I've ridden or walked all day and I did not pay much attention to where I was going."

"The dickens you didn't," Brent muttered to himself. Aloud he said, "I shall take you to my sister's then."

Before long he drew up at a white farmhouse where he asked her to get out. "I'm afraid I can't," she murmured. "You see my feet were so hot and tired that I took my pumps off and now I can't get them on." Obviously he picked her up the second time and carried her to the piazza, where, after a whispered explanation, she was welcomed by his sister.

In the morning a subdued young lady appeared at the breakfast table. She still refused to give her name or tell where she lived. "I'd died of shame if you knew who I am," she said. "If you'll take me to the station, I'll go home."

Later on Brent gave this parting bit of advice. "If I were you I wouldn't be such a gutter. It's a pity that in this big world you can't find something to do. Did it ever occur to you to try thinking of someone besides your own precious self?" Then he stalked off before she bought her ticket, chuckling at the startled look in her wide open blue eyes.

Seven years later, in the slums of a great city, Brent found a burly patient suffering so intensely that an immediate operation was necessary. When he spoke of a nurse, a red-headed youngster darted from the room. In a few minutes a young woman in regulation uniform stood by his side. "I can do what you wish, Dr. Brent," she said quietly.

Never had the doctor been assisted more efficiently, but when he was ready to congratulate the nurse he found that she had slipped away. "Who is she?" he asked the boy. "Oh! She's Nurse Ellen, the lady what owns the Runaway House," was the reply.

Again and again Dr. Brent heard of the Runaway House, and found evidence of the nurse's work among the poor. Many times he determined to seek the woman and ask about her home, which the people of the neighborhood regarded as a place of restful retreat. But during the hot days of summer an epidemic kept him busy even into the night. The climax came on one unusually oppressive day when he awoke with a strained feeling between his eyes. This developed into a throbbing headache which by afternoon made him long for comfort like a child. The Runaway House began to beat in a monotonous refrain through his head. Soon he would stay in his office no longer. He went into the streets and

CAN'T FIND DANDRUFF

Every bit of dandruff disappears after one or two applications of Danderrine rubbed well into the scalp with the finger tips. Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderrine at any drug store and save your hair. After a few applications you can't find a particle of dandruff or any falling hair, and the scalp will never itch.—Advertisement.

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR CROSS, SICK FEVERISH CHILD

If little stomach is sour, liver torpid or bowels clogged.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well-playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it can not cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomach-ache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no small claims. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Advertisement.

SEATTLE WET LEADER NOW LIKES DRY RULE

Changes His Mind in Six Weeks After City Bans Saloons.

Kansas City, Feb. 17.—The world is watching Seattle to see how prohibition works out in a large city. Seattle is the largest city that has ever had prohibition. It and the whole state of Washington became "dry" January 1, of this year.

The strongest single force that worked against prohibition in the state of Washington, was the Times, the leading newspaper of Seattle. In its campaign against the passage of the prohibition law it used all the familiar old arguments such as "Prohibition doesn't pay," "It would force down rents," that so much property used for saloons all at once made empty and nonproductive in one day would have a bad economic effect, and so on.

Why He Fought Prohibition
The editor of the Seattle Times, Major C. B. Meehan, the man who made the fight against prohibition, was in Kansas City and was asked how prohibition was working and if all his prophecies had come true. He said: "My paper fought its hardest against prohibition. We fought it on economic grounds alone. We believed that in a great seaport city with a population of upward of 300,000 prohibition would be destructive; it would bring on economic disaster. We believed that under our system of licensing saloons we had the liquor traffic about as well controlled as it could be, and we wanted to let it alone, and so we fought as hard as we could against it. But, in spite of all we could do against it, prohibition carried and went into effect in Washington January 1. We have had six weeks of it now.

"And how has it worked out?"
Business Expanded Quickly
"We already know that it is a great benefit, morally and from an economic standpoint. Its moral benefit has been tremendous. Seattle had 280 saloons, and we had an average of 2,600 arrests a month for crimes and misdemeanors growing out of liquor drinking. In January we had only 400 arrests and sixty of those were made January 1, and were the result of hangers on from the old year. That in itself is enough to convince any man with a conscience that prohibition is necessary. There can be no true economy in anything that is immoral.

"And on top of that great moral result, we have these economic facts: In the first three weeks of January the savings deposits in the banks of Seattle increased 15 per cent. There was not a grocery store in Seattle that did not show an increase of business in January greater than ever known in any month before in all the history of the city, except in holiday times. In all the large grocery stores the increase was immense. In addition to this, every dry goods store in Seattle except one, and that one I have no figures from, had a wonderful increase in business. Each store reported the largest business ever done in one month except in holiday time.

The Women and Children Profit
"I wished to know in what class of goods the sales increased so greatly, and so I sent to all the grocery and dry goods stores to find that out. And to me it is a joyful thing, and it makes me sorry that we did not have prohibition long ago—that the increase in sales in all the dry goods stores was in wearing apparel of women and children, and in the grocery stores the increase was made up chiefly of fruits and fancy groceries. This proves that it is the women and children who suffer most from the liquor business, and it is the women and children who benefit greatest from prohibition. Money that went formerly over the bar for whisky is now being spent for clothing for the women and children, and in better food for the household.

"It is just like this: When you close the saloons the money that formerly was spent there remains in the family of the wage earner, and his wife and children buy shoes and clothing and better food with it. Yes, sir, we have found in Seattle that it is better to buy shoes than booze. The families of wage earners in Seattle are going to have more food and clothes and everything else than they had before."

It Actually Prohibits
"The prohibition law enforced."

"Absolutely. Prohibition does prohibit."
"And how about the empty saloons and the landlords who own them?"
"Many of them have already been made over and are occupied by other businesses. I will venture the prophecy that in one year from today you won't be able to find a place in which there was a saloon. They will all be occupied by other businesses. And prohibition has not lowered rents. I know of one big dry goods store that has already had its rent raised since prohibition went into effect."

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyleth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss. While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyleth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and lustrous.—Advertisement.

LICHTENBERG IS GIVING IT TRIAL

German City Has Entire Municipal Control of Foodstuffs.

Berlin, Jan. 25.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The big suburban city of Lichtenberg, a few miles from Berlin, whose population is almost exclusively drawn from the working classes, has, during the past few months, been perfecting a system of municipal ownership of foodstuffs which is perhaps the most comprehensive in Germany.

It has not only taken charge of and control over certain kinds of foods, as other municipalities have done, but it has become salesman as well, has opened

ed municipal stores and markets all over the city, has done much to keep prices down within reach of its inhabitants and yet has made enough profit to enable it to keep its stocks replenished.

Where it has been found inadvisable for the city to sell the food itself, it has been distributed through merchants who have been permitted to charge only stipulated prices and to make a profit no larger than the city itself would make.

The city now maintains four stores for the sale of meat, sausage, fats and bacon, four egg stores, and two potato stores. Four more of the latter are to be added in a short time, as soon as the expected increased demand for potatoes came.

The city has been able to make advantageous contracts with packers for both meats and fats, and of late is selling daily to about 20,000 families. Whenever a shortage has been felt, such as was the case with fat recently, Lichtenberg has procured substitutes of one kind or another.

It has in its storehouses now enough bacon to last into February, and by that time will have received the 6,000 hogs that have been apportioned to it by military authorities. A contract to slaughter them has already been awarded.

Of late the city has added to its stock by putting in rice, beans, peas and oat flakes by the hundredweight and is selling them at a small margin of profit at its meat stores. Until after Christmas the price of municipal eggs was four cents apiece—as compared with eight to nine cents in other parts of Greater Berlin—but now it has advanced to four and a half cents.

The city has just purchased an enormous quantity of potatoes, half of which it has stored away, and the other half of which has been distributed among regular provision dealers to be sold at specified prices. The city has sold huge amounts of fruit.

In addition to selling outright the things enumerated, Lichtenberg has supplied local merchants with great quantities of noodles, condensed milk, sardines, vegetables and macaroni which it, as a wholesale buyer, has been able to procure advantageously.

Damascus in Syria is the oldest of all existing cities.

The plum, which was among the earliest of fruits to be cultivated and was raised when Thebes, Memphis and Damascus were in their glory, also grows wild in Asia, America and southern Europe.

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in all cases of similar nature. Those wishing further advice, free may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Bldg. Sta., Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name, and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. My prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. cadomene tablets to invigorate the system. They should soon improve your condition.

"Mury" writes: "Please tell me what I can do to get rid of this tired feeling. My mother says my blood is in bad condition."

Answer: If you have had blood, you need a good system cleanser, blood purifier and tonic. Such you will find in three grain sulphur tablets (not sulphur). Constipation, headache, dark, sallow skin, coated tongue, nervousness and sleeplessness at night, and a tired out feeling are symptoms of impure blood.

"T. O." asks: "What may I do for rheumatism? I have pains constantly all over my body and have had for years. My joints swell and I am almost a cripple." Answer: You will find no better treatment for rheumatism than the following: 2 drams of iodide of potassium, 4 drams sodium salicylate, 1/2 oz. wine of colchicum, 1 oz. comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz. comp. fluid balmwort, and 5 oz. of syrup sarsaparilla comp. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal times and again before going to bed. This mixture has been the most successful treatment I have ever known in all my experience.

"W. C. L." asks: "Will you please tell me what to take for kidney trouble? I have constant headache, chills and fever. My feet swell and my complexion is terribly muddy looking, and I have sacks under my eyes. I have pains in my back all the time. I am afraid of Bright's disease."

Answer: Be careful not to take cold. Get a tube of "Bismort" tablets at once and take according to directions. These are the best you can take to benefit your condition, and constant treatment should result in permanent relief.

"Mr. R. B." writes: "Two years ago your prescription reduced my weight 15 pounds. I have forgotten the name of the tablets you had me use. Please let me know what they were."

Answer: I have always recommended five grain arbolone tablets to reduce weight. Sold by druggists in sealed tubes with full directions.

"Grey" writes: "My hair is coming out. I have dandruff and itching scalp." Answer: I always recommend the use of plain yellow minoy to restore the scalp to healthy condition and overcome dandruff and falling hair. Minoy contains no alcohol to dry the hair make it brittle. It is the best hair and scalp tonic I know of.

"Miserable" writes: "I want something to take to break up coughs and colds. Constantly, I am troubled with cold in my system and sore throat. I cough much too, and my tonsils and bronchials are sore."

Answer: I suggest that you get 2 1/2 oz. essence mentho-laxene and mix with one pint simple sugar syrup or honey. There is no better treatment for coughs and colds than just this preparation. It breaks up a cold, soothes and heals the membranous tissues, and as it acts as a laxative it aids in throwing out of the system the cold inflammation.

"Bill" writes: "How may I regain my weight and strength? I'm so weak and thin. I should weigh forty-five pounds more."

Answer: You will find just the proper tonic and flesh builder you require by using regularly three-grain hypo-nutrient tablets. They build up strength, health and flesh. I have prescribed them many times and they are highly recommended.

"Niagara" writes: "My mind seems to be getting weak and my whole system seems to be losing strength fast. Please suggest something I may take to relieve this depressed condition, and restore to my system new life and energy and ambition. I feel twenty years older than I am."

Answer: Your nerve cells and tissue cells have not been receiving proper nutrition from the blood. Practice regular habits of living and take three grain

NEW LEGISLATIVE PROPOSAL UNIQUE

Crosser's Bill Seeks to Do Away With Problem of Unemployment.

By Gilson Gardner

Washington, Feb. 17.—A unique legislative proposal—a bill which actually seeks to do away with the problem of unemployment—has just been introduced into the house by Representative Robert Crosser of Ohio.

It is evidently inspired by the recommendations made in the annual report of Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, suggesting colonizing of unemployed workers by the government on the lands—agricultural, grazing and forest lands—remaining in government ownership.

Rep. Crosser's bill proposes to create a "National Colonization Board," consisting of the secretaries of labor, agriculture and interior, with the secretary of labor as chairman, which board is directed to examine portions of the public domain and the forest reservations, both in the U. S. and Alaska, and to set aside such portions as may be fitted for "colonization projects."

The board is then directed to prepare the land for use by clearing, road-building, ditching, draining and other reclamation works as may be necessary; to develop and supply timber, coal, power, telephone and other services to the colonists at cost for their domestic use only; and to organize facilities for purchasing, marketing and other co-operative activities.

When the lands are ready for use, the board is directed to offer them, in suitable parcels, to prospective settlers. Title to the lands is to remain forever in the government, the settlers being given a permit or lease which they have the right to assign or bequeath.

The land is to be theirs as long as they use and occupy it. Capital invested by the government on improvements is to be repaid by the settlers in a period which may be as long as fifty years, in annual installments, with four per cent interest, after which no charges are to be made except a reasonable tax charge.

An equitable proportion of this tax charge is to be paid to the state and county in whose jurisdiction the project is located; the balance of the tax charge to go into a "colonization fund" to be used to finance new projects from time to time, as is now the case with the "Reclamation Service fund."

A bond issue of fifty million dollars is provided to supply the first capital, the bonds to be paid off from the first receipts from the projects.

The bill contemplates the use, not only of agricultural, desert land grazing lands on the public domain, but lands within national forests, and the proposal is that permanent industries like cattle raising, sheep raising, logging, lumbering, sawmilling and similar industries shall be developed on the various projects.

The colonization board is directed to take over the administration of the forest laws where colonization projects are located on national forests, and to administer timber sale contracts so as to maintain "a continuous and sustained annual yield and cut of timber within the area of the project."

indicating an intention to establish a permanent lumber industry instead of the present temporary lumber "camps" with their "hobo lumber jacks" which now contribute so greatly to the industrial problem.

In addition to its work on the government lands, the board is authorized by the bill to establish colonization projects in co-operation with any state or private land owner. The board would thus have power to utilize cut-over timber lands (such as those in northern Minnesota and Wisconsin) and the present unused swamp lands of Florida and Louisiana.

The whole idea of the bill is that the government shall act as the capitalist in preparing the lands for occupancy, equipping them with necessary buildings and improvements, the money to be paid back on easy payments over a long term of years by the settlers, who shall not be permitted to have the title, but only the use of the lands as long as they comply with the requirements.

The bill safeguards labor employed in the work of preparing the lands, by providing an eight hour day, a minimum wage which shall not be less than the current wage for the same class of work in the vicinity, the elimination of child labor and semi-monthly pay. The board is also instructed to make rules and regulations to insure safety, to provide for workman's compensation and accident insurance. Prospective settlers may be employed by the board in helping to prepare the land for occupancy, receiving standard wages for their work, and the board is authorized to have the necessary work performed directly by the government in case satisfactory contracts cannot be made for getting the work done.

In Great Britain a billion is reckoned as a million millions. In the United States it is only a thousand millions.

The bill safeguards labor employed in the work of preparing the lands, by providing an eight hour day, a minimum wage which shall not be less than the current wage for the same class of work in the vicinity, the elimination of child labor and semi-monthly pay. The board is also instructed to make rules and regulations to insure safety, to provide for workman's compensation and accident insurance. Prospective settlers may be employed by the board in helping to prepare the land for occupancy, receiving standard wages for their work, and the board is authorized to have the necessary work performed directly by the government in case satisfactory contracts cannot be made for getting the work done.

Suffragists Don't Blame Mrs. Warren if She Broke Man-Made Smuggling Laws

"Women Cannot Be Expected to Respect Laws Until They Have a Hand in Making Them" Says Alice Carpenter in Commenting on Case.

New York, Feb. 17.—When Mrs. Warren, who is the wife of Whitney Warren, the famous architect, and treasurer of the Secours National arrived from France, Nov. 13, customs inspectors charged that the wearing apparel which her declaration showed to be worth $1,500 had a home value of $6,148.

On 26 gowns in her baggage the forfeitable value is $13,589, the home value plus the duty.

On December 10, almost a month after Mrs. Warren's arrival, Dudley Field Malone, collector of the port of New York, announced that he had ordered the baggage of Mrs. Warren seized and forfeited.

In addition he ordered the papers in the case to be sent to the United States district attorney with the recommendation that they be laid before the grand jury alleging that there was an attempt to defraud the federal government.

Wealthy women are said by customs officials to cause more trouble in attempting to evade paying duty than do any other class of passengers entering our ports.

Discussing this, Alice Carpenter, the suffragist speaker and writer, says: "Until men teach women the seriousness of the law and give them an opportunity to make it and to participate in it, women cannot be expected to be responsible in the same degree as men. I believe that there is more excuse for a non-enfranchised individual's evading the law than there is for any other group. The poor bear most of the burdens of life, and it is nothing extraordinary that the poor smuggler has to pay more for his little crime than the rich smuggler does for his big one."

Inez Millholland Boissevain, who has just returned to her law practice in New York, after accompanying the Ford peace expedition abroad, says: "I blame no woman for smuggling. Why should a woman pay attention to a law which women did not help to make? When a poor smuggler receives a heavier sentence than a rich one, it is largely because the jurors who try him are men."

"Men have such a holy attitude toward property that any violation of it is to them the last word in iniquity. Women do not have so high a regard for property since it was not until recent years that they had a right to hold it. Women, who care more about humanity and things that affect the soul, mind and body, do not consider offenses against property so important as those against life. Women to that extent are more humane."

RELIGION, TEMPERANCE AND HEALTH

The Wild West Cowboy From Montana

The writer was raised in the wilds of Montana, where the rattlesnakes and buzzards are plentiful. I was raised on a small ranch in the valley of Sun River, near a city called Great Falls. At the early age of six I started to learn to ride horses as I wanted to become a cowboy. At eight I started to school, and I was very backward and bashful. I didn't care for books, but after getting acquainted I liked to be with other boys. Most of the boys that were there were older than I; they were posted on "things" that I was ignorant of. When I first started to school I had no bad habits, but after was there a while I was soon taught how to swear, play tricks, fight, and smoke. These boys knowing I wanted to become a cowboy told me I had to do these things in order to be a genuine "Wild West Cowboy."

By the time I was nine years old I was very good at handling horses for a boy of that age. But that was not all; I was an expert in swimming and fishing. Following along those lines, I reached the age of fifteen, when I took a position away from home as a cowboy. New was my chance. I was with real "Wild Westers."

At the age of eighteen I was a genuine "tough." To be popular among the class known as "cowboys" I had to indulge in gambling, drinking, swearing, smoking, lying and other like things which I won't take time to mention. I was one of those boys that when three or four fellows said "be a sport" I could not resist and the boys knew it. I was so degraded I used to go to church and Sunday school nearly every Sunday and after the meeting I would go to a saloon and shake dice in order to secure a drink to "digest" what I had heard.

Now I wish to impress on your minds during that period of time, when I was broke I had no real friends. I was what you might call an outcast just the same as any drunkard or man that is down and out who is following that kind of a life.

In the year of 1909 I gave up my position as a cowboy for my health failed so I was compelled to.

My brother and I went into business as gardeners and poultrymen and playing for dances much of the time in the winter.

In the year of 1911 my brother and I came to Auburn, Washington, thinking we would be satisfied for we were unable to satisfy ourselves in Montana, but do you think we were satisfied? I should say not. I want to go on and say we had very few real friends, and I would like to impress on your minds that we were forced to give up some of my bad habits or meet death.

By doing that I became a very miserable man and a regular old crank, nothing would satisfy me.

You noticed in the first part of this message I started to learn to ride horses in order to satisfy myself, then I got into bad habits and bad company and still I wasn't satisfied. I was still seeking for something to satisfy myself, and had been for twenty years. Finally one day my dear brother, who had been in the same condition as I, but had found "Christ," came to me one week with that very thing I had been seeking for so long, or friend who is a true friend, one that will never forsake you. This friend's name is Jesus. Now I come to you with this message to tell you about the wonderful Saviour who can and wants to save a man from sin.

The reason I was so miserable before was because I was a sinner bound for an eternal hell; but, Oh! I want to tell you the day my sins were washed away with the precious blood of "Christ" was a happy one for me.

I certainly do thank God I am now a new creature in Christ Jesus, bound for eternal glory to be with the dear Saviour who died on the cross for you and for me that by believing and accepting Jesus as our Saviour we are the sons of God. Jno. 1:12. Now I am free from all the old things that held me in bondage, and I am glad to say you can be the same. I can testify that I never knew what "Joy" and "Peace" were until after I accepted Jesus as my personal Saviour. I wouldn't exchange ten minutes of this life for all the back years I lived without Jesus.

Now I have a question of importance to ask you. Where are you going to spend eternity?

God's answer is either Hell or Heaven. God is Love and He gives you your choice.

What you must do to enter in the narrow gate that leads to Heaven. That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead thou shalt be saved. Rom. 10:9. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness, but with the mouth confession is made unto salvation. Rom. 10:10.

To enter that is a very easy thing. All you have to do is just go on in sin and reject Jesus.

The wicked shall be turned into Hell and all nations that forget God. Psalm 9:17.

But the fearful and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone, which is the second death. Rev. 21:8.

Some people say there is too much to give up in order to be a Christian. When you say that you do not appreciate the value the Gift of God which is eternal life with our Lord Jesus Christ.

For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul. Mark 8:36. But seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you. Matt. 6:33.

There are many people who like to put off till tomorrow what they can and ought to do today. That is exactly the way they do about their soul salvation, and by doing this many are too late. As God plainly says, man is created time; this is the day of salvation. 2 Cor. 6:2.

Why not come now as you can never tell what moment your soul shall be required of you or what moment you will meet eternity.

"Eternity" is a thing we all have to face and I beg that you take Jesus as your personal Saviour while you can, as he is the only way for eternal glory.

Listen. Jesus says, I am the way, the truth and the life; no man cometh unto the Father but by me. Jno. 14:6.

Just think what God has done for us. God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life. Jno. 3:16.

Some people think they are not sinners because they treat other people square and live a good moral life. God says we all have sinned and come short of the glory of God. Rom. 3:23.

If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves and make God a liar. But if we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

If we say that we have not sinned we make Him a liar, and His word is not in us. 1 Jno. 1:8, 9, 10.

He also says without the shedding of blood there is no remission. Heb. 9:22.

Some people say the Christian life is too hard. Well, I wish to say a word about that. The Christian life is the easiest thing on earth to live if you let God have full control of your life. As He says, My yoke is easy, My burdens are light. Matt. 11:30.

This is certainly the truth, as I have tried it. God's burdens are so light you never know they were burdens, but I want to inform you that the Devil's burdens are so heavy that the wages of sin is death. Rom. 6:23.

Jesus says, Come! Won't you do it?

NOTE

I am the oldest of a family of nine children, five girls and four boys.

My parents were skeptics, therefore our family was brought up without any religious training of any kind.

The fruits of that kind of bringing up was quarreling, swearing, no real love, no joy, no peace; our home was simply "Hell" on earth.

My brother and I were rank skeptics, but we finally took heed to God's proposition found in John 7:17. If any man will to do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself.

By taking heed to this proposition we found that there was a living God manifested in three persons, God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost.

My father, who was really anxious to know the truth.

Oh God, if there is a God, show me and if Jesus Christ is Your Son show me and I will forsake all sin.

As soon as we were willing to forsake all our sin we found there was a God and that Jesus Christ was His Son, who died on the cruel cross with the spikes driven through His hands and feet, and a crown of thorns on His head for our transgression.

Jesus became our personal Saviour and our lives were changed as we became new creatures in Christ Jesus and the things we loved we hated, and the things we hated we loved, and I thank God since the day we found Jesus we have had joy and peace unspeakable.

After my brother and I found Jesus we began to work on the rest of the family and today I can say with praise unto God that our whole family are saved, as they have taken Jesus as their personal Saviour, so now our home consists of real love, joy and peace.

It is Heaven now.

Oh! It is wonderful what Jesus will do if you will just give him right away in your life.

He will serve Jesus in every way. I know for I have been on both sides of the fence.

Remember there is no peace saith my God to the wicked. Isa. 57:21.

God says, Come now, and let us reason together. Saith the Lord: Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool. Isa. 1:18.

My earnest prayer is that you will take Jesus as your Saviour before it is too late.—H. J. Ranton.

War, Disease, Alcohol

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, noted physician and writer on diet and health, says:

"Everything else being equal, the armies which do not use the alcohol will win the European war."

"Alcohol is the worst drug habit because it is the most universal. It is not a food, but a poison, and is decidedly not a medical necessity. Several decades ago, doctors advised the drinking of whiskey and other forms of alcohol as a preventive for bad colds and malaria and other diseases. They didn't know any better, and they had to advise something."

"Nowadays we recognize that instead of increasing the ability to withstand disease, alcohol decreases the vitality and leaves the body less able to throw off the germs of disease. The only excuse for the use of alcohol in the trenches is to make the men feel more comfortable temporarily, though at the same time it makes them stupid and they feel worse afterward than they did before drinking."

"Numberless tests have shown conclusively that while men under the influence of alcohol feel they are working easier and think they accomplish a great deal, in reality their output is much less than normal."

"Like all other drugs, alcohol deadens the sensibility to pain and renders the nervous system less sensitive. That, however, may be the condition for which nations are working!"—Friends' Intelligencer.

WHY HE DID NOT

A gushing latrine passed the time of day to an aged boatman who stood gazing out to sea over the entrance to the pier. They fell to discussing objects of interest, and presently she inquired: "Tell me, now, if you ever saw a sea serpent." "Certainly not, mum; I am a teetotaler!"

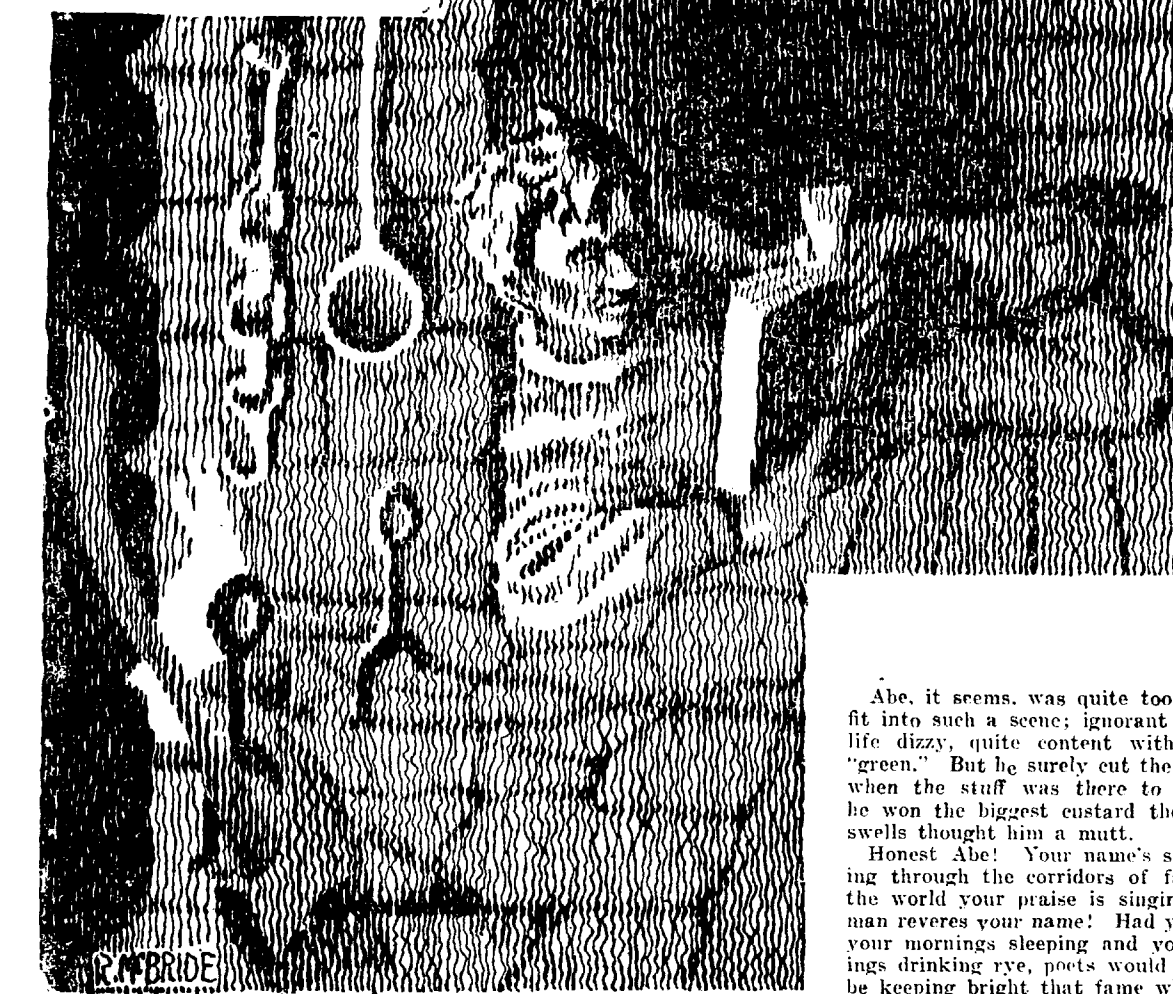

Can You Picture Young Abe Lincoln in the Village Pool-room Door?

Can you picture young Abe Lincoln in the village poolhall door, with his eyes all dim and blinkin', spitting on the wooden floor?

Can your best imagination picture young Abe with the sots, "shakin' bones" to beat the nation, on the vacant corner lots?

Can you think of Abe at college, with some booze inside his belt, with his head devoid of knowledge, hunting some young freshman's pet?

Picture "Honest Abe" at 30, loafing in a barber shop, with his face and collar dirty, hiding from the corner cop!

Abe, it seems, was quite too busy to fit into such a scene; ignorant of night life ditty, quite content with looking "green." But he surely cut the mustard when the stuff was there to cut, and he won the biggest custard though the swells thought him a mutt.

Honest Abe! Your name's still ringing through the corridors of fame; all the world your praise is singing, every man reveres your name. Had you spent your mornings sleeping and your evenings drinking rye, poets would not now be keeping bright that fame which will not die!—Charles B. Driscoll.

Not Enough Engine Power

Have those New Year's resolutions lasted until now? Or are you regretfully wishing that they had? The Morning Oregonian of Portland a few days after New Year's Day published a cartoon that is a sermon in itself. Up a steep, rocky hill a perspiring, desperate looking citizen is attempting to travel in an automobile labeled in large letters, "New Year Resolution." Monkey wrench in hand, the driver is peering around his windshield at his engine, to the hood of which is attached a label reading "Will Power." And a small jervine animal in the lower left-hand corner of the picture is calling, "Hey! Mister! Yer slippin' back!" The cartoon is entitled "Not Enough Engine Power, as Usual." Of course not. Will-power never yet carried us up temptation hill, and it never will. If you made those New Year's resolutions with firm determination that, by the power of your will strengthened by the power of Christ, you would win this time, that is why you failed. But if you will now cease from asking Christ to add his efforts to yours, and instead leave the hill-climbing wholly to Him as exclusively His work for you, then no grade on earth can stop you—for none can stop Him.—Sunday School Times.

OUR GOD IS WILLING

Our God is willing to light up our (many) roads, even the byways which we seek streets of our daily life. Few of us spend our days in the main streets. Most of our life is passed in very quiet ways, often in struggling along very rough and rutty roads. Well, we can

Sunshine Better Than Chemicals As Preventative of Disease

DISINFECTION

For many centuries there has been a widespread belief that if an odor is sufficiently strong and unpleasant, no disease will make its appearance in its neighborhood.

Various ill-smelling substances have been hung around children's necks to ward off diphtheria, and feathers burned to assist in preventing epidemics. This is done by some people even today.

But physicians slowly are proving that most germs of disease are unaffected by such methods.

They are teaching that plenty of ordinary hot water, lots of soap and a vigorous use of the scrubbing brush will disinfect and prevent the spread of disease. To this prescription, it is urged that plenty of sunshine and fresh air be added.

In cases, however, where chemical disinfection is deemed necessary, it is best to let the doctor or health officer direct it.

As the army selects only healthy recruits as those who can alone stand the hardships of war, so the employer who has the healthiest and most vigorous men will, other things equal, in competition outdo those whose workmen are weakened by disease.

MY ASPIRATIONS

I would be true, for there are those who trust me;
I would be pure, for there are those who care;
I would be strong, for there is much to suffer;
I would be brave, for there is much to dare.
I would be friend to all—the foe—the friendless;
I would be giving, and forget the gift;
I would be humble, for I know my weakness;
I would look up—and laugh—and love—and lift.

go along them all "by revelation," with God's soft light of grace falling upon the deep cuts and the sharp stones. In every path of duty we can have these: revealing rays, warm and sunny with the very love of God. Every way can be illumined, and in the heaviest and most miry road the place of our feet can be glorious.—Rev. J. H. Jowett.

SAID THE KING OF ENGLAND

At a recent review of the troops of the second new army (writes the London correspondent of the Liverpool Daily Post) the king commented with manifest satisfaction upon the physical fitness of the men. His majesty noted with special pleasure their healthy appearance and the buoyancy of their step as they marched past, and turning to those near him, he remarked: "Surely this must be due to the fact that we have now a temperance army."

Imminent Coming of the Lord Seems Near

"As surely as He came the first time, so will He come the second time. This same Jesus who is taken up from you into Heaven shall so come in like manner as ye have seen Him go into Heaven." (Acts 1:11).

"As it was appointed unto man once to die, but after that the judgment. So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many and shall appear the second time without sin unto salvation." (Heb. 9:27-28).

"For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." (Rom. 3:23).

"But God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." (Rom. 5:8).

"Therefore be ye also ready; for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of Man cometh." (Matt. 24:44).

"That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shall believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved." (Rom. 10:9).

"And this is the will of Him that sent me, that everyone which seeth the Son, and believeth on Him, may have everlasting life; and I will raise him up at the last day." (John 6:40).

What an event that will be when it comes! What pen can describe the scene when He leaves the throne to call the bodies of His saints from their graves!

"He which testifieth these things saith. Surely I can come quickly. Amen. Even so come Lord Jesus. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen."

Drink Deadliest Foe

Lord Kitchener, Great Britain's secretary of war, Field Marshal French and David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, seem to be of the same opinion regarding the drink evil.

"We are fighting Germany, Austria and drink, and so far as I can see the greatest of these three deadly foes is drink," said David Lloyd-George. The chancellor was replying to a deputation of the Ship-Building Employers' federation, the members of which were unanimous in urging total prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors during the period of the war. "I have a growing conviction, based on accumulating evidence," the chancellor continued, "that nothing but root and branch methods would be of the slightest avail in dealing with the evil. I believe it is the general feeling that, if we are to settle German militarism, we must first of all settle with the drink."

THE LITTLE WHITE SLAVER

Henry Ford, of Detroit, the maker of Ford cars, published a pamphlet attacking the cigarette habit. He called the cigarette the "Little White Slaver," and gave much evidence to justify that name. Then he received a letter from the president of the American Tobacco company which was practically a threat to bring suit for damages.

Mr. Ford replied that he was responsible for what he had said, and instead of backing down, he fired off another blast against the cigarette.

He gave the testimony of many well known men occupying positions which give them opportunities for observing the effects of cigarettes, who unite in declaring that the habit of smoking cigarettes dulls a boy's mind and unfits him for really efficient work.—Sabbath Reading.

How to Live Long

"Uncle Cape" Stanley of Downers Grove, near Chicago, has reached his hundredth birthday anniversary. As is customary with old gentlemen upon occasions of this kind, "Uncle Cape" celebrated his centenary by giving out a set of rules to be followed by those who wish to reach his ripe age.

"Uncle Cape's" rules are more interesting than most. Here they are: Mind your own business. Don't quarrel with your neighbors. Pay for what you get when you get it.

Live within your means. Laugh every time you find something to laugh at. Don't eat between meals. Eat plain food and plenty of it. Don't drink intoxicating liquors. Don't smoke or chew tobacco.

Keep up your interest in the news of the world.

Go to bed early with a clear conscience and get up with the birds.

Sleep eight to nine hours out of the twenty-four.

Don't worry about things you can't help.

Work and exercise outdoors as much as possible.

Keep your thoughts pure.

Memorize bible verses.

Remember your obligations to your Creator.

Many of these rules are so excellent that they deserve special mention. The one about minding one's own business is perhaps the most forcible. It takes a strong mind to follow rules as rigid as those, and many persons would rather sacrifice a few years than to try.

Keep Your Place.

Great troubles arise from things getting out of their place, and one of the worst things out of place is a man. Yet nothing is more common than to see men who seem out of place. There are little men in big places, and there are big men in little places; there are round men in square places, and square men in round places; there are ignorant men lording it over men who are wiser than they; and bad men tyrannizing over men the latchet of whose shoes they are not worthy to stoop down and unloose; there are rogues to whose custody is intrusted the property of widows and orphans; there are scoundrels who occupy positions of honor and responsibility; there are traitors who hold the reins of government; there are men of blameless lives, incorruptible and noble, who yet are distrusted and despised and rejected of men.

It is a great thing for a Christian man to seek to know his place, to find out where God would have him be, and what God would have him do, and how he would have him conduct himself. There is some one place in the world where, under Divine providence, we may be most useful, and in the fullest sense a blessing to those around us. But if through some restless uneasiness or vain ambition we leave that place, and by striving after high things, or through discontent or vanity, choose another course, we may do ourselves incalculable and long-lasting injury. Let us find our respective places, and then let us keep them, in the fear of the Lord, and with earnest desire to know and do His will.

HE LEADETH ME

He leadeth me in pastures green? Not always, sometimes He Who knoweth best, in kindness lead me In weary ways, where heavy shadows be.

Out of the sunshine warm and soft and bright, Out of sunshine into darkest night. I oft would faint with sorrow and afflict, I oft would faint with sorrow and afflict.

Only for this, I know He holds my hand, So whether led in green or desert land, I trust, although I cannot understand.

And "by still waters?" No, not always so. Oft times the heavy tempests round me blow, And o'er my soul the waves and billows go.

But when the storms beat loudest and I cry

Around for help, the Master standeth by And whispers to my soul, "Lo, it is I."

Above the tempest wild I hear him say Beyond the darkness lies the perfect day;

Wished to Share.

A Missouri farmer, whose wife greatly deprecates his intermittent convivial tendency, went to St. Louis in the holidays and greatly enjoyed himself. Upon returning home he was extremely thirsty, desiring above all things a drink of cold water. He put up his horses and cautiously approached the old draw well. The bucket rose almost noiselessly as he pulled the windlass, and he secured a mighty draught. He drank till he could hold no more. The night was cold and the water splendid.

Suddenly, in the gratitude of his refreshment, he lifted up his voice: "Maria!" he shouted. "Oh Maria!" "Whatever do you want?" demanded his wife, from the house. "What are you standing out there in the lot, bellerin' like a calf for?"

"O, Maria," the husband pleaded, "you and the children come on out here and get some of this good water."

ADVISABLE AS DEFENSE MEASURE

The warring nations of Europe have forced prohibition upon the attention of the American people as a question having direct bearing upon national efficiency and preparedness, with respect both to the quality of citizenship and the quantity and source of revenue. World history now in the making impels and compels pacifists and militarists, economists and pork-barrelists, to the same conclusion regarding the drink evil. As part, therefore, of our national defense program the abolishment of the liquor traffic should be considered as especially wise and timely.

TWO GREAT FACTS

The Christian religion rests upon two great facts. The first is, that God has spoken to man in the Lord Jesus Christ, and still speaks by the Holy Spirit. The second is, that man can hear God's voice and speak to Him in return. Divine Revelation and Human Response to it are thus the two foundations of all true life. The voice of God to man is heard in the Word of God applied by the Holy Spirit. The voice of man to God is mainly expressed in prayer.—W. H. Griffith Thomas, D. D.

Go to Church

There are a thousand reasons why you should attend church, but not a single reason why you should not. But do not get it into your head that you should go in order to help the church; you should go to help yourself.

After the week's work, after the strain of the six days of toil, after the activities of a busy week, there is nothing in this old life that will so rest and recuperate and re-create one as to spend an hour or two in the house of God and in the contemplation of spiritual things.

The busy man should attend divine services at least once on the Sabbath. It will do him good. It will make a better business man of him. It will give him a new view of commerce and industry as well as add something to his mental and moral efficiency.

tend church every Sunday. It will prove to be the greatest relief she can obtain from the wearing grind of the little details of the home. It will sweeten her disposition and make her burden in life a little lighter.

The young man and young woman, literally, cannot afford not to attend church. There are so many frivolities in the world, life is so sweet in its youth, that unless one gets into the habit of considering serious things for a fraction of a day, once a week, the years that are in store are going to be less cheerful years.

The children should be taken to church, that they may come to know, early in their youth, that there is something else in life than the gross affairs of the world. So there is no class of people who should fail to attend religious services of some kind at least once during seven days.—Dayton News.

Plant Black Walnut

This Is a Most Desirable Tree for the Wood Lot and Unused Places on the Farm—Directions for Planting.

Because of the very high lasting qualities of its wood and the moderately rapid rate of growth of the tree in good locations, black walnut is one of the few most desirable trees to plant on the farm. Small patches of rough, gullied, or unused land about the farm and narrow strips along fence rows and highways or corners of barnyards and stock lots make ideal places for planting this valuable tree. The method is simple, and the present heavy crop of nuts makes this year a most favorable time to begin work along this line. The region where walnut growing is practicable extends from southern New England west to the Central States and south to South Carolina and along the northern portions of the Gulf States to Oklahoma. The finest growth takes place in the rich coves of the lower Appalachians and over the Ohio and central Mississippi basins.

The black walnut tree is comparatively free from insect attack, particularly the wood. The price of black walnut lumber in recent years has been consistently high. Another factor to be considered is the rapidly diminishing supply of walnut trees over practically its entire range in the United States, due to recent cutting in order to meet the demand for gunstock material. The tree yields durable wood which may be used for posts and for a wide variety of purposes about the farm, in case it is not sold in the lumber market.

To plant the nuts, make a small hole with a mattock or hoe, drop one or two nuts in each hole and cover them with about 2 inches of fresh, firmly packed soil. For the larger areas, a good spacing in forest plantations is to dig the holes 5 feet apart each way or 8 by 10 feet which amounts to 880 and 645 holes per acre for the two spacings. For small areas, or along fence rows and highways, the spacing should be about 8 feet in the row, unless permanent shade is desired, in which case the distance should be 20 feet during the early period of growth and subsequently increased to 40 feet by removing the alternate trees. For purposes of nut production the trees should be spaced at distances of from 40 to 60 feet apart, and should be given a due amount of cultivation. Requests for information along this line should be addressed to the Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department of Agriculture at Washington. The number of nuts required can easily be found by knowing approximately their quality, the area of ground to be treated, and the spacing. Care should be taken not to plant under shade. Where the trees in the old wood lot are to be cut during the next year or two and are moderately open, planting may be done in the winter, so as to get a start in advance of the removal later of the overhead protection against early frosts and excessive drying of the soil in mid-summer.

While the best results are usually obtained by completely preparing the soil and cultivating it for a few years after planting, farm owners should be aware of the possibility of starting hundreds of young walnuts in their wood lots and elsewhere at the expense of only a little labor. This will be a good step in the process of securing useful and money-making trees in parts of the farm which would otherwise be waste land, which is making no return at all to its owner.

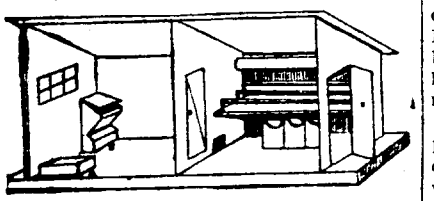

One of the very first things to do to secure a profit from the farm flock during the winter is to cull out the weak and sell every bird that does not show a promise of returning a profit. Old hens, superfluous males and pullets that do not show good healthy development had better be sold for what they will bring. Every bird that does not appear healthy and vigorous should be culled out by the farmer. Give and given a chance to become marketable. In this way the size of the flock can be reduced and only the best and capable of paying for their feed and care kept through the winter.

PRACTICAL POULTRY SUGGESTIONS.

The flock must be fed liberally during the cold weather. Nothing is to be gained by feeding starvation rations.

Poultry House with Concrete Foundation—Very Cheap and Convenient.

This much is an assured fact. It is better to sell half the flock and live the feed to the ones that are left. With feeds of all kinds at present prices, it requires strict economy and careful management to secure results during the winter months.

Wheat, corn and oats make an ideal ration for laying hens. If a farmer has a well balanced feed, he can produce a well balanced egg production. With boiled vegetables and meat scraps added or mixed with cut clover makes a well-balanced feed.

The grain feeds can be improved by grinding and feeding in the form of a mash a part of the time. The change is highly beneficial and increases egg production. Meat scraps are a good source of protein. Green bone is preferred by many poultrymen, but it is out of the question with many poultry keepers on account of the amount of labor required in its preparation.

If one is situated nearby to a large market and can buy bone and meat at a low cost and has plenty of time to prepare it, he may then secure a good feed at a moderate cost. However, I believe that the average poultry keeper will find meat scraps at three dollars a hundred fully as cheap and economical a feed.

Hens must have bulky and succulent feed to take the place of the green grass they get during the summer. Alfalfa and red clover cut and cured early, are the best substitutes. If the hay is run through a cutting box or grinder and steamed for an hour and a half the hens will consume nearly all of it.

It is rich in protein and a good egg-producing food. If the flock has a dry and comfortable house, free from vermin, they will furnish an abundant supply of winter eggs, providing, of course, that other conditions are right.

For winter layers I like to have about one-half pullets and one-half yearlings. In this way I believe we secure a more uniform number of eggs during the fall, winter and spring.

Many may not agree with me in this respect, but I have always secured more eggs from a flock proportioned about half and half pullets and yearlings than from a flock of pullets, that is, if we consider the egg yield for the whole winter and spring.

Unless a man has an incubator and brooder the yearling hens will make better mothers than the pullets and I find this is an important item to consider in the handling of the farm flock.

Good Sour Milk Ration for the Hens. Corn, 4 parts; wheat, 2 parts; bran middlings, 1 part; corn meal, 1 part; sour milk separately. Give 100 hens two and one-half gallons of milk and from 19 to 25 pounds of other food a day.

The orchard is not a good place to store farm machinery.

Beautiful the School Yard. Get busy on that plan for fixing up the school yard. Does it need a hedge of a few trees and shrubs for comfort and appearance? Talk matters over with the teacher and the older children. Pleasant surroundings at home school pay.

The best tools go soon enough.

SETTING OUT THE COMMERCIAL ORCHARD

The Trees Used in Planting Have Much To Do With the Future Success of the Orchard; Thousands of Inferior Trees Are Planted Each Year—Get the Right Trees and See That They Are Properly Planted, and the Orchard is Well Started on the Road to Profit.

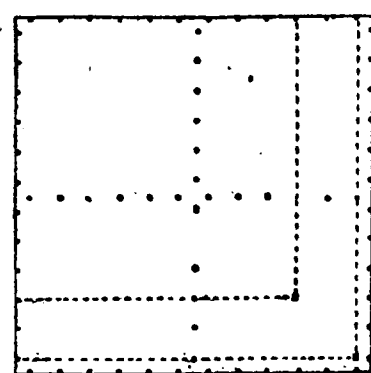

Three chief factors enter into the selection of the site for an orchard—soil, elevation, and exposure. Of these the soil is most important for even though the elevation and exposure be perfect, if the soil is unfavorable, the orchard will be a failure.

Clay-loam soil is best for apple growing. In the past the tendency has been to select rather heavy clay-loam or clay soils for apple culture. Less heavy clay-loams and even soils tending towards a gravelly nature seem to give better results, usually. Heavy clays are much more difficult to handle; have a tendency to carry the wood growth too late into the summer, and do not give as good color to the fruit as the somewhat lighter soils. Both late growth and low color are objectionable, and for these reasons heavy clays should be avoided where more suitable soils are available. It is not to be understood that light or sandy soils are preferred for apple growing.

Have the orchard site elevated above the surrounding country. This does not mean that it must be the highest piece of land in the vicinity, but that it should have lower levels in proximity to it. Elevation is an important factor in fruit growing. A rolling site which provides good air drainage and which is somewhat elevated is most likely to escape injury from frosts.

Avoid "pockets." It is not only necessary to select elevated sites, but when these sites are in small valleys it is important that the valley be open at its lower end. If it is not, such a valley becomes a "pocket" and because of lack of air drainage is very susceptible to frosts, and unsuitable for apple growing. "Pot-holes," especially if of considerable extent, are best left unplanted as the trees seldom give good results.

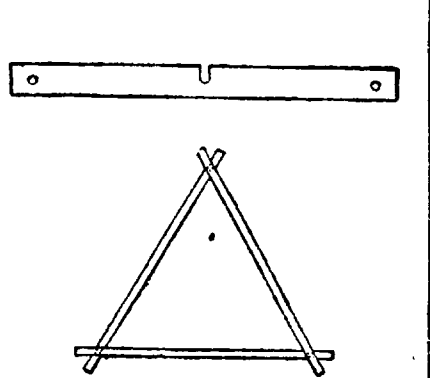

Exposure is the direction of slope of the site. By a northern exposure is meant a site in which the general slope of the land is towards the north. On rolling sites, it is impossible to have all the land slope in the same direction, but in such cases it is the denly that preparation previous to planting is not possible. Preparation for planting should consider at least the character of the surface soil, and the subsoil. With the ideal subsoil no attention need be given, but where the subsoil, or even the lower portion of the surface soil is a compact clay, then subsoiling should be done. The additional root system secured in two seasons by this operation will more than pay for it.

The surface soil should be considered from two standpoints—the character of the tilth, and the presence of organic material. While the former is more or less dependent upon the latter, the degree of firmness is a matter that should not be overlooked. A clover sod, or still better, a crop of clover, ploughed under followed by a cultivated crop, preferably corn, grown upon the land puts the soil in the best possible condition for the planting of trees the following year. Frequent cultivation of the crop so as to put the soil in good tilth is essential. The crop which has been turned under adds both organic matter and nitrogen which assists in a vigorous growth of the trees the season planted. If the soil has been put in good condition before planting, the land may have been ploughed the fall previous or just before planting. Fall ploughing usually permits of earlier setting of trees. A couple of discings or harrowings just before planting puts the soil in fine condition to receive the trees.

There are numerous systems for planting orchards. Many fruit growers have worked out their own systems. Those mostly used are the rectangular, quincunx, alternate and hexagonal, or square systems.

The rectangular square system is most used. In this plan the trees are set at the corners if a rectangular area. Most often the rectangle is a square, but not infrequently the sides are unequal. This is the simplest system to lay out. Its chief disadvantage is that it does not make economical use of the land, there being an area in the center of each rectangle little used by the trees. The quincunx system was devised to offset the difficulty just mentioned. In this operations. By this method, the number of trees per acre may be increased, the land better distributed among them, and inconvenience in orchard operations avoided. It will be seen that this method approaches the hexagonal system for when the diagonal distance between the trees of adjoining rows equals that between the trees in the same row, then we have the hexagonal system.

The alternate system is frequently used in close plantings. In an orchard with rows 20 feet apart, set by the alternate system, it will be found much easier to get between the trees than if the rectangular system is employed for the distance between the nearest trees of the adjoining row will be approximately 28 feet, 3 inches or over 8 feet more than when set by the rectangular system. Set at this distance the space between the trees of adjoining rows would be the same as when planted 40 feet apart by the quincunx. This system would seem, therefore, to be preferable to the quincunx where trees are to be permanent and set less than 40 feet apart.

The hexagonal system or equilateral system is rapidly gaining favor as system an additional tree is set in the center of each rectangle. By this method the land is more fully occupied and the number of trees nearly doubled. In effect this system is doubling the number of rows and making the trees very much closer together. For example, where trees are set 30 feet between the rows, and 30 feet in the row, by the quincunx plan, the rows become fifteen feet apart, and the trees 21.25 feet from those nearest it. It will be seen that unless the rows are more than thirty feet apart, setting a tree in the center of the rectangle would so reduce the distance between the rows that difficulty would be encountered in orchard operations. This system is most often employed at present where fillers are used.

The alternate system is designed to correct the difficulties arising from the former. It differs from it essentially in widening the distance between rows, maintaining the same distances between the trees in the row, and is therefore better adapted to plantings under 40 feet. In the alternate plan with 30 feet apart in the row the rows can be placed much closer together without reducing the space between the trees in adjoining rows so much as to interfere with orchard the most economical system for planting orchards. In this system each tree is equidistant from the nearest neighbor in any direction. The land is equally distributed among the trees and it is practically all used without crowding the trees. It also has the advantage of increasing the number of trees about 15 per cent over the rectangular system without reducing the distance between trees.

There is considerable controversy as to what is the proper distance between trees. It is impossible to give any hard and fast rule as to the proper distances as it will differ materially with climate and soil conditions, and the characteristic growth of the variety. There is always a tendency to plant trees too close. This is undoubtedly due to the fact that there is a desire to use as much of the land from the beginning as possible, and because newly set trees always have the appearance of being farther apart than necessary. Experience has proved that serious losses in the amount of fruit produced accompany close planting. Not only is the crop reduced, but orchard operations, such as cultivating and spraying, are interfered with in close planted orchards.

Spray, prune, cultivate, but by all means spray. No matter how large and healthy your trees may be, nor how highly colored your fruit, if it has worms in it, it is a failure from the market standpoint.

"Safe Farming" Always

Outline of a Program Recommended by Government Specialists to Secure Safety in the Cotton Belt.

The history of agriculture in the south, it has been said, has been one of lean years and fat years. Short crops and high prices have almost invariably been followed by big crops and low prices and, in consequence, the farmer has experienced much distress. The increased attention which has recently been given to supporting the people upon the land has already resulted in much good, but there is some danger. It is pointed out, that, with the price of cotton rising, there will be a tendency for farmers to return to the old system of gambling on cotton. If the people of the south produced their own living, the circular points out, it would steady the whole system and keep the boat from rocking. The safety measures recommended are as follows:

First: Produce a home garden for every family on the farm, the year round, paying special attention to a plot of Irish or sweet potatoes sufficient to supply the family with food of this character. Where feasible, have a patch of sorghum or other cane to produce syrup for the family.

Second: Produce the corn necessary to support all of the people on the farm and the live stock, with absolute safety.

Third: Produce the necessary oats and other small grain to supplement the corn as food. Pay attention to winter grazing.

Fourth: Produce hay and forage from some forage crop, sufficient to supply all of the live stock on the farm. Use legumes such as clover, cowpeas, velvet beans, soy beans and alfalfa for the production of hay and to enrich the soil with nitrogen and humus.

Fifth: Produce the meat necessary to supply the people, through increased attention to poultry and hogs, especially. Plan to increase gradually the number of cattle and other live stock so as to have a sufficient number to consume the waste products of the farm and make the waste lands productive.

Sixth: After all of these things have been accomplished, provide for produce cotton for the market.

PARCEL-POST MARKETING.

The farmer who wishes to sell his products by parcel post, and the housewife who wishes to use this method of securing country produce for her table, will find many useful points in Farmers' Bulletin 703, "Suggestions for Parcel-Post Marketing." This bulletin, in addition to explaining the postal rates and measurement limits for parcel-post matter, discusses in some detail the types of containers which are most successful, and the methods of grading and packing produce so that it will reach the consumer in good condition and be attractive in quality and appearance. In treating standards for parcel-post shipments, the bulletin tells how to select, handle, and pack poultry, and how to grade and pack the various fruits and vegetables which the average farmer is likely to market through the post office.

Spray, prune, cultivate, but by all means spray. No matter how large and healthy your trees may be, nor how highly colored your fruit, if it has worms in it, it is a failure from the market standpoint.

CHARACTERISTICS OF BINDWEED—ERADICATION METHODS.

By H. H. COX.

A study of the eradication of any perennial weed should begin with a consideration of its underground parts. When the character of its underground growth is determined the next step is to devise a method of eradication based on its habits. Hedge and field bindweed will be considered in this article.

Root Stocks of Bindweed Growing Shallowly in a Clay Soil of Medium Depth.

The hedge bindweed may start growth in the spring from near the top of the root stock sent to the surface during the preceding year, or the top growth may come from any part of the preceding year's underground growth. This underground stem forms buds, from which new root stocks grow. Furthermore, new root stocks may grow from any of the buds along the old root stock. An individual root stock may retain its vitality for two or more years if left undisturbed.

The field bindweed is propagated by roots instead of root stocks. These roots extend in a more or less horizontal direction from several inches to several feet below the surface. At any point along the root an adventitious bud may form, from which a root grows or a root shoot is sent to the surface. These root shoots form buds, from which other root shoots grow to the surface, thus giving the impression that the plant propagates by root stocks.

Underground Parts of Hedge Bindweed.

From the facts stated it is evident that the only successful methods for the eradication of bindweed must be based on the suppression of all top growth, in order to starve out the underground parts, except, of course, those methods, at present of little value, which have for their object the direct killing of the roots or root stocks by the application of chemicals. A great many farmers are looking for some easy method of killing the bindweed, and in the meantime are letting it cover the fields and feast on the trees of the orchard. They are looking for some magic "remedy" that will completely eradicate the weed with a small amount of exertion on their part. It must be understood that such a formidable enemy as this weed requires heroic treatment. Other farmers have gone at the problem heedlessly, as in the case of a man who followed the root of a plant to the depth of 4 feet and then applied a large quantity of salt in the hole.

Various methods have been tried to keep down the top growth and hence starve out the underground parts. There are three methods that have given satisfactory results, namely, clean cultivation, alfalfa growing, and hog pasturing. There are other methods that have been tried, but not with a large measure of success. These include the placing of building paper, beet pulp, apple pomace, straw, or manure on the ground to smother the weed growth, and also the application of chemicals. Conditions in irrigated regions are complicated by the fact that bindweed is often allowed to grow along irrigation ditches, the water in which distributes the seed. The water of streams, especially at flood times, is also a factor in distributing the seeds and roots to other lands.

Keep the house plants clean and you will not be bothered with mealy bug or aphids.

Most vegetables need rich, well-worked soil. Having this, and adding thorough cultivation and care, anyone can have a number-one garden.

GET RID OF DISEASE SPREADERS

With the widespread realization of the fact that flies spread diseases as well as cause almost intolerable annoyance, there has developed a demand for efficient means of abating or controlling the nuisance.

The use of formaldehyde (or formalin) seems to offer one such means. R. I. Smith of North Carolina found that one ounce (2 tablespoons) of formalin (40 per cent formaldehyde) in 16 ounces (1 pint) of a mixture of equal parts of milk and water in shallow dishes with a piece of bread in the center for the flies to alight on, proves very attractive and destructive to the flies, especially when placed on the front and back porches of houses. It is less effective when used inside the house, although the method was used with good results in ridding dairies of flies.

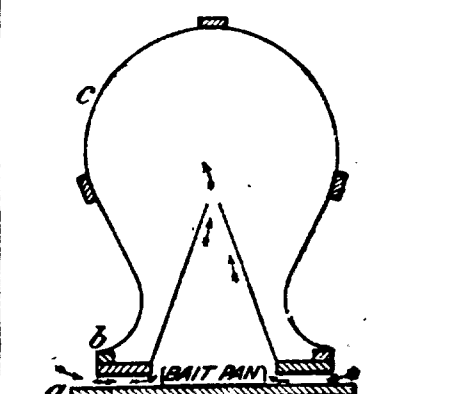

E. E. Green of Celon has used the following method with success: Fill a soap plate with damp sand, cover with a piece of blotting paper, spread sugar on the blotting paper and sprinkle it with a mixture of one part of formalin (40 per cent formaldehyde) with 20 parts of water.

Various forms of fly traps have been used with good results. F. L. Washburn of the Minnesota station describes an efficient and easily constructed form of trap as follows:

The trap is 24 inches long, 12 inches high, and 8 inches wide. The upper part (c) which may be oval or rectangular as preferred, serves as a receptacle which the flies enter through the opening in the top of the middle portion (b) made of ordinary mosquito wire screen and shaped like the roof of a house. Under this is the baseboard (a) upon which rest two tin bait pans. The space between the baseboard and the middle portion is about one-half inch, and between this and the bait pans through which flies enter pans, about one-fourth of an inch, stale meat, bread, and milk are used as bait. The trapped flies are killed by immersing in hot water.

The City of Chicago is going about this "fly" question in earnest. Their methods should be adopted by every other city in the land. The city officials of Chicago did not wait until millions of flies were buzzing around spreading disease and death, but began a strenuous war on these pests on January first, by taking measures providing for the abolishing of all alley receptacles for manure after that date. All citizens have been asked to co-operate with the officials. It is believed that if all manure receptacles can be removed from alleys and properly constructed on private property the fly pest will be largely controlled.

OATS GOOD GREEN FOOD.

Oats soaked over night in lukewarm water, then spread in shallow boxes where the frost cannot touch them and kept covered with a damp cloth for a week after will, at the end of that time, show up an ideal green food for the winter layers. Three or more such boxes coming on alternately will keep the fowls supplied.—I. M. Shepler.

The incubator should be operated according to the manufacturer's directions.

"How many head o' live stock you got on the place?" "Live stock," echoed the somewhat puzzled farmer. "What d'ye mean by live stock? I got four steam tractors and seven automobiles."—"Judge!"

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Assertions by a leading crop expert that Hessian fly had spread further west in Kansas than last year and had infested a big wheat producing territory gave an upward swing today to the price of wheat. Opening prices here, which ranged from 1/4¢ to 3/4¢ higher, with May at $1.30 1/2, to $1.31 1/2 and July at $1.23 1/2, to $1.24 1/2, were followed by a slight reaction and then by decided gains.
The close was weak, 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ net lower with May at $1.29 1/2, 1/2¢ and July at $1.22 1/2.
Corn rose with wheat. After opening 1/4¢ off to 1/2¢ up the market made a general ascent but then receded moderately under profit taking by longs.
The close was heavy at 1/2¢ to 3/4¢ net decline.
Scattered purchases were sufficient enough to lift oats.
Selling by packers acted as an offset for higher prices for hogs.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Feb. 17.—Overnight advices suggesting a reopening of the Lusitania controversy were reflected in the further heaviness of stocks at today's opening, while conditions in Mexico also made for increased uneasiness. Losses of one to two points were registered by Crucible Steel, New York Airbrake, Mexican Petroleum, American Smelting and other active issues, while various shares were lower by substantial fractions. United States Steel yielded only slightly with immaterial change in rail. Crucible led the moderate rally before the end of the first half hour, but the undertone was uncertain.

Railers were checked by the increased weakness of coppers and oils, but the market reversed its course later on, buying of Crucible as well as Canadian Pacific, Baldwin Locomotive and American Can. Canadian Pacific shown an overnight gain of two points and United States Steel also more than made up its early loss. Dealings slackened visibly on the second readjustment of prices, the market drifting idly until just before midday, when further general improvement was noted as a result of more favorable advices from Washington. Bonds were irregular.

Metal shares, especially Butte and Superior and American Zinc, rose substantially in the last hour while specialties, particularly Baldwin, were heavy. The closing was irregular.

For Fort Wayne and vicinity (radius 20 miles): Partly cloudy tonight and Friday; not much change in temperature.
For Lower Michigan: Generally fair tonight and Friday; not much change in temperature.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.
An area of high pressure covers the Rocky mountain region and northwestern sections, and an area of relatively high pressure overlies the gulf coast. The pressure is relatively low over the St. Lawrence valley and north central districts. Precipitation has resulted from this distribution of pressure in the St. Lawrence valley and in the middle and north Atlantic states. Elsewhere the weather has been generally fair. Moderate temperatures prevail in all sections of the country, but the weather is somewhat cooler than the normal on the south Atlantic and gulf coast.

LANSING SEEKS NEW PLEDGE FROM BERLIN

Ships Even When Defensive

ACCEPTS LUSITANIA AGREEMENT IN THAT CASE

Washington, Feb. 17.—Secretary Lansing today accepted the Lusitania agreement as acceptable to the United States insofar as it relates to that case but asked Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, for assurances that Germany will not carry its policy of sinking merchant ships without warning to liners even if they carry defensive armament.

The question of what constitutes defensive armament is to be determined later in a way not yet agreed upon. It is suggested that the United States may propose that guns mounted on the stern of ships and capable of being swung from 15 to 30 degrees in either direction might come within that class.

Explains It Fully.
Secretary Lansing explained fully to the ambassador the position of the United States in the light of the new developments and is understood to have told him that while Germany's position is recognized as well founded, the United States must insist that Germany confine all her practices to international law inasmuch as the entente allies have declined to make any changes.

The Lusitania agreement will be kept by Secretary Lansing and later will be published with the assurances which the United States hopes to receive from Germany covering the points brought up by the new submarine campaign. The new assurances, if they are given, would be embodied in a separate note.

Going After Allies Now.
Meanwhile, it was said, the United States would make efforts to have the entente allies agree not to put guns of any kind on passenger-carrying liners and in turn would expect assurances from Germany for their safety.

It was understood the principal objection by the United States to accepting the Lusitania agreement as governing the future was that it merely referred to the assurances previously given that unresisting liners would not be sunk without warning but it did not actually embody or reiterate them. Ambassador von Bernstorff when he returned to his embassy, sent a long dispatch to his government setting forth fully the position of the United States as Secretary Lansing had outlined it to him.

Germany is prepared to inform the United States that if passenger liners leaving American ports with defensive armament are to be immune from submarine attack without warning, as the German government promised last September in the Arabic case, the Berlin government expects some assurances that the liners will not attack the submarines.

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, has an engagement to confer with Secretary Lansing today and he is expected to convey this view in reply to the secretary's statement on yesterday that it was desirable that the German government make a declaration that in carrying out its new submarine campaign without warning, after Feb. 23, it intended to abide by the assurance it gave in the Arabic case that "liners" would not be attacked without warning unless they attempted to resist.

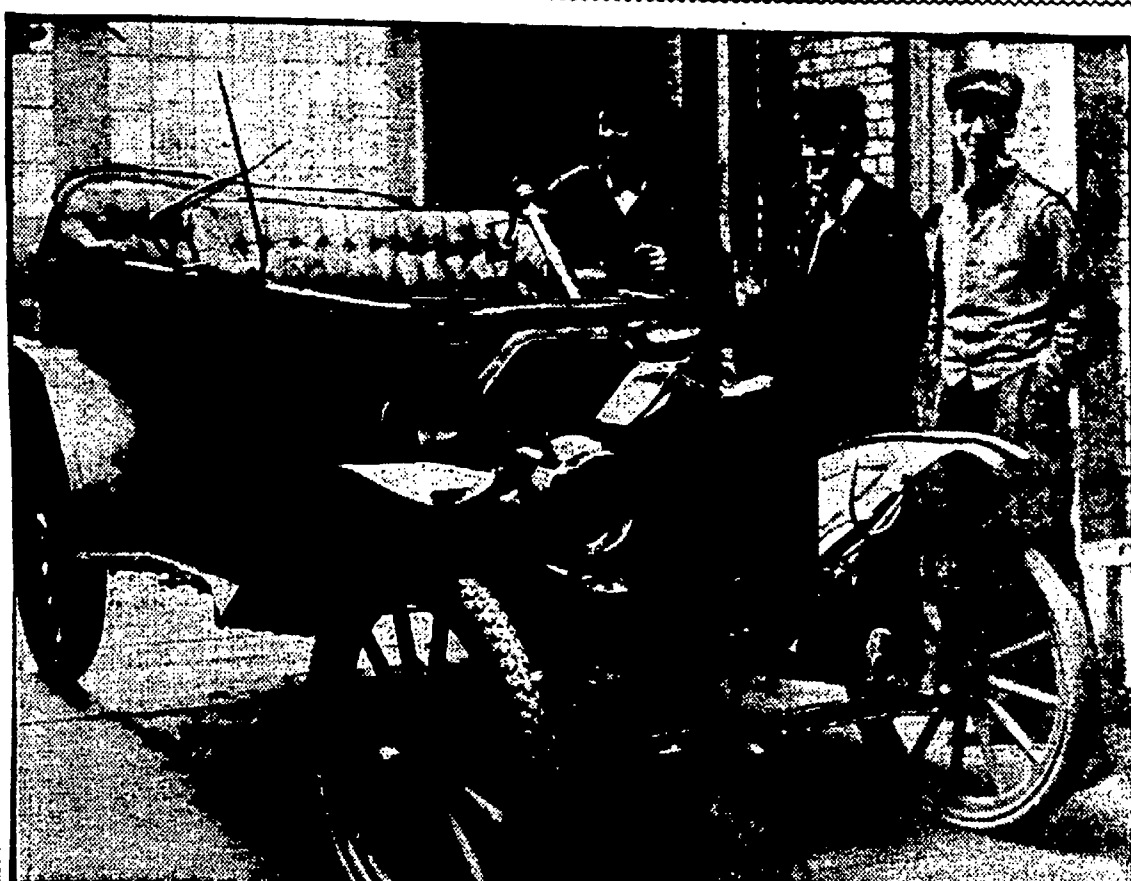

Continue Study of Note.
President Wilson and Secretary Lansing today continued their study of the Lusitania agreement as it was formally submitted yesterday to determine whether any of its terms would be nullified by the principles of the newly announced submarine campaign.

Lorimer Expects to Win in Bank-Wrecking Charge

Chicago, Feb. 17.—William Lorimer, once holder of a seat in the senate of the United States, today attended the opening session of his trial on a charge of wrecking the LaSalle Street Trust and Savings bank, of which he was the principal founder and head. He refused to discuss the case except to say he had no fear as to the outcome.

Judge Deever, of the criminal court, who presided, granted preliminary motions of the defense that the major charge of conspiracy to defraud be consolidated with the minor charge of receiving deposits after the bank's insolvency was known and of operating a confidence game resulting from alleged misrepresentation of the institution's assets. The state made no objection to the consolidation.

CITY FIREMEN PLAN TO CONVERT FAMOUS JUNK HEAP INTO REAL AUTOMOBILE FOR CITY'S USE.

Gigantic Total of Prisoners

Erzerum.

British Lose Very Heavily
in Mesopotamia, Says
Constantinople.

Today's War News Given in Summary

More than 1,000 guns were captured by the Russians when they took Erzerum, the Turkish stronghold in Armenia, according to estimates in a Petrograd official statement. If these figures are borne out, the Russians' haul in cannon probably sets a record for the war in the capture of any fortress. When Novogeorgievsk fell the Germans took 700 guns.

The Petrograd estimate places the garrison of Erzerum at 100,000 men, giving ground for an assumption that the capture of this number of Turkish troops is claimed. Previous reports had indicated that the garrison was bottled up in the fortress.

There has been continued fighting between Italians and Austrians along the Austrian frontier. Vienna reports a defeat for the Italians in the eighth attack by their outposts on the Austrian position at Jeverko while before the new Austrian position in the Rombon district the ground was covered with Italian dead.

According to the official account the British Mesopotamian forces have been heavy sufferers in the recent fighting. The British losses in the battle at Bathia west of Korna, aggregated 2,000, it is stated.

Fighting on the western front has lessened in intensity, probably because of the prevailing bad weather and similar conditions prevail in Russia.

Petrograd, Feb. 17.—The Official Messenger estimates the Turkish garrison at Erzerum, capture of which by the Russians was announced yesterday, at 100,000 men. It is also estimated that more than 1,000 guns were captured. President Poincare telegraphed congratulations on the capture of Erzerum today to Emperor Nicholas and Grand Duke Nicholas, commander of the Russian forces on the Caucasian front.

Public rejoicing over the capture of Erzerum is reflected in the newspaper comment on the fall of the fortress. The Novoe Vremya considers the capture to have enormous importance, as it points out that Erzerum is a center of trade and railway routes as well as of military administration and has immense depots for ammunition and supplies. It declares the fall of the city opens routes north and south to the Russians and will seriously affect the activities of the Turks in Mesopotamia and Syria.

The jitney bus lost in Spy Run for several weeks after the Lawton park bridge collapsed under it, has been paid for by the city and the firemen at No. 1 engine house have been commissioned to repair it. It is little more than a bunch of junk, but the department mechanics feel that they can make it as good as new and when it is finished it will be placed in city service.

WOMAN THROWN FROM BUGGY AND INJURED

Horse Runs Away With Little Child as Only
Occupant of Rig.

Mrs. William Albersmeyer, residing in the country, was painfully injured Thursday afternoon when the buggy in which she was riding with her little daughter was struck by city car No. 54 at Fairfield avenue and Main streets, throwing her out and causing the horse to run away with the child as the only occupant.

The horse had gone about a block when Raymond Keim, 508 Davis street, rushed out at the risk of his life and succeeded in stopping it. The little girl had presence of mind enough not to jump. The horse was slightly injured and Mrs. Albersmeyer was removed to St. Joseph hospital. She was badly sprained about the wrist and was otherwise painfully hurt, although her condition is not regarded as serious.

HARNER IS ILL IN BOSTON HOSPITAL

Word has been received by friends in Fort Wayne of the illness of Joseph G. Harner, in a hospital at Boston, who for two years was connected with the naval recruiting station in this city. According to the doctor who is attending him he is suffering from Bright's disease. While there is little hope for his complete recovery his condition at the present time is not regarded as critical. Mr. Harner left Fort Wayne a couple of months ago for ship duty.

PUBLICITY WRECKS HIS NOVEL WOOING

Did His Courting in Thought Waves.

Evansville, Ind., Feb. 17.—O. Abbott Burton, lecturer on psychological phenomena, today announced that publicity, temporarily at least, had defeated his "thought wave wooing" that brought Miss Olive Owen, Brooklyn, N. Y., poetess, to this city to survey him as her prospective husband. Burton said Miss Owen had left without announcing her decision. On the arrival of the poetess, Burton said he had met her at the home of a friend in Chicago and later communicated with her by thought waves at her Brooklyn home. It was after this communication, he said, that Miss Owen came here as the guest of his mother. Miss Owen, Burton said, has gone to Chicago to visit a friend whose name he professed not to know.

GREECE SENDS FUNDS HERE.

Transfers Millions From London to New York Banks.
New York, Feb. 17.—The government of Greece has been transferring millions of dollars of its funds from London to New York within a few months, according to New York bankers, who estimate that $75,000,000 of Greek funds are now on deposit in a large number of banks here. This action is regarded by bankers as a precautionary move in a case of a break in the relations of the Greek government with the entente allies.

FIGHTS EXTRADITION.

Stock Fraud Charge.

Indianapolis, Feb. 17.—The fight to prevent the extradition of Elmer E. Vessey, a hotel keeper at Elwood, from Indiana to Cleveland, O., where he is wanted on a charge of having obtained $7,500 from a woman by false representations, was resumed before Governor Ralston this afternoon. Attorneys representing Vessey and Harry Youckey, of the Marion county prosecutor's office, appeared before the governor yesterday.

Vessey contends he as well as the woman involved lost money that was put into Nevada mining stocks. The offense charged was committed in 1910, the papers show, but the indictment against Vessey was not returned until a few months ago. Vessey is charged with having made false representations as to the value of the mine.

PARENTS CONDEMN TEACHER.

Hammond, Ind., Feb. 17.—Parents of 100 boys and girls of the East Chicago grammar schools condemn the action of Wayne Miller, teacher of physiology who invited the children to remain after school to see a cat dissected. SALOON PULPIT MOST COSTLY HE EVER USED.

Alexandria, Ind., Feb. 17.—Rev. A. A. Fletcher, of Warsaw, who has received a call from the Baptist church here, recently accepted an invitation from a saloonkeeper at Bana, Ill., to preach in a saloon in connection with a series of revival meetings. Mounting two whisky barrels and some motion picture films, the minister spoke to 500 persons. In beginning he said: "My right foot is on 50,000 yards of motion picture films and my left on 3,500 headcaches. One hundred and twenty gallons of whisky supporting my body, priced at $4 a gallon, makes this the most costly pulpit I ever preached from." During the sermon not a drink was sold over the bar.

MOTHER-IN-LAW IS TO GAIN BENEFITS

Aided Himself, Charles La Tourette, Gets Tanlac for Relative.

Charles La Tourette, manager of the Novelty department of the Fort Wayne Printing company, who lives at 1114 Lake avenue, this city, told recently how Tanlac, the Master Medicine, gained his firm friendship.

Mr. LaTourette is very well known in this city. Scores of friends know him as a man of unquestioned honesty and integrity and consider statements from him as coming from a most reliable source.

"I have suffered from stomach trouble for a long time and recently I had an attack of the grip," Mr. La Tourette said. "Because of the stomach trouble I slept very poorly and would awaken in the mornings with burning pains in my stomach. My appetite also was poor. The attack of the grip left me with an aching all through my body."

"The symptoms of the grip became less severe the second or third day after I started taking Tanlac. I kept right on taking the medicine and now my stomach also is in much better condition. Where, formerly, I was forced to diet on soups and light foods, I now am able to eat anything I care for. I also sleep fine now."

"Tanic has helped me as nothing else ever did. I am recommending the medicine to my friends and relatives and, only last Sunday, I bought a bottle of it and sent it by mail to my mother-in-law, who lives in Pittsburgh, Pa."

"Tanic, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism, nervousness, loss of appetite, sleeplessness and the like and is fine for relieving the after effects of hard coughs, cold, la Grippe, pneumonia and the like."

Tanic is now being introduced in Fort Wayne at the Wayne and Calhoun streets store of the Meyer Drug Co., where the Tanlac Man is explaining the new remedy. It also may be obtained at the other Meyer stores, Calhoun and Columbia, 1420 Calhoun, and Broadway and Taylor.—Advertisement.

CHILD IS RECOVERING.

Mary Loving Was at Death's Door With Peanut Kernel in Lung.

Mary Loving, aged 7 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Loving, of 1510 Kentucky avenue, who had been at death's door for the past week as a result of having a peanut kernel lodged in her lung, was pronounced as much better at the Lutheran hospital where she has been a patient. The object first lodged in her throat and when effort were made to remove it, it had slipped into the lung. An X-ray examination to locate the foreign object proved to be unsatisfactory. The attending physician states that nature will work its own cure in this case and that the kernel will be removed in small particles from the lung. He states that a violent cough may also dislodge the object.

Miss Dorothy Bunch is spending a few days in Muncie, with relatives, and Mrs. Paul Bunch is visiting her mother in Kendallville.

TEN DEATH LIST IN OPERA HOUSE RUINS

Mexia, Texas, Feb. 17.—Search of the ruins of the Mexia opera house, which collapsed last night, and of business buildings destroyed in the resulting fire, failed to add to the list of victims and the number of dead early today remained at nine. Nearly a score of injured were reported resting easily.

Three of the dead were killed in the wreck of the opera house, which had been opened for an art exhibition by the city schools under the auspices of the mothers' club. Because of the early hour only a few persons had arrived when the accident occurred and this undoubtedly prevented a greater loss of life.

The victims killed in the opera house were A. B. Weisner, superintendent of the city schools; Mrs. Weisner and Prof. A. C. Bruton. Others in the building escaped with injuries. Two doors from the opera house, six men were killed in the Mecca cafe, which was destroyed by the fall of the opera house and the gas explosion which accompanied it.

Before the fire was checked a number of business buildings had burned with a loss of $75,000.

POISON SUSPECT IN LETTER TO PRESS

Jean Crouce Writes Regarding Banquet Poisoning.

New York, Feb. 17.—A letter purporting to be signed by Jean Crouce, the fugitive Chicago chef who helped prepare the banquet to Archbishop Mundelein at Chicago, at which many of the diners were poisoned, was received yesterday by the New York Times. The letter appears to be genuine, but its authenticity is being investigated by the New York police.

The communication gives a detailed description of the contents of Crouce's room and the Chicago police have been asked to verify the information it contains. The author of the letter is evidently in or near New York. He says he has bleached his hair white, that he has a job and that he is living quietly in a village near this city. The letter, with its imperfect grammar and misspelling, follows in part:

"Everything I have read in the papers regarding my case is either foolish or untrue. I declare that my story is true. In America I am since the 6th May, 1913, and worked for three months in Castels old French restaurant, Grand City, Staten Island, as chef. After that I worked for 1 year, in New York, and after that in Chicago, Cleveland, in the Country club and back to Chicago at the University club. I was chef of the old west room and did not have anything to do with the soup."

"I always was in the Radical movement as a worker and as a true comrade to my fellow workers. Meanwhile I have studied science (astronomy and chemistry) as I leave science I hate religion and as I have seen the menu for that dinner 12 days before I thought that it was a sanitary thing to make a good clean up. And I started right away to work. I worked till late in the night every day and I prepared the poisons but the most hat a bitter taste. Later I agreed for arsenic and barium chloride."

"No one in the world has known those things before. After I had placed the poison in little quantities in different dishes which were ready for the dinner. "After that I went home. I took a solution and made my hair white as snow. Two times I was over come by the gases evolved. Then I left home with nothing but my clothes, some explosives and some poison, some a knife and a revolver. Those explosives are very dangerous for the smallest shock causes an explosion which will have terrible results. I deny that there were any explosives in my room after I left. "The six cans which the stupid Chicago police believed gun cotton is nothing but asbestos around for safe shipping. "I must have left the letters which the police find, I did never have any other letter but from home. Those letters and all my papers I have burned before I left."

BIGGEST WARSHIP OFF FOR OFFICIAL TESTS

Builders Confident Pennsylvania Will Meet All Requirements.

Newport News, Va., Feb. 17.—The super-dreadnought, Pennsylvania, the largest battle ship yet built for the United States navy, left the plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company early today for Rockland, Maine, to run the official government speed and endurance trials. The builders predict that she will easily meet the contract requirements as to speed, endurance and fuel consumption.

The Pennsylvania, with her main battery of twelve 14-inch rifles mounted in four turrets on the center line, is declared by naval experts to be the most powerful sea fighter afloat. A broadside shell fire from her big guns would weigh 18,000 pounds, which is said to be greater than the broadside fire of the Queen Elizabeth, of the British navy, which mounts eight 15-inch rifles. The Pennsylvania is 600 feet long and will have a full load displacement of nearly 33,000 tons.

RIVER IS TOO WIDE AT SWINNEY PARK

Wallace Rice and Donald Robertson, of Chicago, who will probably be engaged to put on the pageant here next June, in connection with the centennial celebration, were not as favorably impressed with Swinney park as a desirable place for holding the pageant as was the pageant master from St. Louis. It is very probable that another location will be selected. One of the principal objections to Swinney park raised by Mr. Robertson was the width of the river, which would prevent the speaking parts from being heard. Messrs. Rice and Robertson returned to Chicago Wednesday afternoon.

ALL FRANCE SWEEP BY TERRIFIC GALE

Weather at West Front is Worst Known Since the War Began.

Paris, Feb. 17.—A gale swept France yesterday and caused serious damage in Paris and the provinces. A number of shipwrecks have been reported from the maritime districts and the channel services have been delayed and at some ports entirely interrupted. Many telegraph wires and many trees have been blown down and several persons were killed and injured in Paris by falling tiles and chimneys. In the Chambery district a local torrent broke its banks and flooded the plains lying below.

Reports from the front describe the weather for the last forty-eight hours as the worst experienced since the war began. The gale was particularly severe in the Belgian district.

HOLLAND HARD HIT.

Amsterdam, Holland, Feb. 17.—The northwesterly storm is still blowing with undiminished violence and the situation is described as critical. Reports from various places of the damage which has been done are causing grave apprehension.

Monnikendam has suffered considerably. The water rose a foot yesterday afternoon in this town, in the province of North Holland, a few miles from Amsterdam, and is still rushing in. At Volendam twenty houses have been abandoned. The railway embankment between Purmored and Oostzaal in the same province has been destroyed threatening a fresh catastrophe. Breaking of the dykes around West Linder lakes at Aalsmeer, eight miles southwest of Amsterdam, appears to be inevitable.

HIS MIND BLANK FOR 5 DAYS; NOW RETURNS

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 17.—J. M. Gott, a section hand on the Monon railroad, who was given up as a suicide a few days ago by his friends and family, greatly surprised them last evening when he staggered into his home. Gott went to work as a track walker last Friday morning. When he did not return in the evening his family became alarmed and searching parties were instituted. His tools were found near the bridge that spans the Big Bear creek, five miles south of here and it was thought he had jumped into the swollen stream. The bed of the creek was dragged but no trace of the missing man was found.

Gott said last night that his mind has been a blank for the past five days and that he could not recall who he was or where he belonged. He has had no solid food during his absence and lived on roots and herbs gathered in the fields. He recovered his senses last evening about 5 o'clock while walking in an open field. He is almost a nervous wreck and is greatly emaciated.

UNCLE SAM SAYS NO BOOZE FOR ALASKA RAILWAY WORKERS.

(Special Correspondence.)

Seward, Alaska, Feb. 17.—Uncle Sam is taking as much pains to protect the workmen on his government railroad out of Anchorage from the demon rum as from any other possible causes of inefficiency.

Twenty-eight women bootleggers were recently arrested at Anchorage, the main construction camp, and fined $100 each for selling liquor to the men.

The sale of booze is prohibited there under rules of the Alaska Engineering commission and a stipulation included in the deeds to town lots by which they are forfeited in case of conviction.

The latest arrests indicate the government's vigilance in seeing that the liquor traffic is stamped out there at any cost.

Sentenced at Manila for Charges Against Many High Officials.

Manila, Feb. 17.—An American lawyer of Manila named Kelly, who was a delegate to the democratic national convention in 1902, has been ordered disbarred and has been sentenced by the supreme court to six months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $500 for the publication of a book which says that Gen. Noriel, the insurgent leader who was put to death in Jan. 1915, for the murder of a political enemy, was innocent and that sixty persons, including high officials and supreme court justices, were guilty of assassination in connection with the execution of Noriel and his two colleagues.

Kelly filed criminal charges against the officials whom he accuses and he applied for the release of two others who were sentenced as accomplices of Noriel to life imprisonment. Kelly has now sent a cable dispatch addressed to the United States supreme court in Washington asking that he be liberated pending an investigation of his case.

LIUT. JONES

ENSIGN KIRKPATRICK

Ensign Kirkpatrick assumed full blame for the loss of the code book when he appeared before the court martial, held on the battleship Oregon. He said he had taken the book from the chart locker one evening to study certain signals. He was called away to attend to duties, he said, and left the book in the ship's ward room. When he looked for it later, it was gone. Lieutenant Jones, who was in command of the destroyed Hull at the time the book was lost, pleaded not guilty.

HER HUSBAND AT THE FRONT.

Kendallville, Ind., Feb. 17.—To the battle front to fight the foe is the fate of Ernest Volbrecht, of Hamburg, Germany, husband of Mrs. Agnes Volbrecht, a former Kendallville girl, and who will be remembered here as Miss Dot Guffy. Such is the information received by Mrs. G. S. Snyder, a second cousin to Mrs. Volbrecht. Mrs. Volbrecht left this city some fifteen years ago. She was reared here and attended the public schools. She went to Chicago where she made her temporary abode with an aunt, later going to Hongkong, China, as a stenographer, where she remained three years before returning to America. She again returned to China and during her extensive travels has been around the world several times. It was in China she met and became engaged to Mr. Volbrecht. Later they were married.

Hartford City, Ind., Feb. 17.—It is believed that an arrest will be made very soon, in connection with the Boyer second hand store robbery, which was "pulled off" in this city a few nights ago. Word from Fort Wayne is to the effect that a man entered a tailor shop there, with a sample of goods from which he desired an overcoat made. HORSE THIEVES IN WABASH.

Wabash, Ind., Feb. 17.—The mania for taking horses has again broken out in this city, it is thought, following the disappearance of a rig belonging to Douglas Hubbard, superintendent of the county infirmary. A report was made at police headquarters but no clue which would lead to the apprehension of the animal could be found. All surrounding cities were notified but as yet nothing has been heard of the missing rig.

How To Get Rid of a Bad Cough

A Home-Made Remedy that Will Do It Quickly, Cheap and Easily Made

If you have a bad cough or chest cold which refuses to yield to ordinary remedies, get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents a bottle), pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Start taking a teaspoonful every hour or two. In 24 hours your cough will be conquered or very nearly so. Even whooping cough is greatly relieved in this way.

The above mixture makes a full pint syrup that money could buy—at a cost of only 54 cents. Prepared in 5 minutes. Full directions with Pinex.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup preparation takes right hold of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough in a way that is really remarkable. Also quickly breaks the inflamed membrane which accompany a painful cough, and stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. Excellent for bronchitis, spasmodic croup and winter coughs. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children like it.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in quaiacol, which is so healing to the membrane.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex." Do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded on return of preparation.

New Rules for Street Traffic Recommended

As Result of One Year's Study Safety First Federation Offers Uniform Regulations for Cities.

New York, Feb. 17.—The growing sentiment throughout the country for uniformity in the regulation of street traffic, which shall be reasonable as well as enforceable, has finally been crystallized through the compilation of a standard code of traffic committee of the Safety First Federation of America. The announcement of this accomplishment after a study and investigation of the subject extending over a year will be welcomed by every one conversant with the present chaotic condition caused primarily by the varying traffic ordinances in force in our municipalities. Heretofore, each city has drafted its own traffic ordinances, following no general policy, creating a variation of important requirements in detail of enforcement, and in penalties imposed. In many instances the research work of the street traffic committee has led to local ordinances which conflict with state laws, while others contain provisions which should be the subject of legislative rather than of local regulation. One of the principal reasons advanced last year for the organization of the Safety First federation was the necessity of compiling a standard code of traffic regulations which would be suitable to the needs of all communities, or at least tend to establish uniformity as to cities of a certain size.

Committee Gets Real Results

In this work the street traffic committee, composed of state and city officers and representatives of automobile clubs, transportation and street railway companies, has had the hearty co-operation of the authorities having under their jurisdiction the regulation of street traffic in sixty-five important cities in the United States and Canada. The result of the committee's efforts has been a source of gratification to those who foresaw the possibility of this achievement under the leadership of the Safety First federation, particularly in view of the unsuccessful attempts previously made by other associations in this direction. Among the important features of the standard code as compiled by the street traffic committee, are the following: Prohibiting the use of the muffler cutout. Prohibiting excessive emission of smoke or fumes. Prohibiting the unnecessary use of warning signals. Providing that all vehicles shall carry lights from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise. Approval of the near-side stop regulation for street cars. Providing car stop safety zones for persons getting on or off street cars. To Protect Car Stop Zones. Providing for protecting the carstop safety zones from encroachment by vehicles, either moving or standing. Requiring that all vehicles must come to a full stop at least five feet behind a street car when stopping, or which has stopped, to receive or discharge passengers. Requiring pedestrians to cross the street at the regular crossing, to cross with the traffic and comply with the signals of traffic officers. Requiring the locking of unattended motor vehicles to prevent their removal by unauthorized persons. Requiring properly illuminated license tags on automobiles, and favoring the adoption by automobile manufacturers of a uniform transparently illuminated license tag holder. Requiring in the event of an accident that the driver must stop and render all possible assistance to persons injured, giving name and address to any persons concerned or any person requesting same, and in the absence of a police officer, the driver shall report the accident to police headquarters. Recommending the licensing of all motor vehicle drivers or operators, subject to suspension or revocation by the issuing authority. It is contended that the adoption of this regulation by the various state legislatures will result in a material reduction of highway accidents. The chief requisite for securing the license shall be proper physical, mental and moral qualifications. The details of granting the licenses necessary rests with the several state legislatures and would include such matters as affixing to the license card a photograph of the licensee, for the purpose of affording a means of identification and adding to the practicability of enforcement. Approval of the following regulation for removing headlight glare: Whenever there is not sufficient light within the limits of the highway location clearly to reveal all persons, vehicles or substantial objects within said limits for a distance of at least 150 feet, the headlights of all motor vehicles in motion shall give sufficient light to reveal any person, vehicle or substantial object on the road straight ahead of such motor vehicle for a distance of at least 150 feet. The headlights shall be so arranged that no portion of the beam of reflected light, when measured 75 feet or more ahead of the lamps, shall rise above 42 inches from the level surface on which the vehicle stands. Such headlights shall also give sufficient side illumination to indicate any person, vehicle or substantial object 10 feet to the side of said motor vehicle at a point 10 feet ahead of the lamps. The term "beam of reflected light" as used in the above provision shall be construed as meaning the approximately parallel focalized rays gathered and projected by a reflector lens or other device. To Standardize Signs and Signals. It is proposed to further eliminate the possibility of street accidents by standardizing signs and signals, and the street traffic committee has approved of the mechanical traffic semaphore that has been in successful operation on Fifth avenue, New York, and adopted in Detroit, Baltimore, Washington, St. Louis, Boston, New Orleans and other cities. It is intended to standardize methods of dealing with traffic at congested corners, so that when pedestrians are crossing the street they will not be endangered by approaching vehicles. This will necessitate the conferring of authority upon police departments to regulate pedestrian travel as well as vehicular traffic. Standardization of accident report blanks, and a method of compiling statistics for the intelligent study and

Investigation of the most common form of accidents, is also to be undertaken.

The adoption of the standard code with the view to securing uniformity in traffic regulations will be of much help to the authorities in many cities who have been slow to recognize the importance of the safety first movement, and will bring to them the experience of the more progressive municipalities. It will afford a means of instructing all drivers, visitors as well as residents, in the simple rules of safety. If the standard code is adopted substantially in the form as approved in all of the larger cities, automobilists touring from one city to another will have no excuse for violating traffic rules. Motorists Worst Offenders. The records show frequent and tragic proof of the fact that motorists have been to a great extent the worst offenders against traffic regulations. It has been the aim of the street traffic committee to draft uniform requirements with the view to reducing the number of preventable accidents, to eliminate indefensible maimings and killings, to do away with excuses that do not excuse, and with methods of keeping records that do not show the actual, true accounts of accidents and their causes. The result of the committee's work will be to effect various economies, expedite the movement of traffic, permit police officers to give greater attention to pedestrians and at the same time advance the movement for the conservation of life, limb and property. The standard code of traffic regulations will be issued in loose-leaf book form, and the publication will be ready for distribution in February. This event will commemorate the first anniversary of the founding of the Safety First Federation of America. The compilation of this code has been under the personal direction of Hon. John Gillespie, police commissioner of Detroit, who, as chairman of the federation's street traffic committee, has visited all of the important cities in the United States and Canada in connection with this work. An English scientist believes that, if the radium in the interior of the earth is equal in quantity to that in the surface rocks, the world will grow hotter in time instead of colder.

NEW MEN MEET TO DISCUSS SITUATION

Letter from Harry S. New on Questions of Preparedness.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Harry S. New for Senator club was held Wednesday evening in the law offices of Judge Walter Olds in the Old National bank building. Among the speakers were Captain W. A. Kelsey, Harry G. Hogan, Judge Walter Olds, Arthur W. Parry, Harry Dermody, E. A. Wagner, Norman Olds and E. K. Dorr. The following letter from Mr. New on the question of preparedness was read: "I am most certainly in favor of thorough preparedness, believing that the condition of our relations with more than one foreign power makes this imperative necessary. In this day of aeroplane, the submarine, high powered rifles, swift battle cruisers and all sorts of things, the condition of the United States is, to my mind, such as to cause the gravest fear for what might happen if we were to be attacked by even one of the second-class powers, and all the sentiment and abhorrence of war that good men and women may very properly entertain is not going to do away with the necessity for proper and adequate preparedness for resistance of the unjust demands and encroachments of foreign powers." A meeting of the New workers in the rural districts will be held in Judge Olds' office next Saturday afternoon. A meeting of the Seventh ward branch of the New-for-Senator club will be held Thursday evening in the Jones point shop, on East Leith street. A similar meeting will be held at the De-moey home, in Lake township. Lane at Monroeville. Charles R. Lane, candidate for the republican congressional nomination, spoke at Monroeville, Wednesday evening, confining his remarks principally to a discussion of the tariff and preparedness. The meeting was largely attended. Mr. Lane says that every day he is receiving new assurances of support from all parts of the district. Hilgemann Speaks. Harry H. Hilgemann, candidate for the democratic congressional nomination, was the principal speaker, Wednesday evening, at a democratic meeting at Hoagland. Mr. Hilgemann said he believed the people were in sympathy with the administration and would give it their endorsement next November. Dr. J. L. Smith, former county auditor, presided. Republican Love Feast. Fort Wayne will send a big delegation of republicans to the love feast to be held at Kendallville, Friday evening. The supporters of Bob Hanna have chartered a special car to be run over the Fort Wayne and Northwestern line and have also engaged the Elks' band. Supporters of Charles R. Lane and Prof. Lewis W. Fairfield are also planning for big demonstrations.

SPEED-WEIGHT NAMED AS A VITAL FACTOR

It Enters Into Calculations in All Modern Road-Building.

New York, Feb. 17.—"Speed-weight" is the name given by Col. E. A. Stevens, commissioner of public roads of New Jersey, and recently elected president of the American Road Builders' association, to a newly designated factor in road building which must be more carefully considered by highway engineers in the future. The rate of speed at which commodities of given weights can be carried over a road has a definite relation to the value of the road, the commodities to a community, in dollars and cents; and to construct roads which will stand under the present heavy automobile and motor truck traffic, a more careful study of "speed-weights" is required. It is expected that Colonel Stevens, in his address at the American Road Builders' congress at Pittsburgh, Pa., February 28th, will place this problem squarely before the convention for highway officials and engineers to study. The vast amount of money being spent every year in road and street construction and maintenance, amounting to several hundred million dollars, and the constantly growing necessity for a greater mileage of improved roads which will sustain modern traffic, and the rapid development of motor vehicles to handle both commodities and passengers at high speed, all tend to stimulate highway officials and engineers to a higher appreciation of the economic and scientific principles involved. The Sixth American Good Roads congress, which includes the thirteenth annual convention of the American Road Builders' association, and the Seventh National Good Roads show, and which will be held at Pittsburgh, Pa., February 28th to March 3rd, is attracting unusual attention from the governors of the various states who have been invited to appoint delegates. Some governors have announced their intention to be present in person, and almost without exception, have announced their determination to appoint delegates who will certainly attend and take part in the proceedings of the congress. In many instances these delegates include officials of state highway departments, who are also members of the association. Mayors of a large number of cities have either appointed delegates or expressed their intention to do so.

Orville Rummel, of Kendallville, who has been in the Lutheran hospital for the past ten days, as a result of an accident which will cost him the sight of his left eye, is getting along nicely and expects to leave the hospital the fore-part of next week.

TODAY'S BEAUTY TALK

You can make a delightful shampoo with very little effort and for a very trifling cost if you get from your druggist a package of canthox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. Your shampoo is now ready. Just pour a little at a time on the scalp and rub briskly. This creates an abundance of thick, white lather that thoroughly dissolves and remove all dandruff, excess oil and dirt. After rinsing, the hair dries quickly, with a softness that makes it seem heavier than it is, and takes on a rich luster and a softness that makes arranging it a pleasure.—Advertisement.

Agony of Leg Sore Stopped by D.D.D.

Woman Tells Pitiful Story
 "I am the mother of 12 children. I took a varicose ulcer on my leg at the birth of last child five years ago. I used every ointment that was made. I was laid up for nearly five weeks with a doctor attending me who did nothing but treat me with ointments. I was told to try a bottle of D.D.D. I never expected it to cure. Now my leg is healed up. Thanks to the blessed D.D.D. I am able to get about. I only got it to take away the terrible itching. By degrees I saw the big sore getting smaller. 232 N. Weston Rd. West Toronto, Ont. The Cost and the Value.

Secretary Henley, of the republican state central committee, expresses the belief that the expense to several of the larger counties in Indiana—including Allen, presumably—in connection with the nominating primary in March will reach $20,000. He further estimates that the total cost to the ninety-two counties in Indiana may foot up to the staggering sum of $700,000. Mr. Henley's estimates may, or may not, be too high. He is among those who have not been especially friendly to the measure and he can scarcely be expected to see beneficence sticking out all over a law upon which his party in Indiana has frowned for the reason that it is a democratic measure if for no other.

But whether the primary law is, as a matter of fact, worth any such sum as that estimated by Mr. Henley remains to be determined after we see what sort of results we get from a trial of the law. Some things are worth whatever they may cost and others are extravagantly dear at any price at all. One thing should be clearly impressed upon the voters at this stage of the proceedings, and that is that the results they are going to get from the state-wide primary will depend on just what the rank and file of Indiana voters determine they shall be. They can have any variety of outcome they choose.

This much, however, is certain: Unless the voters generally—not merely the politicians, the ward workers and the one-man parties—manifest sufficient interest in good government, in clean candidates and in high-class nominations to turn out and assist in making them, the operation of the law is going to be disappointing as well as expensive. If the voters generally fail to take advantage of the provisions of a law framed for the definite purpose of giving the entire people a say-so in the naming of candidates instead of turning that work over to the machine organization in the various parties, the outcome is going to show no advantage whatever over the old method of complacently accepting the slate the other fellow has framed without consulting them.

Local health officers all over Indiana have just been sent instructions to rigidly enforce the state board's recent rule requiring freedom from disease for all persons working with food products in this state. It applies to bakers, cooks, waiters, grocers clerks, employees in canneries, slaughter houses, dairies and "every one who in any way comes in contact with food." The action is both a reasonable and logical supplement to the state and federal pure food laws. It is not too much for the public to ask that the food it purchases be of good quality and be prepared under sanitary conditions, but that it be handled and served to them only by persons who are free from disease. Some Fort Wayne concerns have already taken steps to have an examination of their employees and to secure certificates of health that comply with the law. We believe the remaining ones will do so gladly and without delay.

No city has ever manifested a finer spirit than that displayed by Fort Wayne in the ready response to the suggestion that a memorial to the late Perry A. Randall be placed in one of the city parks as the people's tribute to the memory of a splendid citizen. Without a word of personal solicitation, and without effort beyond the public invitation, subscriptions have poured in upon the committee in generous fashion and they are still coming. There is now assured not only the bronze bust of the dead civic leader, but a setting and an approach that will be in every way worthy of the inspiration of Colonel Foster that gave the idea birth.

Fred Landis, in a recent address at Logansport, voiced the belief that the people should use more care in the selection of public officials. Perchance Mr. Landis' recollection for the moment went back to the harassing outcome a few years ago when he himself went down to defeat though gallantly carrying the glorious banner of the bull moosers in the very forefront of the bitter fighting as a candidate for office.

An armless man has been arrested at Terre Haute on a charge of forgery, and the police believe the man wielded the pen with his teeth. Doubtless he had merely become a bit too enthusiastic in following out some of the inspiring old admonitions regarding the surmounting of obstacles that beset life's pathway. Even some of the good things may be overdone.

Reports from Washington to the effect that President Wilson is now considering men from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri for the vacant position as secretary of war may account for the pained effort of certain distinguished citizens of these four states to appear as unconcerned as though nothing were likely to happen.

To save him a lot of wholly unnecessary embarrassment, let it be hoped the intrepid commander of that Teutonic submarine never discovers that it was a mere muleship that drove his fighting craft off with its dinky little guns in the Mediterranean recently.

HENRY FORD'S SON DONS OVERALLS AND WORKS IN FACTORY HE BOSSES.

Edsall Ford

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 17.—Out at the Ford plant they have an investigating and welfare organization that pries into the most intimate secrets of every employee's affairs. There is not a man excepting one in the 15,000 or more whose pedigree is not worked out like that of show-ring live stock.

And the one who is outside of this scrutiny is the boss of the whole kit, young Edsall B. Ford.

Less is known about the only son of Henry Ford than of the average young man who has attained prominence through gifts of his own or of his forebears.

Edsall Ford is so modest that he hardly would tell his age if he were asked, but he is 23, was born in Detroit, went to the high school and then to the Detroit university school for a spell and since then he has been working.

Somewhat of a mechanical genius, he preferred this to higher education, and his father thought it about as well, for he never went very far into school himself.

In the absence of his father, Edsall Ford was boss of this biggest motor car plant in the world.

He does not sit on a gilded throne and blow rings of cigarette smoke—cigarettes are barred there, anyhow—but he gets right down to brass tacks and ranges and roams through the miles of floors in the factory.

You may find him in the assembly room, in the foundry, in the body building department, anywhere, but wherever it is, he is busy thinking, if not doing something with his hands.

Those who know the factory know that the boy is earnest and on the job many hours of the day.

He is grasping all details of a quantity production that has been the marvel of the industrial world, and it is no secret that some of his suggestions have been considered, then put into force.

COMFORTABLE FOLK.

"We pray for the comfortable, who do not care for anything so long as they are left at ease."—Rev. L. M. Powers, at the inauguration of the council of Gloucester, Mass.

A word makes us stop and think a bit. Comfort is a pleasant thing, but it is not one of the motive powers of the world. If comfort had ruled, Isaac Newton would have sat in the shade of his apple tree watching the apples fall and idly wondering. And Christopher Columbus would have sought some one to publish his deductions about the other side of the Atlantic, but never to persuade men to go there. Today, the comfortable people do not ask that the things that disturb them should cease, but rather that no one should talk of them. They are not disturbed by the suffering of child workers, but they would like not to be reminded of it. They suppose there must be some corruption, but the muckraker is a pernicious fellow to be always sticking under their noses. Councils and legislatures and congresses are an affliction, but they are more disturbing to find out about candidates and then go out and vote.

It is a pleasant picture—to have enough to make one comfortable, to stay at home with the family and luxuriate in their comfort, to breathe a sigh for the woes and wrongs of the world and a prayer that they come not nigh me, to say that one will live and let live. It is pleasant, but the amateur orator for a curious crowd a fabric of false statements may have more in him of the stuff that has made the world's advance from age to age.

FOR FAIR JUDGMENT.

An appeal is being made by the railroads of the country for fair judgment on a matter that vitally affects the railroads. The postoffice committee of the national house has made the Moon railway mail pay bill a rider on the post-office appropriation bill. The railways are very definitely against the Moon bill and are on record as protesting against its advancement. In an open letter to Speaker Clark of the house Ralph Peters, representing the railways, declares for prompt action which will separate the Moon bill from the post-office appropriation bill and allow its free and fair discussion on the floor of the house. We do not see why there should be any hesitancy in putting the Moon railway mail pay bill before the house on its own merits and demerits. We do not see why such a measure should be made a rider on an appropri-

tion bill. It is not an appropriation bill but is an attempt to adjust charges for service. It should be fairly discussed with an eye not only to the well-being of the public, but with an honest eye also to fair play for all concerned, including the railroads.

Councilman Agne on Lakeside Situation

To the Editor of The Sentinel: After reading the Journal-Gazette and the Fort Wayne News Tuesday, in which they gave the proceedings of the meeting at the Lakeside school, they told the people of our beloved city what they thought about our honorable mayor. The Fort Wayne Sentinel came out with an answer from the honorable mayor, giving his side of the controversy. He claims that he is in waiting for the committee from Lakeside, and will tell them a thing or two about the drainage system. I hope he will stay there one year, ten months and thirteen days, after which time his office expires. It will be a great benefit to the people of our city, and especially those of Lakeside, if he will only remain in waiting, and not leave his office. What good would it do for this committee to ask him to turn the key back to our park board, where it belongs? I wish to state that we have men that compose our park board that think there is a better board in the United States, men of high standing, and good, honest, upright business men. Still our honorable mayor steps in and takes their authority away from them, as being incompetent. I, for one, will say no, they are not and should not have any authority taken away from them for any such reason. The mayor's statement, in both The Sentinel and Journal-Gazette, and in the Journal-Gazette's editorial, "Gentlemen: You ask the public to go over on Edgewater avenue and see for yourselves where the McQuelling Construction company is repairing the sewer that broke down and gave the trouble of the sewer backing up into the cellars."

It is true that this sewer broke down, but you are all absolutely wrong when you claim that this is what caused the sewage to back up into the cellars. Here are the true facts: By the Edgewater sewer breaking down it could not deliver any of its contents to the pump, and all had to back up into the Tecumseh sewer. Now then, understand me correctly: None of the Tecumseh sewerage could get to the pump at all, which left the Morton avenue sewer alone to deliver to the pump, cutting down the sewerage about one-third, by the Tecumseh sewer being put out of commission. Now then, do you know which sewer gave the trouble to the people by backing into the cellars. All the telephone calls I received that Sunday evening were from people who were connected with the Morton avenue sewer. So you can see that the breaking down of your sewer and keeping the sewage back surely did not make the Morton avenue sewer back up as it did into the cellars. As was stated at the meeting, if the pump had been run on Saturday night, all this would not have happened. Now mayor, come on, be fair. Give the people what you promised them during your campaign. No. 1, flood prevention; No. 2, track elevation; No. 3, modern garbage plant.

No. 1, flood prevention, a rank failure; No. 2, track elevation, nothing done as yet; No. 3, modern garbage plant, is no further now than when you took office. You endeavored to coerce the city council committee on garbage through an opinion from your city attorney that you could proceed with the erection of

Grand Leader

Ben Rothschild left for Salt Lake City, Utah, last night. Incessant rains during the past forty hours have caused the rivers to rise to flood stage. John Oettinger, of the staff of the New York Staats-Zeitung, a former Fort Wayne boy, is in the city to visit relatives and other friends. County Supt. G. F. Felts is contemplating an enrollment of school children of the county, outside the city. The number is 6,700. T. J. Fleming has sold his general store business at the old Peter Kiser stand to Warren Sweet, formerly of Hoagland, and more recently of Sheldon. Manager Billy Meyer is negotiating with Guy Hecker, who managed the Pittsburgh base ball team last year, to manage the Fort Wayne team this season. The Amateur Athletic association has disbanded and James B. White, jr., has purchased the furniture and other belongings. He will probably organize another club. Commodore Foote and his sister, Fairy Queen, the world-famed midges of this city, are playing an engagement in Huber's museum in New York. Prayers of the congregation were asked in the Cathedral Sunday for the recovery of Bishop Joseph Dwenger. The bishop is quite ill, but his condition is not critical. F. V. Culbertson, local manager for Dun & Co., finds it necessary to increase his office room and, soon will secure additional quarters at his present location in the Pixley-Long block. Last evening at a meeting of civil war veterans in G. A. R. hall committees were appointed to draft resolutions and to make arrangements for memorial observances in this city on the day of General Sherman's funeral. Former County Auditor M. E. Argo and W. S. Buck, who recently associated themselves in business, have just returned from New York, where they completed arrangements for taking the agency here for the Equitable Life Insurance company, their territory covering Indiana, north of Jay county.

a garbage plant without the consent of the common council, and we, as a committee, told you to go ahead and do it if you so desired. These are matters of great importance that affect all the citizens of our beloved city and it shows that Lakeside is not alone for better conditions. The honorable mayor states further that since the pump has been installed it has required $181.20 for current and $245.00 for labor, making a grand total of $426.20, for which the people of Lakeside have not paid, but that he would send the bill. All right, Mr. Mayor; if you can legally collect this bill, you surely made a great mistake in not presenting your bill at the end of the first month's consumption of current and labor like any other business man would have done. Think it over, my dear mayor. Don't you think the bill for labor is rather extravagant, since you always take such a bold stand in saving money for the taxpayer? Don't you think if you connect our pump up with a self-starting device as we wanted it to be from the beginning and for which I have made requests since, you can cut out a great deal of the expense for labor? If you do I will assure you that there will be less trouble of the sewage getting into the cellars. Now, in reference to paying the bills: Don't you think it would be well for you to give the people of Lakeside and Forest park a credit memorandum for some bills they have already paid and received nothing for? I will just mention a few of them. 1.—That wall that was supposed to have been put up to protect the dike, costing over $12,000.00. The people paid this bill and do you know that the man who had this contract told your engineer that the wall would not stand if he built it according to his specifications? 2.—Your broken down sewer along Edgewater avenue which cost $3,060.15 was uncalled for. This bill is also paid. What the people wanted and should have got is a pump at the mouth of the Tecumseh sewer for about $2,000.00. This pump would have pumped about 2,500 gallons per minute, and with your Morton pump at 5,000 gallons per minute would have given you 7,500 gallons per minute, and you could have saved the people $1,060.15. Please give us credit for this also. 3.—We have expended about $25,000.00 for a park which was to have a lake and lagoons in connection with it. You claim that as long as you are mayor you will maintain the lake and lagoons as a cesspool, the same as it was nineteen years ago. Under these conditions—prevailing we refuse to accept this $25,000.00 improvement and ask that you give us credit for same. So you can readily see if you do the square thing and give us credit for the money we paid out for something we did not order or receive, we can very easily pay you for your current and your overcharged labor. I want to call the attention of the public to the time when Delta lake was built nineteen years ago. Col. D. N. Foster was then president of the Fort Wayne Land & Improvement Co., and he told the city when they put in the overflow from their first sewer, the Tecumseh sewer, that they would allow it only under one condition and that it was to be put in only temporarily until the city could make provision to take care of their sewage. Just think of it, nineteen years ago, and today the same thing prevails. What did Mayor Hoesy do to relieve this condition? He has been in office for the second time and has done nothing to better this condition. Since the

Miss Jean Duffy, of Pittsburg, was the honor guest this afternoon at a charming party of much beauty and charm, given by Miss Duffy's hostess, Miss Irene Miller, of West Creighton avenue. It was a Washington party and the national colors were used to remind the guests of the near approach of the twenty-second of the month. There were "hatched" place cards at the supper, red and white roses in a blue Japanese bowl for table decoration, red candles in candle holders tied with red tulle, and fancy baskets of nuts, all of which afforded the company much pleasure. Miss Miller's guests numbered a dozen.

Mrs. Herbert Miller, of Lake avenue, was hostess this afternoon for a lovely party to honor Miss Keplinger. A game of bridge was followed by the serving of tempting things to eat and drink amid beautiful decorations arranged by the Misses Flick. Pink roses were used in all the rooms and the supper tables held crystal vases filled with pink sweetpeas and forget-me-nots. The hostess presented her honor guest with a pretty gift as a pre-nuptial souvenir of the day. There were players for seven tables so Miss Keplinger had an opportunity to meet many of her nearest friends.

Miss Grace Keeley, of Baker street, invited a number of Miss Evelyn Lardie's friends to spend the evening at her home on Wednesday, all in honor of the latter young lady's approaching wedding day. Three colors were carried out in the decorations, pink, green and white. After playing a game of progressive luncheon in which Miss Lardie won the prize, the hostess passed writing materials with a suggestion that each one write a letter to the bride to be read one at a time by her while she is taking her wedding trip. An excellent supper was enjoyed later in the evening after the letters, all sealed and with the writer's name had been given to Miss Lardie. There were present Misses Loretta Lardie, Stella Merz, Marie Somers, Ruth Koonz, Agnes Tholen, Carrie Ely, Georgia Rice, Lillian Carter, Marie Singleton, Adeline Keller, Nellie Braun, Ruth Kennelly, Mrs. John Ekrich.

The active members of the Duodemo club held their annual luncheon at the Wayne hotel on Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock. All but two members were present and the two absent ones were kept away unavoidably. Covers were laid for thirty-eight. The table was handsomely decorated with pink carnations and set in a private diningroom. The entertainment of the day consisted of two things aside from the elegant menu served. The club is studying Indiana, so each woman wore something to represent a county of the state and the others guessed what each was. Immediately following the banquet and its attendant fun over the county names and the costuming of some of the characters of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," a playlet adapted from the Eggleston novel was given. Mrs. Albert Schmit wrote the lines and the characters represented were Mrs. Means by Mrs. J. N. Study, the Harshfield preacher by Mrs. Guy MacLurin, "Squire Hawkins by Mrs. C. E. McKeehan, Bud Means by Mrs. W. E. Davis, Miranda Hawkins by Mrs. Charles

Meigs. Lovely souvenirs of the luncheon were the place cards. They were water-color drawings and the work of the skillful hand of Mrs. Walter Griffiths.

Mrs. J. A. Greenland is going to her former home in Virginia soon for a visit of several weeks.

Mrs. O. E. Maxwell entertained an embroidery club of which she is a member Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Alva Gard and son Cedric, of Spy Run at-one, have returned from a two months' visit in Parsons, Kan.

The members of the Margaret Bottoms circle are to be guests at dinner on Friday evening of Miss Elsie Fee.

Mrs. Louis E. Martin, of South Wayne avenue, had as her guest on Wednesday Mrs. Lucy Thompson, of Bluffton.

Miss Hazel Humphrey and her grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Humphrey, have returned home from China, O., where they made an extended visit with relatives and friends.

Miss Florence Fleming has returned from a theatrical tour in which she took part as a dancer in a musical comedy production and will be with her mother, Mrs. Emma H. Fleming, for an indefinite length of time.

Paul Parks, who came here to complete his studies in the city high school, ending with the semester closing in February, will return to Chicago within a day or two to join his parents, who moved there last fall.

Mrs. George Philbrick gave a dinner party with covers for ten ladies at her home in Washington boulevard west on Wednesday evening to honor her guest, Miss Ruth Reed, of Oberlin, O. Jonquil was the floral decoration at the handsomely appointed table.

Miss Dorothy Sattler, of 312 Washington boulevard west, gave a dinner party on Wednesday at the English tearoom in honor of her guest, Mrs. Fred Glusa, of Hamlet, O. In the company were Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Stiles, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Timme, Mrs. Jack Wolff, Miss Marie Sattler and William Timme.

Invitations to parties to honor Miss Armonde Brown are not all issued yet, but the following plans are definite: Miss Irene Lennon, a party at the New Palace Thursday evening; Miss Julia Braunman, at the same theater next Monday evening with a few friends; Miss Lucile Miller, at her home next Wednesday evening; Misses Matilda Boyce and Irma Blee will combine their efforts at the Boyce home during the coming week, and Miss Mary Travis will be a hostess at a still later day at her home.

Mrs. E. T. Herron, of Prospect avenue, was honored on Wednesday afternoon by two of her friends, Mrs. J. F. Haubecker and Miss Martha Wilson, who invited a number of other friends to give a farewell party at the Herron home. There were thirty-five ladies present and they not only expressed their deep regret at the coming departure of Mr. and Mrs. Herron from their new home in Wabash on the first of March, but they presented Mrs. Herron with many beautiful gifts and showered her with them as well as with good wishes.

Two new performers have been added to the cast to give "The Women Who Did," the play the Mary Penrose Wayne chapter of D. A. R. is to furnish as entertainment on Washington's birthday anniversary in Shrine temple. They are Miss Edith Hughes and Mrs. Gertrude

Greene Young. The proceeds from selling tickets to the performance are to be used by the society in its work of marking historical places about this city. It is not an invitation affairs and tickets can be bought of the chapter ladies or at Woodworth's drug store.

A lean year dinner party was given at the Wayne hotel on Wednesday evening by a number of young married couples. There were cupid place cards, hearts for decoration of the table and other suggestions of leap year, and beauty in the form of a beautiful arrangement of red and white carnations for the table. Through the kindness of Mr. Peters dancing was enjoyed for a short time after the dinner. Participating were Mr. and Mrs. Will Geake, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Beall, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Honeck, Dr. and Mrs. Herman Michaels, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Zickgraf, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kickley, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Feagles.

Lamle-Schuster.

Miss Minnie S. Schuster and Mr. Gottlieb Lamle were married on Tuesday at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Schuster. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Philip Wambauguss and the attendants were Miss Clara Schuster, a sister to the bride, and Mr. W. B. Howe. The bride wore a beautiful dress of white crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid was dressed in a pale blue crepe de chine gown and her flowers were a bouquet of pink roses. A sumptuous wedding dinner was served later in the day after congratulations had been extended to the bride and groom by the relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Lamle are going to housekeeping at 1850 Oakland street.

SACRED HEART ACADEMY NOTES.

Many Programs of Literary and Social Pleasure Given.

February is proving to be a month of gaiety at Sacred Heart academy. Scarcely had the evening with "The Merchant of Venice" passed, than the faculty and students were invited to the reading of the second issue of the school paper, the "Fleur-Marie." Preluding the reading of the paper was a pretty contest of American poets for the laurel crown of excellence to be awarded by the Goddess of Liberty, alias Miss M. Kuebler. Personating each a poet, the Misses B. Bales, H. Kenny, C. Cotter, K. Lynn, C. Carroll, H. Bridge, M. Kiley, Y. Densen, A. Homan and P. Narkter recited in turn a short patriotic poem, the prize being given to Francis Scott Key, the author of our national hymn, "The Star-Spangled Banner." The first half of the "Fleur-Marie" was then pleasingly read by Miss E. Bloom, after which Miss M. Michael cleverly rendered the amusing recitation, "When Ignorance Is Bliss." Miss C. Tobey in her usual clear voice then finished the interesting numbers of the paper. The evening's program closed by a charming discussion on the merits of the different national flowers by the Misses A. Murphy, C. Murphy, M. Michael, M. Berling, E. Bloom, M. Dillon, K. Golden and C. Tobey. St. Valentine's evening found the beautiful recreation room aglow with rosy lights and decorated in true valentine fashion the first academic and commercial classes presenting a pretty and amusing program. Miss B. Bales opened the evening by an interesting account of the life of St. Valentine and the origin of the custom of sending valentines. Much merriment was created by the anglers in the valentine fish pond and the recipients of mail from the postoffice. A violin solo, "La Boheme," by Miss L. Jackson; a plaintive little song, "The Whippoorwill," by Miss L. Mallicka; "I'm Awayin' for You," with an encore, "I Love You Truly," by Miss J. Henry, varied the evening's fun and contributed greatly to the pleasure of the audience. A dance then filled in a gay hour.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"Twin Beds" Friday and Saturday.

Selwyn and Company, whose name is to a theatrical production what sterling is to silver, after their production of "Within the Law," "Under Cover," "The Show Shop," "The Lie," "Under Fire" and "Rolling Stones," will bring their laugh festival, "Twin Beds" from its run of fifty-two weeks in New York to the Majestic Friday and Saturday with a splendid cast of comedians.

"Twin Beds" is the joint work of Salisbury Field and Margaret Mayo, the latter the author of "Baby Mine," and it concerns itself with the harrowing experience of three couples who live in a big apartment house, and, through the first friendliness of one of their number, suddenly find that, try as they may, they cannot escape each other. In the scramble for peace and privacy, both of which recede steadily as the plot progresses, the characters in "Twin Beds" are incaleculably amusing.

AT KEITH PALACE

"FRESHIE'S INITIATION"

Kennedy and Hollis Have New 'One for Fort Wayne at Palace.

"Freshie's Initiation" is the new medium for the exploitation of the peculiar comedy abilities of Kennedy and Hollis, the original college boys. This skit, which is hot off the fire, will be introduced to Fort Wayne this afternoon as one of the headline attractions on the bill for the closing half of the week. Another skit on this same program that is calculated to renew one's youth is the childhood episode entitled "Yesterday," which is to be presented by Guy Rawson and Francis Claire.

Baron Lichter and his piano will supply fifteen minutes of music and laughs, while Angelo, Wier and Dacey, the vastly different trio, will offer some flights in harmony arranged for them by Charles Pierce.

Victorine and Zolar, the interpretive dancers and singers, will present a delightful number featuring LaDana Duello, a pretentious effort, in which these two artists are to be seen at their very best. The Thaleros Circus is a comedy dog and pony act that the children especially will rave over. This bill closes Saturday evening with two performances.

AT THE TEMPLE.

Fort Wayne theater-goers will have their final chance tonight to witness "The Ku Klux Klan" at the Temple theater. This hugely interesting tale of the reconstruction days in the south following the civil war has pleased hundreds of Fort Wayne theater patrons the past three nights. In addition to this splendid play tonight Temple patrons will get to see and hear a genuine, old-fashioned spellin' bee. He or she who spells down will get $5 in gold, and a number already have entered for it. A well-known local man will conduct the contest.

"The Red Circle," a story of mystery dealing with the operations of the Italian black-handers, will start a three days' run Friday night, with matinee Saturday.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

THE SALAMANDER.

A Story of the Temptations That Befall a Girl in the City.

The current attraction at the Jefferson is "The Salamander," a picturization of Owen Johnson's novel by the same name. When all the world has seen this play, all the world will be wiser—and, mayhap, richer. It is a thrilling story, vividly and startlingly portrayed and will make a strong heart appeal to every man, woman and child everywhere. It reminds men that they may be shackled to a Salamander and not know it—that they must trade as shrewdly after dark as before—that only the "transaction" where the heart is given in exchange for cash, is fair. It outclasses the book in thrills, beauty and interest—the story is intensified by live-

AT THE GRAND

"In the Glare of the Lights" is the title of the three-reel feature at the Grand today for the last showing.

Francis X. Bushman as Glen Duval, a worker in the steel mills, desires to become an actor. Brandigan, who is working in the same mill, is jealous of Glen because of the fact that Joe's sweetheart, Martha, appears to like young Duval too much.

One morning on his way to work Glen finds the unconscious form of Wanda Dawson, the actress, by the railroad track.

That evening, when Glen returns from the mill, he tells Wanda of his ambitions for the stage. She encourages him, and later Wanda's manager appears and engages him as an actor. Glen falls in love with Wanda, is afraid to declare it because his position is so much below hers. One evening Bland is unable to appear. The manager seizes on Glen as a last resort. Glen's work is a great success.

Bland offers Wanda the chance to start in another production, just then Glen enters to declare his love, and denounces both and returns to the mills.

In the steel mills Brandigan has become foreman. He gives Glen a job. Joe is still jealous. He harasses Glen to the limit. Finally they meet each other in a fist fight in the glow of the big furnaces. It so happens that Wanda is playing the town. She hears of Glen's occupation and arrives just as the fight is at its critical stage.

The bill is completed with the last episode of the Stinger series, "The Darkest Hour."

GRANT COURT AFFIRMED

Fence Between Railroads Not Necessary; Appellate Court Rules.

Indianapolis, Feb. 17.—Hugs owned by Lola Pickett, in Grant county, escaped through a gate in a fence along the traction line of the Indiana Railway and Light company and wandered on the track of the Toledo, St. Louis & Western, which was adjacent to the traction line. There was no fence between the railroad track and the suburban track. A railroad train came along and killed the dogs.

The woman sued the railroad company for damages, on the ground that the two companies were required by law to have a fence between the tracks. She alleged that if there had been a fence the dogs could not have wandered on the railroad track. The Grant circuit court decided against her, and the appellate court affirmed this decision. The court held that the maintenance of a fence between the land and the adjacent right-of-way was all that was required by the law.

HERE'S WHAT MLE. FASHION WILL LOOK LIKE THIS SPRING.

By Betty Brown

MLE. Fashion all dressed up in her new spring suit makes her bow to you!

You'll notice that the various turbans in her wardrobe are small—oh, very small and fit with the snugness of a nightcap.

Her collar is high—very high. The higher the collar the more style to the "en semble," says Mlle. Fashion.

Her tailored suit of pale tan pinesail is short enough to show every bit of her light brown kid boots.

Her coat slopes in gracefully at the bust line, and it's rather long and has more than the usual flare to it. The vest is "old blue" satin piped with taupe suede, and the hat is blue taupe with a draped band of tan faille.

The two important "Paris hints" this spring wardrobe offers are—hats are high and close fitting, and collars are not merely collars, they are "chockers."

U. S. GIRLS, BEWARE OF PRINCE OF WALES—COUNTESS SENDS WARNING HE'S NOT UP TO AMERICAN STANDARDS.

BY COUNTESS RUSSELL
In an interview with Mary Boyle O'Reilly.

London, Feb. 17.—I can see how the Prince of Wales could marry an American, for American women are charming, beautiful, witty; but, frankly, I cannot see why an American girl should marry the Prince of Wales!

Name the Anglo-American marriages which have proved worth while—for the bride. How many American princesses are living with their husbands? How many silently thank their stars—and their shrewd marriage settlements—that they are not?

The plan to unite an all-important section of degenerating physique with sounder stock is not new. King Milan of Serbia—himself a stupid, drunken figurehead of royalty—realized that his dwarfed, ill developed son and heir, Alexander, bore all the principle stigma of degeneration.

The king therefore decided that the crown prince should marry an American. Her clean vitality would strengthen the rotten constitution hereditary in all royal families.

Milan demanded only that the bride bring a dowry of $20,000,000, of which he should appropriate one half, the bridegroom one quarter, and the remaining $5,000,000 to be spent on agents' commissions, palace furnishings and wedding expenses.

Three trans-Atlantic candidates for queenhood were discovered, but their hard-headed fathers insisted the stipulated dowry should be settled on the American queen and her male heirs. Milan's practical plan fell through, Alexander died childless, and his dynasty ended.

If you look at the photographs of all the reigning houses you will see how closely the members resemble each other. All royalties are too nearly related. Dog fanciers know that Japanese sleeve dogs, through being inbred, have no brain-power at all.

A progressive loss of mental power marks almost every ruling house in Europe.

Contrast the crown princes of Europe, all cousins and the children of cousins; the czarovich stricken with a mysterious disease, the heir of Prussia a blood maniac, the Prince of Spain deaf, his brother deaf and dumb, the heir apparent of Austria descended from the mad Hapsburgs.

In all Europe there is only one royal family of healthy and beautiful children—the Italian king's. King Victor, an undersized, physically handicapped son of the usual royal father, wisely wedded Helma of Montenegro, daughter of a peasant prince.

Physically the Prince of Wales is pitifully slight—head ill shaped and bony arms and legs like pipe-stems. Intellectually, he is not clever. Those who know him best testify he knows his limitations, and shrinks from being kind.

Given sufficient spunk, the Prince of Wales could contract a secret marriage with a non-royalty, as his forebears have done ere this. But the union would not be legal unless the king gave his approval. Neither George nor Mary would ever consent; the heir to the crown would be forced to contract a royal marriage. What American girl would risk the danger of finding herself a plural wife?

The late king, Edward VII.—genial, poor in ready money, always in debt to "generous" German Jews, and for 50 years the quarry of designing women—once said, while watching the present Prince of Wales: "There goes the last king of England!"

Why, then, should an American girl with life all before her risk her happiness to stand in the shadow of a threatened throne?

sleeping porches. The Anti-Tuberculosis society provides the water and gas and lunches for children who can not afford to pay for their own. The society also pays the car fare of children who are too poor to pay their car fare. In some instances the society gives the children the sleeping sacks.

From All Parts of City
The children in each of the open air schools are from all parts of the city. The classes at the Technical school are kept filled from a waiting list. Children in the public schools are examined by physicians, and when a child is found to be suffering from a mild stage of tuberculosis it is placed on the waiting list for the Technical school.

School No. 3, which has two open air rooms and the Irvington school, which has one room, do not take children who have tuberculosis. If any of the children there show signs of developing tuberculosis they are examined often than the others and if tuberculosis develops the child is sent to the Technical school.

"Backward, dull, nervous children are bettered if they are taken from the regular school and placed in an open air school," Miss Meyers said. "We found soon after opening the school, however, that children in an open air school must be fed more than children in the regular day school. To provide for this we set apart a period beginning at 10:15 each morning for a lunch to be served."

Parents Could Benefit
Miss Meyers said parents of the children might also be in better health if they would adopt the principle of being out-of-doors more. She said a general campaign of education beginning with the children would be the only way to effect that plan. She told the social workers that not much headway could be gained by accepting only children affected with tuberculosis. For that reason the open air rooms at school No. 3 and at the Irvington school were opened, she said.

The parents think the children will get too cold when they first enter the fresh air school, Miss Meyers said. She declared it was difficult to make the parents realize the work done, but that after a few months the parents and the seven other children in the family wished they could enter the open air schools.

Mrs. Huston said there are two rooms at school No. 3, which are used as fresh air rooms. Forty children are in the school, and the usual studies are taught. Mrs. Huston said at least ten more children could be cared for in her school.

Deep Breathing More Natural
Miss Thompson, of the Technical school, said that deep breathing became more natural in an open air school than in the regular schoolroom. The cold air makes the children breathe deeper, she said. Cross, irritable children quiet down after being in the open air school a short time, she said. The children at the Technical school sleep for an hour after their noon lunch.

H. S. Gruver, assistant superintendent of the schools, made a short talk before the social workers. He said that in accordance with a resolution of the city school board the parents of forty children in two consecutive grades in any school could have an open air room if a teacher could be obtained to teach the children. He said the restriction on the opening of such schools was to keep the additional expense as low as possible.

COMMITTEE IS NAMED.

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 17.—The annual convention of the Indiana Music Teachers' Association will be held in South Bend, April 27 and 28. Committees were appointed today to plan a program which is expected to be the best the association has ever had. It is expected 300 music teachers will attend the convention.

TELL OF WORK IN OPEN AIR SCHOOLS

Pupils Gain Physically and Mentally, is Verdict of Teachers.

Indianapolis, Feb. 17.—Even teachers and nurses in the city's open-air schools have increased in weight according to three teachers who talked to social workers on "The Fresh Air School in the Anti-Tuberculosis Fight" in the rooms of the charity organization society in the Baldwin block. The meeting was for the purpose of explaining the real need of the open-air schools and to let the social workers know of the work accomplished by the schools.

According to the speakers, Mrs. Louise Kendall Huston, of School No. 3, in Rural street, north of Washington, and the Misses Mary E. Meyers and Ella Thompson, of the open-air school at the Technical high school grounds, there have been surprising results in physical and mental strength of sick children and normal children in the schools. Only children suffering from mild stages of tuberculosis are in the Technical school, and at school No. 3 there are only two sick children, the others being physically normal.

Children Gain in Weight
Miss Meyers said the Technical open-air school opened last year with an enrollment of twenty-two children. Those children gained an average of 7.33 pounds each during the time they were in the school, she said. This year the enrollment is fifty. The gain in pounds for each child is only 5.98, being decreased to some extent through the rapid gaining of normal size of the children who were there last year and who returned again this year.

The Indianapolis school board employs the teachers and has built two

MY TIRED FEET ACHE FOR "TIZ"

Let your sore, swollen, aching feet spread out in a bath of "Tiz"

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture. Get a 25 cent box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get: how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.—Advertisement.

SKIN TEST IS NOW READY IN ILLINOIS

Proof of Immunity Against Diphtheria is Easily Made by Physicians.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 17.—Recent scientific investigations tend to establish the fact that approximately 80 per cent. of the newborn, 50 to 60 per cent. of children and 90 per cent. of adults are naturally immune to diphtheria.

It is a point of greatest importance to ascertain just who is immune and who is susceptible to this dreaded disease.

This can be done now by a new and simple skin test known to physicians as the Schick test.

The advent of the Schick test marks another great advance in preventive medicine. What it means to mothers, to health and school authorities, to officials in charge of asylums and institutions caring for children and what it implies in the way of saving human life are points not now fully appreciated.

A Preparedness Move
Mothers of Illinois now are in a position to definitely determine if their children are immune or susceptible to diphtheria and in the light of investigations it is apparent that about one-half of the mothers are certain to have a great fear removed from their hearts.

The other half will know just what to do for their children when, exposed to this dread disease, viz.: have them immediately immunized by the use of diphtheria antitoxin.

Likewise school authorities, health officials and those in charge of orphan asylums and similar institutions will be in a much better position to cope with an outbreak of diphtheria in their respective jurisdictions.

NOW FEELS ENTIRELY WELL.

Those who have backache, rheumatism, stiff and swollen joints or other symptoms of kidney trouble will be interested in a statement from A. H. Francis, Zenith, Kas., who writes: "I had a severe pain in my back and could hardly move. I tried several remedies with no results. I took about two-thirds of a 50c box of Foley Kidney Pills and now feel entirely well." Middle-aged and older men and women whose kidneys are weakened find these safe pills give relief from sleep-disturbing bladder ailments. Dreyer Drug Co.—Advertisement.

RANDALL MEMORIAL FUND IS NOW $2,684

Committee is Confident It Will Pass the $3,000 Mark.

A total of $2,684 had been subscribed to the Perry A. Randall memorial fund up to 10 o'clock Thursday morning and the committee in charge is confident that the $3,000 mark will be passed. The prompt response to the appeal of the committee is the best indication of the esteem in which Perry A. Randall was held as an unselfish, efficient worker for the public good.

An effort will be made to push the preparation and completion of the monument so as to have the unveiling ceremonies by next October. So far as contributors have expressed themselves, Swinney park is preferred for the location.

Henry Berghoff in mailing his subscription card says: "I enclose my card for Perry A. Randall memorial fund and I wish we had a dozen more citizens like Randall, to whose honor and memory we might erect such a monument." Subscriptions of $5 and over since Wednesday's report are as follows:

THE PERRY A. RANDALL MONUMENT COMMITTEE

Issues Its Call for Subscriptions

To the Men and Women of Fort Wayne and to All the Friends of Perry A. Randall:

It has been found that a practically unanimous sentiment exists in Fort Wayne that the memory of Perry A. Randall should be honored and perpetuated in this community by the erection of a suitable monument, to be surmounted by an heroic bronze bust, to be located in one of our city parks.

His unselfish devotion to public interests and his rare ability to efficiently perform public service were his marked characteristics. When the interests of Fort Wayne were involved, he spared neither time, effort nor money in the service that he rendered. He was always a volunteer; he never waited to be drafted. Obstacles did not discourage nor defeat dishearten him. Through all the years of his residence here, Fort Wayne has had no citizen who excelled him in usefulness and public devotion.

In the erection of this suggested monument to Mr. Randall, Fort Wayne will not only honor him, but will equally honor herself by thus showing her appreciation of his splendid citizenship.

At a meeting called for the furtherance of this matter, we were appointed a Committee to secure the necessary subscriptions for the completion of this work. About $2,000 will be required, but $2,500 or even more, would be better. A limit of $50.00 has been fixed as the highest amount any person will be allowed to subscribe and a number of our more wealthy citizens have each already subscribed that amount. It is, however, the desire of the Committee that all of our citizens should be afforded an opportunity of having a part in the preparation of this memorial.

The payment of no subscription will be asked unless a sufficient amount is subscribed for a monument of the character indicated. The success of the movement, however, seems to be already assured. Of twelve men asked to subscribe $50.00 not one declined. Other subscriptions of that amount are expected, while many others will be needed of $25.00; while from men of smaller and of small means will come subscriptions of from $1.00 to $15.00, and measured by their ability to give, these smaller subscriptions, in many instances, will be greater than the larger ones.

At the bottom of this call will be found a subscription blank, which kindly cut out, fill in with the amount that you desire to give, sign it and send it to Mr. Charles McCulloch, Treasurer, or to any member of this Committee. Any sum from $1.00 to $50.00 will be gladly received and the proper public credit given. Please do not delay action a single day as it is hoped to close up the matter within a week. Do not fail to have a generous part in this testimonial to one whom every citizen of Fort Wayne is so much indebted. Men and women are alike interested in this movement and the assistance of all classes of our citizens is confidently expected.

CLEARY HEADS SHOP LEAGUE; GOFF SECRETARY

Shop League Organized With Eight Clubs. Mart Cleary and Ora Goff Named Officers.

Electing Mart Cleary president and Ora Goff secretary-treasurer, the Fort Wayne Industrial league was organized at The Sentinel office Wednesday night as an eight-club exclusive shop league and made plans for the coming season. Although eight clubs were represented, one of them did not come within what the managers considered the scope of the league and the organization was made with seven teams, the eighth to be decided on within a week.

Fort Wayne Rolling Mills—Charles Miller, director.

Pennsylvania Company—B. H. Haman, director.

Dudlo Manufacturing Company—James Crowe, director.

S. F. Bowser Company—George F. Kephlinger, director.

Wayne Knitting Mills—Frank Rainey, director.

Western Gas Construction Company—C. Sunderlin, director.

Fort Wayne Electric Works—F. O'Brien, director.

Enthusiastic Meeting.

There was enthusiasm sticking out all over the meeting, and the delegates jammed The Sentinel editorial rooms. Nearly forty shop and factory fans were on the job, with the seven authorized delegates.

Mart Cleary talked to the shop boys and offered his assistance in any way possible, but declined to accept the presidency. However, as all other candidates had withdrawn before the meeting and he was the choice of all the managers, he was persuaded to take the office for a month. His election was unanimous.

Mart Cleary has been prominent in Fort Wayne baseball circles for nearly twenty years, first as a player and later as a manager and booster. He played ball on some of the best teams that ever sailed out of Fort Wayne under independent colors, and later organized and managed the Shamrocks, making the wearers of the green the fastest semi-pro team in the north end of the state, and holding it to that reputation for nearly ten years.

As a business man Mr. Cleary has made a success, and he has thousands of friends who will get behind and boost him in making the shop league boom.

Ora Goff, the new secretary, holds a position in the offices of the S. F. Bowser company, and since the years of the old shop league's organization has been an enthusiastic booster. He has played ball in his time, but in recent years has devoted a great deal of attention to the managing of teams. He is an excellent man and his election to office of secretary-treasurer meets with the popular approval of shop fans.

A Banner Year.

The reports from the shops indicate that this will be the biggest year in the history of local amateur ball. Every representative at last night's meeting came with stories of wild enthusiasm. At Bowser's everybody is talking baseball and the management has become so thoroughly enthused that it is backing up the team financially and offering any other assistance it can give. The Knitting mills and rolling mills are jumping at each other's throats. At the Western Gas everybody is up and going and preparing for the coming season. The Pennsylvania is gradually whipping itself into shape, and to quote Director B. H. Haman, "right now there are enough pitchers and catchers to make up a team of them alone." The Electric works boys are pretty well organized already, and a spirit at the faces of the fellows who attended the meetings gives one a good working knowledge of what they are doing at the lights, for there are a number of old time professionals in the crowd.

"The only new arrival in the shop league lists is the Dudlo Manufacturing company, a shop that has been in existence only a few years, but which already employs several hundred men, judging from the reports brought to last night's meeting by the delegates from this company the employees are a gang of baseball enthusiasts ready to back their team to the last ditch.

R. LINDLEY MURRAY

Murray, the Meteor, is burning another crimson trail along the Atlantic seaboard. After a year's absence from the east the sensational Californian has returned to New York in quest of fresh tennis laurels. In his maiden efforts at the seventeenth annual national indoor court championships the native son—Robert Lindley Murray, to apply his full moniker, merely warned up by disposing of G. Carleton Shaffer, twice indoor doubles champion; Carleton Y. Smith, Cotton states premier and King Smith, daddy of all the Seventh regiment, New York national guard. While this engaged the Meteor won thirty-six games and lost sixteen. Moreover he won his own service every time but twice.

A pell-mell brilliant style makes Murray the magnet wherever he appears. Just as going pictures point their fingers at you whenever you go to the tall-panted Stanford graduate keeps your gaze riveted upon his dashing, reckless play. Back in 1914 when the Meteor was on his most remarkable rampage he drove more than one ground keeper to despair and on every court where Murray appeared his sensational service and net play attended by rushes played hob with the turf. In fact, Murray made the whole forecourt bald. Consequently the ground keepers were worked overtime sewing fresh seed.

Modesty is another of Murray's traits. After an early round of the 1914 metropolitan championship several players were homeward bound. Murray, with a large cap pulled down over his face was not recognized by his comrades.

"Looks to me as if Fred Alexander will win the championship," Murray ventured to Abraham Bassford, Jr.

"Don't forget that boy Murray," was Bassford's response. "He's a wonder and I'll bet that he comes through."

"Oh, he's a false alarm; he won't last," blandly retorted Murray grinning.

MUSKEGON SURELY POSSESSES THE PEP

Will Put Up an Awful Wad of Money to Get Baseball.

Muskegon, Mich., Feb. 17.—Frantic over their opportunity to break into the Central league, and determined to show that no city in the circuit, although all of them are larger, so far as population goes, than Muskegon, the directors of the Muskegon club at a meeting held last night at the chamber of commerce offices, decided to locate the local park immediately adjacent to the southern limits of the city.

The grounds will occupy two entire city blocks, the move necessitating a legal proceeding being brought in Circuit Judge James E. Sullivan's court to close Clinton street, which bisects the property. The ground occupied by the venture alone entails an expenditure of $18,000.

This, with the elaborate stands and other details to be attended to, will mean an investment of from $25,000 to $30,000 for Central league baseball for Muskegon, an expenditure never before equalled, it is believed in the history of the national pastime in a city of this size, as Muskegon's population is only around the 35,000 mark.

The baseball tract is located alongside Peck boulevard, running between Muskegon and Muskegon Heights, which is one of the finest automobile roads in western Michigan. It is bounded by Peck boulevard, Laketon and Holbrook avenues and Jiroch street.

The obtaining of this ground would have been an impossibility had it not been for the sportsmanlike spirit of the two men who owned the property, William Harper and F. D. Smith. The former, who has been engaged in the greenhouse business for years, is forced to raise his home and his plant to make room for the baseball grounds. He accepted a price for his portion of the tract that is more than reasonable. F. D. Smith, an insurance dealer and real estate man, sold his part of the grounds at a similar price.

The entire project, which practically insures the financial success of Central league pastime in Muskegon, was put through by Charles W. Marsh, president of the club.

In connection with the club grounds and on two sides of the baseball park will be located a public playground, 100 by 600 feet, and a public picnic grove, the same dimensions, upon which there are now and will be located enormous oak trees, furnishing ample shade. Elaborate equipment for each of these smaller parks is to be installed.

The ball park itself will be 600 feet square, and will include a grandstand that will seat 2,500, bleacher space for an equal number and auto parking room for not less than 100 machines. Shower baths, dressing rooms and all other details will be installed below the main section of the grandstand, which will be built in the latest and most up-to-date manner.

Work on removing the small oak grubs and other growth from the ball grounds was begun this morning, and will be rushed to completion in order that the park may be completed in plenty of time for the opening of the coming season.

A small pile of rags in the basement of the new Riegel building on West Jefferson street caused departments 1 and 2 to make a run to the building at 7:15 o'clock Wednesday evening. There was no loss.

St. Paul's cathedral, London, took thirty-six years to build.

MR. J. COULON IS THE ROMANTIC BOY

He Wears Same Pants to Fight in for Eleven Years.

When Johnny Coulon, ex-bantam champion, essays his comeback role at Columbus with Frankie Dean as his opponent, the former champ will wear a pair of frayed navy blue fighting trunks. They were presented Johnny eleven years ago at the Chicago Athletic association after Coulon had won an amateur title. He has worn the trunks in every engagement since that time and had 125 battles.

Victory, as a rule, attended Johnny while he was milling in these togs and even though he ran afoul defeat June 9, 1914, and lost his crown to Kid Williams, he is going to again don the trunks and stick to them in all future combats.

Johnny also regards a piece of whalebone given him by his father as an omen of good luck. Coulon, Sr., deceased, used the whalebone between rounds to scrape foam from Johnny's tongue, thereby easing his breathing apparatus.

Stanley Ketchell was a great believer in the good luck to be derived from rubbing the "hump" on a hunchback.

Valentine (the original Knockout) Brown once traveled around with a hunchback called Louie. The latter brought the pride of New York's east side unbounded good fortune a few years back.

Ketchell, learning of the Kayo's little shipmate, took him to the ring in New York one night when Willie Lewis was billed to tangle with the Michigan wildcat. Ketchell rubbed the "hump" before the fight and Lewis went down for the count early in the second round.

Then there's the case of Ray Bronson, Indianapolis gladiator, now out of commission. Bronson, who once spilled Trukey McFarland in New Orleans, always insisted that his seconds wear blue jerseys on which the name of Bronson was boldly conspicuous.

Another ring great always placed a point of his mother in his corner.

TRIAL COURT REVERSED.

Appellate Court Says Evidence Does Not Support Judgment on Fraud.

Indianapolis, Feb. 17.—The appellate court has reversed the Huntington circuit court for annulling for fraud a contract of sale by which Edgar Shell bought a second-hand traction engine of the Aultman & Taylor Machinery company. The engine had not been acquired by the company at the time of sale but it was on a trade of a new engine for it at the time Shell agreed to buy it.

By the terms of the sale to Shell he paid $100 cash and gave four notes of $100 each for the engine.

The appellate court says that the action is founded on fraud, but that whatever defects there may have been in the boiler of the engine at the time of the sale, there was no showing that there was any fraud on the part of the company or its agents in misleading Shell to buy it, and as the judgment rests on fraud, the evidence does not support it.

St. Paul's Will Meet St. Mary's In First Game of Championship Series

Tonight's the night. Two stocks of lively Saints will cavort tonight in the Concordia college gym in the first of the big city series games. St. Paul's meet St. Mary's, and both clubs are on their toes, both expect to win and both have big following to root for them.

This will be one of the most interesting games of the season in that the two teams that come together both have performed so well that it is hard for anyone to come close to picking a winner.

Ralph Miller has been chosen to referee. Miller is a clean player and in his work with St. Patrick's has proven that he believes in clean work. He never has shown the slightest tendency toward roughneck tactics himself while playing, although forty-two centimeter bombardments have been going on all around him. The going tonight ought to be good square basketball.

Richmond will work for St. Mary's tonight and Lumscher will be back in the Walther league uniform to substitute if he is needed.

The Concordia gym has had its seating capacity nearly doubled, and the crowds will be able to find seating space without difficulty. It will be a great game and full of exciting situations and should drag out a record crowd.

SCHEDULE MAKERS AT WORK IN THE CENTRAL

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 17.—The schedule of the Central league for the 1916 season will be adopted on Feb. 27 at Springfield, Ohio. Three schedule makers, Arthur Coble, of Grand Rapids; Otto Reimer, of Chicago, and J. W. Baumbach, of South Bend, have been instructed to have their drafts ready by Feb. 20, so that copies can be mailed to the club owners.

South Bend lost out in the race to sign First Baseman Ted Anderson, being beaten by Springfield. The fast player comes from West Virginia and he is expected to be a star in the Central league this year.

MOAKLEY, AT 52, GETS TEN- YEAR CONTRACT.

Add to the file of grand old sporting men the name of Jack Moakley. He has just signed to coach Cornell track athletes ten years longer. Like Geers, of the harness realm, the veteran Moakley, who recently celebrated his fifty-second birthday, seems destined to enjoy perpetual youth. Of his thirty-five years as runner and track tactician seventeen have been spent at the post he now fills.

Moakley first gained prominence in Boston where for twelve years he was in active competition.

Coached by Moakley Cornell in 1905 won the intercollegiate title. Under his teaching the Ithacans have since added five more victories. Two years ago Cornell captured the I. C. A. A. silver cup which had been competed for during eleven years. Last season his team took the first leg of a new cup.

PASSES AWAY ON HER BIRTH ANNIVERSARY

Mrs. Mary Ellen Casteel
Dies at the Age of 76
Years.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Casteel, widow of the late George Casteel, died at 11:45 o'clock Wednesday evening at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Gaskill, 605 Hough street, on her seventy-sixth birth anniversary. Two years ago she suffered a stroke of paralysis and since that time she had been in failing health. Two weeks ago, however, she sustained bruises in a fall in the house. Since that time she grew weaker and weaker until death followed.

Born in Wayne county, Ohio, February 16, 1840, she came to Fort Wayne thirty years ago and had resided here ever since. She became widely known throughout the city and her demise comes as a shock to many. She was a member of Calvary U. B. church and active in the affairs of that congregation. Her many acts of charity will never be forgotten.

She is survived by three children—Austin Casteel, of St. John's, Mich.; Mrs. Nannie Morgan and Mrs. Margaret Gaskill, both of Fort Wayne; five grandchildren, one great-grandchild, three brothers, Cyrus, A. H. and Lehman Smedley, all of Wayne county, Ohio.

SMITH.

Mrs. Caroline F. Smith, widow of E. J. Smith and one of the pioneer residents of Allen county, died Wednesday afternoon at her home in Arcola at the age of ninety years. Death resulted from a stroke of paralysis sustained by the aged woman but a few days before.

Mrs. Smith was born near Watertown, N. Y., April 22, 1825, and when but seventeen years of age was married to Lyman Johnson, the date being Oct. 17, 1842. One son was born, Lyman Johnson, who lives in Whitley county. The husband died soon after.

Mrs. Smith came to Fort Wayne 68 years ago. She taught school with great success in the Bullard and Holmes schools in Abolite township and in a few months she married for the second time, her husband being Frederick Fellows and her marriage taking place on July 20, 1848. Two daughters were born to that union, one of which died in infancy. The other daughter, Mary Lydia Fellows, married a Mr. Meiser, and four children survive her.

Bereaved for the second time Mrs. Fellows later became the wife of Mr. Smith, to whom she was married on March 4, 1897, and who departed this life on May 4, 1903. No children were born to this union so that Mr. Johnson is the only child who survives her.

There are a number of grandchildren. They are: Mrs. James A. Turner, of Fort Wayne; Miss Bessie Meiser, of Richmond; Jesse Meiser, of California; and Clarence Rhodes, of Abolite township; Mrs. Rebecca Johnson Hively, Mrs. Nettie Johnson Hasty and Alva Johnson, all of Whitley county. There are seven great-grandchildren. Mrs. W. W. Stouder, of Arcola, is an adopted daughter whom Mrs. Smith took to her home to care for while she was Mrs. Fellows. A devoted friend and housekeeper for the aged lady was Miss Fannie Jefferies, who has lived with Mrs. Smith for thirteen years.

Funeral services Sunday morning at 10 o'clock from the M. E. church at Arcola; interment at Lindenwood.

MERTZ.

George Henry Mertz, aged seventy-seven years, a retired contractor died Wednesday afternoon at the family home, 1109 Franklin avenue. He was born in Russia, but came to America in 1860. Twenty years previous to coming to Fort Wayne he had resided in Bluffton.

His wife preceded him in death thirteen years ago. Mr. Mertz was a member of the Baptist church. Surviving he leaves seven children: Edward, William, Fred and Otto, of this city; Mrs. Emma Withrow, of Elkhart; Mrs. Pearl Marting, of this city; and Reinhold Mertz, of Fort Wayne; twenty-one grandchildren, one brother and two sisters, residing in Europe, and another brother living in South America.

Funeral services Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the residence and at 10 o'clock at the Mennonite church, Rev. B. King officiating; interment at Lindenwood.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Noll.—Funeral services for Upton W. Noll will be held Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the residence, 1610 St. Paul's M. E. church, Rev. F. H. Greenman officiating; interment at the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

The S. W. Stirk circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., will hold flag services at the church Friday immediately after the church services.

Alleged Chicago Banquet
Poisoner is Seen in Boston.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Jean Crones, accused of putting poison in the soup served at the banquet at which Archbishop Mundelein and hundreds of other prominent persons were guests, has been seen in Boston, according to reports reaching officials here today. The Chicago authorities have been in communication with eastern detectives and Crones' arrest is expected soon.

It was said the Chicago officials were informed that Crones was seen at the south terminal in Boston last night. Detectives today set about searching for details of the letter written to the New York Times by a man who signed the name "Jean Crones." They said information gathered here tallied with the acts explained in the alleged confession.

Presence of a second poison mentioned in the Crones letter as having been put in the soup served at the banquet was discovered today in tests by the city chemists. The poison found was of a metallic nature, according to chemists which would quickly induce excessive nausea and so tend to counteract the effect of the other poison mentioned with it.

IN RUSS HANDS

CALLED GREAT VICTORY.

Paris, Feb. 17.—The capture of the great Turkish stronghold of Erzerum by the Russians is declared by the French newspapers this morning as the best item of news for the allies in many months. The military experts dwell upon the importance of the capture, declaring that it gives the Russians the key to Asia Minor and is a victory which will inevitably have far reaching consequences.

"There were no events of importance last night," the war office announced this afternoon.

ITALIAN ATTACK FAILS.

Vienna, Feb. 17.—An Austrian official statement issued under date of Feb. 16 announces that the eighth attack by Italian outposts on the Austro-Hungarian positions on Javek was repulsed. The statement adds that the ground in front of the new Austrian positions in the Komboon district is covered with Italian dead.

BRITISH LOSE HEAVILY.

Constantinople, Feb. 17.—The losses of one of the British expeditions in Mesopotamia in a battle with the Turks near Batina, west of Korna, amounted to 2,000 officers and men, according to an official announcement given out by the Turkish war department under date of Feb. 16. The statement also says that the Russians lost 5,000 men in killed in a three day battle on the Caucasian front.

resisting "liners" without warning given as in the Arabic case. Count von Bernstorff is said to have replied that it was his personal opinion that Germany would do so. He suggested the possibility of postponing the effective date of the new submarine campaign to give time for negotiations to clarify the situation. Secretary Lansing, however, was non-committal.

TAKES PESSIMISTIC VIEW.

Effect of Breach With U. S. Would Be Serious for Germans.

London, Feb. 17.—An Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company today says the manager of one of the greatest German shipping companies in an interview in the Bremen Tageblatt expresses a most pessimistic opinion concerning the effects of a possible breach of relations between Germany and the United States. This shipper, who, the dispatch says, is believed to be Albert Ballin, director general of the Hamburg American Steamship company, is quoted as follows:

"A breach of Germany's relations with America would have a most serious effect. All America's money and munitions would be at the disposal of the entente allies. We should have to take over the feeding of the Belgians and America's attitude probably would induce other neutrals to attack us. All our ships would finally be interned in American ports. This would represent taking away enormous wealth from us. Our plight would be most difficult. When the war is over Germany will have to replenish her stocks of raw materials. Do not let us entertain any illusions with regard to England. She will continue commercial warfare long after military operations are over. She will take away all our trade with South Africa and Australia and it will take years for our passenger service to reach a condition anything like that which existed before the war."

NEW LAW CATCHES ONE LAZY HUSBAND

Homer Young Will Work for Six Months on Roads of County.

The "lazy husband" act of the last legislature has laid its grip on one improvident father and in consequence Homer Young will spend the next six months at labor on the roads of Allen county or on other public work under the auspices and direction of the county commissioners. Young was tried in the circuit court Thursday before Judge John W. Eggeman under the late statute, was found guilty, fined $1 and costs and given six months in the county jail. Judge Eggeman will direct the county commissioners to give Young employment for which he will be paid $1 a day and this money will go to the support of his children. Young was arrested in Toledo a few days ago, given a preliminary hearing in the city court and bound over to the circuit court. His case is flagrant. His wife testified against him in the circuit court and made it as easy for her delinquent spouse as possible. Young offered to take his wife and children back to Toledo with him, but the court did not trust him and imposed the sentence.

Emory Yocum is Acquitted.

After being in deliberation an hour and a quarter a circuit court jury Wednesday evening returned a verdict acquitting Emory Yocum of a charge of child neglect. The verdict was a disappointment to the prosecutor's office. Yocum's offense being deemed flagrant. It was shown that during the past year he had contributed a total of $50 to the support of his divorced wife and the three children he was alleged in the affidavit to have neglected. Mrs. Yocum is obliged to work constantly, had much sickness in the family and two of her five children are now ill. Neighbors testified that they had been giving imperative assistance to Mrs. Yocum at different times. Yocum testified that he had been unable to earn more than $2 a week at any time and that for periods he worked for his board. He had been staying, until his arrest, the greater part of the time at his mother's home in Winamac. He was found guilty of a similar charge over a year ago in the circuit court and Special Judge Edward O'Rourke sentenced him to one to seven years in the penitentiary but suspended it on Yocum's promise, to faithfully obey the court's order to contribute $7 a week to the support of his children. The failure of this prosecution is viewed with misgiving because it will be likely to lead all such offenders to demand a jury trial and obtain immunity for vagabond and vicious fathers who would not be able to fool the courts with their clasp-trap. Yocum was prosecuted under the "lazy husband" act, and if found guilty could have been compelled to work on the highways or other county improvements. The $1 a day wages the law allows going to the support of his family. Yocum was defended by Herbert L. Somers, county attorney for the poor.

Says Wife Left Him.

Herman G. Kage has begun action in the superior court for divorce from Ida H. Kage, alleging that she abandoned and deserted him and refused to come back and thereby has deprived him of his happy home and compelled him to live in lodging houses and forgo the comforts of a domestic establishment. J. G. B. Jones is the plaintiff's attorney.

Wife Asks for Decree.

Eva Ehrmann is suing Henry Ehrmann in the superior court for divorce, alleging that while she was a kind and dutiful wife he was cruel and inhuman in his treatment of her, calling her vile and abusive names and striking her. She has procured an order of court restraining him from molesting her or their household goods at 901 Archer avenue. She asks the custody of a minor child. They were married in February, 1909, and have just separated. P. B. Colerick appears for the plaintiff.

Notes of the Courts.

Walter Wedlaw, fined $100 and costs in the city court a few days ago on a blind tiger charge, has appealed his case to the circuit court and furnished bond of $250.

George H. IVberg and William G. McMan have brought suit in the superior court against Frank and Henry Gibson to collect $175 on notes. W. H. Shambaugh is the attorney for the plaintiffs.

These of Forest Feit, charged with criminal assault on Florence Miller, aged 15 years, of Harlan, has been certified to the circuit court by Justice H. C. Nierman. His bond is fixed at $1,000.

Title to real estate has been quieted in the plaintiff by the circuit court in the case of Oscar E. Wobrock vs. John T. Barr, et al.

The circuit court has set these causes for trial: R. W. Soderberg, trustee, vs. Richard I. Evans, to collect $2,000 on notes, jury April 17; Herbert Gladbach vs. the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company for $160 damages, jury April 20.

Robert B. Garmire, receiver for the defendant in the suit of Hattie B. Reichard vs. Rose A. Kleinreichert, has filed his final report in the circuit court and been discharged.

John Conrad, tried in the circuit court Thursday for child neglect, was found not guilty by Judge Eggeman, but was warned that his next appearance would procure him a job at $1 a day under the "lazy husband act" and his family would get all of his wages.

Horbin Gaines, known in police circles here as Ol' Doc Gaines, a beauty specialist, was sentenced to from one to five years in the Michigan City prison by Judge Eggeman in the circuit court Thursday for uttering fraudulent checks. He pleaded guilty.

APPROVE PLANS FOR GRADE SEPARATION

Coombs Street Subway is Ready for Council's Ratification.

The board of works at a meeting with officials of the New York, Chicago, and St. Louis (the Nickel Plate) railway Thursday forenoon approved the railroad's plans and estimates for grade separation at Coombs street and the matter will go to the city council for approval at the next meeting of that body. Those present at the meeting were Mayor W. J. Hosey, Board Members R. E. Kelly, F. E. Slingrey and Henry Higgeman, City Attorney Guy Colerick and City Engineer P. M. Randall, for the city, and Division Superintendent W. F. Waterson, General Agent Sol K. Blair and Chief Engineer Hart for the Nickel Plate. The plans provide for a subway with a 12½ foot clearance, two seven-foot sidewalks and two 18-foot driveways. The approaches will reach established grade at the first alley south of Liberty street on the south side and at Cochran street on the north side. The Nickel Plate in order to get the stipulated clearance will have to elevate its tracks five feet at the point of separation and this will necessitate changing the grade for near a half mile in each direction. The total cost of the work in which the railroad and city will participate will be $36,200. The city's work will cost $20,500 on the approaches and for the subway proper there will be an expense of $15,500, which the city and railroad will bear in proportions of 25 and 75 per cent. respectively. The Nickel Plate will incur an expense of $9,000 for changing the grade of its tracks. A stipulation in the specifications is that all the earth taken from the excavation shall be carried to the Coombs street bridge and deposited as the board of works may direct.

SEWER REPAIRS COMPLETED.

The Moellering Construction company on Wednesday evening completed repairs on the collapsed portion of the new sewer built a short time ago to connect the Morton street and Tecumseh street main sewers with the sewage lift pumps in Lakeside. The collapse of the sewer more than two weeks ago forced the shutting down of the pumps and caused sewage to back into cellars and as is the main incident that brought to a crisis the strained situation between the people of Lakeside and Mayor W. J. Hosey's administration. The pumps are now ready for operation whenever another rise of water in the Maumee compels a closing of the valves in the sewer mains.

JOHN D'S MIGHTY MILLIONS LIE OPEN TO "MOTHER" JONES IN HER LIFE-FOR-LIFE PLAN.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Can the Rockefeller millions give a "life for a life?" John D. Rockefeller, jr., thinks so. He is trying to obtain the freedom of Herman Coppes, branded the "worst boy in the country" and under life sentence in Joliet penitentiary, educate him and offer him to society in restitution for the life of Harry Snyder, victim of the Ludlow mine riots—called the "best little lad in Ludlow."

A bullet a state militiaman sent into the heart of the 12-year-old Snyder boy at Ludlow, April 21, 1913, may be the force that will open prison doors to Coppes, a farm lad, in Illinois, who on the day of Snyder's death confessed to a triple murder.

Coppes, at 14, was convicted for the murder of Mrs. Maude Sleep, a woman for whom he worked on a farm at Plano, Ill. The two Sleep children shared their mother's fate and died at the hands of their playmate, Herman, who was convicted on his own confession.

On the Plano farm Coppes toiled from 5:30 in the morning until 8 o'clock at night. Medical experts say he was not very bright, that he inherited bad tendencies and there were no good influences in the boy's home to offset his heritage. The claim was made that hard work deranged the boy's mind.

Mrs. Nora Leo Turner has resumed charge of the dispensary at the General Electric works, after a two months' vacation, during which she made a trip to California and later visited friends in Michigan and southern Indiana. During Mrs. Turner's absence Miss Florence Steele, a professional nurse of the city, had charge of the dispensary.

Engineer H. O. Dermody, of the Pennsylvania, is in receipt of a copy of the Morning Herald, published at Hagerstown, Md., which carried on its front page a three column picture of Fort Wayne's market house, together with the statement that "Fort Wayne has one of the most scientifically arranged city market places in the United States." The item then gives a good description of our market house.

That spring is near at hand is indicated by the number of spring birds that have been seen during the past few days. Dr. Brent's Discovery

By Walt Gregg

Dr. Brent turned the corner of the country road he jammed on the brakes of his roadster. The headlights brought into clear relief the figure of a girl plodding along in the ruts. Since she showed no intention of leaving the roadway, he went forward slowly, turning out into the grass.

"Ray," he called out, "don't you know you'll be run over if you're not more careful?"

"I don't know that I mind," she answered, hopelessly.

"You don't mind," repeated Brent, his surprised eyes regarding the girl's trim, well-cared-for appearance.

"No," she replied moodily. "If I were to die now I'd escape a whole lot of unpopularity."

"By Jove, that's a mournful philosophy of life. Might I ask what you are doing on this lonely road at 11 o'clock at night?"

"I'm running away," was the answer. "Oh, yes," she went on after his ejaculation of surprise, "I know it sounds crazy. I have a perfectly comfortable home with two aunts who are excruciatingly good and who love me very much. But I'm tired of the same old thing every day. I'm tired of cream of tartar biscuits every night. Oh, dear! I guess I'm pretty wicked. With that she began to cry.

"I'm going to give you a ride." Then he picked up the sobbing girl, deposited her on the seat, and sent the machine through the cool air, fresh with the fragrance of apple blossoms.

Soon the girl became quiet and Brent asked where she lived. In a low voice she replied, "I'd be ashamed to tell you. Besides we should never find it from here at night. I've ridden or walked all day and I did not pay much attention to where I was going."

"The Dickens you didn't," Brent muttered to himself. "Aloud he said, 'I shall take you to my sister's home.'"

Before long he drew up at a white farmhouse where he asked her to get out. "I—I'm afraid I can't," she murmured. "You see my feet were so hot and tired that I took my pumps off and now I can't get them on." Grimly he picked her up the second time and carried her to the piazza, where, after a whispered explanation, she was welcomed by his sister.

In the morning a subdued young lady appeared at the breakfast table. She still refused to give her name or tell where she lived. "I'd died of shame if you knew who I am," she said. "If you'll take me to the station, I'll go home."

Later on Brent gave this parting bit of advice. "If I were you I wouldn't be such a quitter. It's a pity that in this big world you can't find something to do. Did it ever occur to you to try thinking of someone besides your own precious self?" Then he stalked off before she bought her ticket, chuckling at the startled look in her wide open blue eyes.

CAN'T FIND DANDRUFF

Every bit of dandruff disappears after one or two applications of Danderine rubbed well into the scalp with the finger tips. Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store and save your hair. After a few applications you can't find a particle of dandruff or any falling hair, and the scalp will never itch.—Advertisement.

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR CROSS, SICK FEVERISH CHILD

If little stomach is sour, liver torpid or bowels clogged.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it can not cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomach-ache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Advertisement.

SEATTLE WET LEADER NOW LIKES DRY RULE

Changes His Mind in Six Weeks After City Bans Saloons.

Kansas City, Feb. 17.—The world is watching Seattle to see how prohibition works out in a large city. Seattle is the largest city that has ever had prohibition. It and the whole state of Washington became "dry" January 1, of this year.

The strongest single force that worked against prohibition in the state of Washington, was the Times, the leading newspaper of Seattle. In its campaign against the passage of the prohibitory law it used all the familiar old arguments such as "Prohibition doesn't prohibit," that it would force down rents, that so much property used for saloons all at once made empty, and nonproductive in one day would have a bad economic effect, and so on.

Why He Fought Prohibition
The editor of the Seattle Times, Major C. B. Bletten, the man who made the fight against prohibition, was in Kansas City and was asked how prohibition was working and if all his prophecies had come true. He said:

"My paper fought its hardest against prohibition. We fought it on economic grounds alone. We believed that in a great seaport city with a population of upward of 300,000 prohibition would be destructive; it would bring on economic disaster. We believed that under our system of licensing saloons we had the liquor traffic about as well controlled as it could be, and we wanted to let it alone, and so we fought as hard as we could fight. But, in spite of all we could do against it, prohibition carried and went into effect in Washington January 1. We have had six weeks of it now."

"And how has it worked out?"

Business Expanded Quickly
"We already know that it is a great benefit, morally and from an economic standpoint. Its moral benefit has been tremendous. Seattle had 200 saloons, and we had an average of 2,600 arrests a month for crimes and misdemeanors growing out of liquor drinking. In January we had only 400 arrests and sixty of those were made January 1, and were the result of hangovers from the old year. That in itself is enough to convince any man with a conscience that prohibition is necessary. There can be no true economy in anything that is immoral."

"And on top of that great moral result, we have these economic facts: In the first three weeks of January the savings deposits in the banks of Seattle increased 15 per cent. There was not a grocery store in Seattle that did not show an increase of business in January greater than ever known in any month before in all the history of the city, except in holiday times. In all the large grocery stores the increase was immense. In addition to this, every dry goods store in Seattle except one, and that one I have no figures from, had a wonderful increase in business. Each store reported the largest business ever done in one month except in holiday time."

"I wished to know in what class of goods the sales increased so greatly, and so I sent to all the grocery and dry goods stores to find that out. And to me it is a pitiful thing, and it makes me sorry that we did not have prohibition long ago—that the increase in sales in all the dry goods stores was in wearing apparel of women and children, and in the grocery stores the increase was made up chiefly of fruits and fancy groceries. This proves that it is the women and children who suffer most from the liquor business, and it is the women and children who benefit greatest from prohibition. Money that went formerly over the bar for whisky is now being spent for clothing for the women and children, and in better food for the household."

"It is just like this: When you close the saloons the money that formerly was spent there remains in the family of the wage earner, and his wife and children buy shoes and clothing and better food with it. Yes, sir, we have found in Seattle that it is better to buy shoes than booze. The families of wage earners in Seattle are going to have more food and clothes and everything else than they had before."

It Actually Prohibits.

"And is the prohibition law enforced?"

"Absolutely. Prohibition does prohibit."

"And how about the empty saloons and the landlords who own them?"

"Many of them have already been made over and are occupied by other businesses. I will venture the prophecy that in one year from today you won't be able to find a place in Seattle where there was a saloon. They will all be occupied by other businesses. And prohibition has not lowered rents. I know of one big dry goods store that has already had its rent raised since prohibition went into effect."

Coast States All Will Be "Dry."

"Oregon also went 'dry' January 1. California is the only 'wet' state left on the Pacific coast, and it will go 'dry' January 1, 1919. And those three states will remain 'dry' to the end of time. None of them would ever have saloons again. Those who were honestly opposed, as I was, to prohibition in Washington and Oregon, have been converted to it, as I have been, by the actual evidence that prohibition is a fine thing from a business standpoint. No city and no community too, can afford to have saloons. They are too expensive, morally and economically. In a very few years there will not be a licensed saloon in the whole nation, and that will be a fine thing."

IS AUTO MERGER COMPLETE?

Indianapolis, Feb. 17.—Advices from Chicago say that the big merger of manufacturers of automobiles and automobile parts, under discussion for some time, has been perfected. The Motor Age, of Chicago, reports that A. F. Knoblock, formerly general manager of the Northway Motor company, of Detroit, is the president of the new concern.

Manufacturers who are supposed to be interested in the merger have refused to discuss the combination, but have admitted that the merger was under discussion. According to first reports the concerns interested in the merger are the Interstate Automobile company, the Warner Gear company, and the Dear Forging company, of Muncie; the Cole Automobile company, of Indianapolis; the Ruttenberg company, and the Marion Drop Forge company, of Detroit; and the Motor Sales company, and the Peruto Auto Sales company.

German City Has Entire Municipal Control of Foodstuffs.

Berlin, Jan. 25.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The big suburban city of Lichtenberg, a few miles from Berlin, whose population is almost exclusively drawn from the working classes, has, during the past few months, been perfecting a system of municipal ownership of foodstuffs which is perhaps the most comprehensive in Germany.

It has not only taken charge of and control over certain kinds of foods, as other municipalities have done, but it has become salesman as well, has opened

ed municipal stores and markets all over the city, has done much to keep prices down within reach of its inhabitants and yet has made enough profit to enable it to keep its stocks replenished.

Where it has been found inadvisable for the city to sell the food itself, it has been distributed through merchants who have been permitted to charge only stipulated prices and to make a profit no larger than the city itself would make.

The city now maintains four stores for the sale of meat, sausage, fats and bacon, four one stores, and two potato stores. Four more of the latter are to be added in a short time, as soon as the expected increased demand for potatoes come.

The city has been able to make advantageous contracts with packers for both meats and fats, and of late is selling daily to about 20,000 families. Whenever a shortage has been felt, such as was the case with fat recently, Lichtenberg has procured substitutes of one kind or another.

It has in its storehouses now enough bacon to last into February, and by that time will have received the 6,900 hogs that have been apportioned to it by military authorities. A contract to slaughter them has already been awarded.

Of late the city has added to its stock by putting in rice, beans, peas and oat flakes by the hundredweight and is selling them at a small margin of profit at its meat stores. Until after Christmas the price of municipal eggs was four cents apiece—as compared with eight to nine cents in other parts of Greater Berlin—but now it has advanced to four and a half cents.

The city has just purchased an enormous quantity of potatoes, half of which it has stored away, and the other half of which has been distributed among regular provision dealers to be sold at specified prices. The city has sold huge amounts of fruit.

In addition to selling outright the things enumerated, Lichtenberg has supplied local merchants with great quantities of noodles, condensed milk, sardines, vegetables and macaroni which it, as a wholesale buyer, has been able to procure advantageously.

The plum, which was among the earliest of fruits to be cultivated and was raised when Thebes, Memphis and Damascus were in their glory, also grows wild in Asia, America and southern Europe.

The Doctor's Advice

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Bldg. Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name, and address must be given, but only initials or notations will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Gre" writes: "My hair is coming out. I have dandruff and itching scalp."

Answer: I always recommend the use of plain yellow mineral to restore the scalp to healthy condition and overcome dandruff and falling hair. Mineral contains no alcohol to dry the hair make it brittle. It is the best hair and scalp tonic I know of.

"Miserable" writes: "I want something to take to break up coughs and colds. Constantly, I am troubled with cold in my system and sore throat. I cough much, too, and my tonsils and bronchials are sore."

Answer: I suggest that you get 2 1/2 oz. essence menthyl salicylate and mix with one pint simple sugar syrup or honey. There is no better treatment for coughs and colds than just this preparation. It breaks up the cold, soothes and heals the membranous tissues, and as it acts as a laxative it aids in throwing out of the system the cold inflammation.

"Till" writes: "How may I regain my weight and strength? I'm so weak and thin. I should weight forty-five pounds more."

Answer: You will find just the proper tonic and flesh builder you require by using regularly three-grain hypo-nutrient tablets. They build up strength, health and flesh. I have prescribed them many times and they are highly recommended.

"Nagana" writes: "My mind seems to be getting weak and my whole system seems to be losing strength fast. Please suggest something I may take to relieve this depressed condition, and restore to my system new life and energy and my ambition. I feel twenty years older than I am."

Answer: Your nerve cells and tissue cells have not been receiving proper nutrition from the blood. Practice regular habits of living and take three grain

NEW LEGISLATIVE PROPOSAL UNIQUE

By Gilson Gardner
Washington, Feb. 17.—A unique legislative proposal—a bill which actually seeks to do away with the problem of unemployment—has just been introduced into the house by Representative Robert Crosser of Ohio.

It is evidently inspired by the recommendations made in the annual report of Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, suggesting colonizing of unemployed workers by the government, on the lands—agricultural, grazing and forest lands—remaining in government ownership.

Rep. Crosser's bill proposes to create a "National Colonization Board," consisting of the secretaries of labor, agriculture and interior, with the secretary of labor as chairman, which board is directed to examine portions of the public domain and the forest reservations, both in the U. S. and Alaska, and to set aside such portions as may be fitted for "colonization projects." The board is then directed to prepare the land for use by clearing, road-building, ditching, draining and other reclamation works as may be necessary; to develop and supply timber, coal, power, telephone and other services to the colonists at cost for their domestic use only; and to organize facilities for purchasing, marketing and other co-operative activities.

When the lands are ready for use, the board is directed to offer them, in suitable parcels, to prospective settlers. Title to the lands is to remain forever in the government, the settlers being given a permit or lease which they have the right to assign or bequeath. The land is to be theirs as long as they use and occupy it. Capital invested by the government on improvements is to be repaid by the settlers in a period which may be as long as fifty years, in annual installments, with four per cent interest, after which no charges are to be made except a reasonable tax charge. An equitable proportion of this tax charge is to be paid to the state and county in whose jurisdiction the project is located; the balance of the tax charge to go into a "colonization fund" to be used to finance new projects from time to time, as is now the case with the "Reclamation Service fund." A bond issue of fifty million dollars is authorized to supply the first capital, the bonds to be paid off from the first receipts from the projects.

The bill contemplates the use, not only of agricultural, desert land grazing lands on the public domain, but lands within national forests, and the proposal is that permanent industries, like cattle raising, sheep raising, logging, lumbering, sawmilling and similar industries shall be developed on the various projects. The colonization board is directed to take over the administration of the forest lands where colonization projects are located on national forests, and to administer timber sale contracts so as to maintain "a continuous and sustained annual yield and cut of timber within the area of the project," indicating an intention to establish a permanent lumber industry instead of the present temporary lumber "camps" with their hobo "lumber jacks" which now contribute so greatly to the industrial problem.

In addition to its work on the government lands, the board is authorized by the bill to establish colonization projects in co-operation with any state or private land owner. The board would thus have power to utilize cut-over timber lands (such as those in northern Minnesota and Wisconsin) and the present useless swamp lands of Florida and Louisiana. The whole idea of the bill is that the government shall act as the capitalist in preparing the lands for occupancy, equipping them with necessary buildings and improvements, the money to be paid back on easy payments over a long term of years by the settlers, who shall not be permitted to have the title, but only the use of the lands as long as they comply with the requirements.

The bill safeguards labor employed in the work of preparing the lands, by providing an eight hour day, a minimum wage which shall not be less than the current wage for the same class of work in the vicinity, the elimination of child labor and semi-monthly pay. The board is also instructed to make rules and regulations to insure safety, to provide for workmen's compensation and accident insurance. Prospective settlers may be employed by the board in helping to prepare the land for occupancy, receiving standard wages for their work, and the board is authorized to have the necessary work performed directly by the government, in case satisfactory contracts cannot be made for getting the work done.

In Great Britain a billion is reckoned as a million millions. In the United States it is only a thousand millions.

GIVES $6,000 TO HOSPITAL

Miss Elizabeth Hogshead, Age 73, Crippled, Divides Her Estate.

Washington, Ind., Feb. 17.—The will of Miss Elizabeth Hogshead, seventy-three years old, who died last Friday, provides for a bequest that will amount approximately to $6,000 to the Daviess county hospital, to be placed in the sustaining fund. Miss Hogshead had been a cripple for the last fifteen years and had been bedfast three years. She also left $500 to the Westminster Presbyterian church. The remainder of her $10,000 estate was divided among nephews, nieces and cousins. This makes the second bequest of $6,000 for the hospital. Malinda M. Wilson having been the first benefactor.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at first sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing at any time.—Advertisement.

Suffragists Don't Blame Mrs. Warren if She Broke Man-Made Smuggling Laws

"Women Cannot Be Expected to Respect Laws Until They Have a Hand in Making Them" Says Alice Carpenter in Commenting on Case.

New York, Feb. 17.—When Mrs. Warren, who is the wife of Whitney Warren, the famous architect, and treasurer of the Secours National arrived from France, Nov. 15, customs inspectors charged that the wearing apparel which her declaration showed to be worth $1,500 had a home value of $8,148.

On 26 gowns in her baggage the forfeitable value is $13,389, the home value plus the duty.

On December 10, almost a month after Mrs. Warren's arrival, Dudley Field Malone, collector of the port of New York, announced that he had ordered the baggage of Mrs. Warren seized and forfeited.

In addition he ordered the papers in the case to be sent to the United States district attorney with the recommendation that they be laid before the grand jury alleging that there was an attempt to defraud the federal government.

Wealthy women are said by customs officials to cause more trouble in attempting to evade paying duty than do any other class of passengers entering our ports.

Discussing this, Alice Carpenter, the suffragist speaker and writer, says: "Until men teach women the seriousness of the law and give them an opportunity to make it and to participate in it women cannot be expected to be responsible in the same degree as men. I believe that there is more excuse for a non-franchised individual's evading the law than there is for any other group. The poor bear most of the burdens of life, and it is nothing extraordinary that the poor smuggler has to pay more for his little crime than the rich smuggler does for his big one."

Inez Milholland Boissevain, who has just returned to her law practice in New York, after accompanying the Ford peace expedition abroad, says: "I blame no woman for smuggling. Why should a woman pay attention to a law which women did not help to make? When a poor smuggler receives a heavier sentence than a rich one, it is largely because the jurors who try him are men."

"Men have such a holy attitude toward property that any violation of it is to them the last word in iniquity. Women do not have so high a regard for property since it was not until recent years that they had a right to hold it. Women, who care more about humanity and things that affect the soul, mind and body, do not consider offenses against property so important as those against life. Women to that extent are more humane!"

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Tee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Advertisement.

RELIGION, TEMPERANCE AND HEALTH

The Wild West Cowboy From Montana

The writer was raised in the wilds of Montana, where the rattlesnakes and buzzards are plentiful. I was raised on a small ranch in the valley of Sun River, near a city called Great Falls. At the early age of six I started to learn to ride horses as I wanted to become a cowboy. At eight I started to school, and I was very backward and bashful. I didn't care for books, but after getting acquainted I liked to be with other boys. Most of the boys that were there were older than I; they were posted on "things" that I was ignorant of. When I first started to school I had no bad habits, but after I was there a while I was soon taught how to swear, play tricks, fight, and smoke. These boys knowing I wanted to become a cowboy told me I had to do these things in order to be a genuine "Wild West Cowboy."

By the time I was nine years old I was very good at handling horses for a boy of that age. But that was not all; I was an expert in swearing and lying. Following along these lines, I reached the age of fifteen when I took a position away from home as a cowboy. Now was my chance. I was with real "Wild Westerners."

At the age of eighteen I was a genuine "tough." To be popular among the class known as "cowboys" I had to indulge in gambling, drinking, swearing, smoking, lying and other like things which I won't take time to mention. I was one of these boys that when three or four fellows said "be a sport" I could not resist and the boys knew it. I was so degraded I used to go to church and Sunday school nearly every Sunday and after the meeting I would go to a saloon and shake dice in order to secure a drink to "digest" what I had heard.

Now I wish to impress on your minds during that period of time, when I was broke I had no real friends. I was what you might call an outcast just the same as any drunkard or man that is down and out who is following that kind of a life.

In the year of 1909 I gave up my position as a cowboy for my health failed so I was compelled to.

My brother and I went into business as gardeners and poultrymen and playing for dances much of the time in the winter.

In the year of 1911 my brother and I came to Auburn, Washington, thinking we would be satisfied for we were unable to satisfy ourselves in Montana, but do you think we were satisfied? I should say not. I want to go on and say we had very few real friends, and I would like to impress on your minds I was forced to give up some of my bad habits or meet death.

"By doing that I became a very miserable man and a regular old crank, nothing would satisfy me."

You noticed in the first part of this message I started to learn to ride horses in order to satisfy myself, then I got into bad habits and bad company and still I wasn't satisfied. I was still seeking for something to satisfy myself, and had been for twenty years past. Finally one day my dear brother, who had been in the same condition as I, but had found "Christ," came to me one week with that very thing I had been seeking for so long, or friend who is a true friend, one that will never forsake you. This friend's name is Jesus. Now I come to you with this message to tell you about the wonderful Saviour who can and wants to save a man from sin.

The reason I was so miserable before was because I was a sinner bound for an eternal hell; but, Oh! I want to tell you the day my sins were washed away with the precious blood of "Christ" was a happy one for me.

I certainly do thank God I am now a new creature in Christ Jesus, bound for eternal glory, to be with the dear Saviour who died on the cross for you and for me that by believing and accepting Jesus as our Saviour we are the sons of God. Jno. 1:12. Now I am free from all the old things that held me in bondage, and I am glad to say you can be the same. I can testify that I never knew what "Joy" and "Peace" were until after I accepted Jesus as my personal Saviour. I wouldn't exchange ten minutes of this life for all the back years I lived without Jesus.

Now I have a question of importance to ask you.

Where are you going to spend eternity?

God's answer is either Hell or Heaven. God is Love and He gives you your choice.

What you must do to enter in the narrow gate that leads to Heaven, that is you shall confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead thou shalt be saved. Rom. 10:9. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness, but with the mouth confession is made unto salvation. Rom. 10:10.

To enter Hell is a very easy thing. All you have to do is just go on in sin and reject Jesus.

The wicked shall be turned into Hell and all nations that forget God. Psalm 9:17.

But the fearful and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone, which is the second death. Rev. 21:8.

Some people say there is too much to give up in order to be a Christian. When you say that you do not appreciate the value the Gift of God which is eternal life with our Lord Jesus Christ.

For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul. Mark 8:36.

But seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you. Matt. 6:33.

There are many people who like to put off till tomorrow what they can and ought to do today. That is exactly the way they do about their soul salvation, and by doing this many are too late. As God plainly says, now is the accepted time; this is the day of salvation. 2 Cor. 6:2.

Why not come now as you can never tell what moment your soul shall be required of you or what moment you will meet eternity.

"Eternity" is a thing we all have to face and I beg that you take Jesus as your personal Saviour while you can, as he is the only way for eternal glory.

Listen. Jesus says, I am the way, the truth and the life; no man cometh unto the Father but by me. Jno. 14:6.

Just think what God has done for us. God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. Jno. 3:16.

Some people think they are not sinners because they treat other people square and live a good moral life. God says we all have sinned and come short of the glory of God. Rom. 3:23.

If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves and make God a liar. But if we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

If we say that we have not sinned we make Him a liar, and His word is not in us. 1 Jno. 1:8, 9, 10.

He also says without the shedding of blood there is no remission. Heb. 9:22.

Some people say the Christian life is too hard. Well, I wish to say a word about that. The Christian life is the easiest thing on earth to live if you let God have full control of your life. As He says, My yoke is easy, My burdens are light. Matt. 11:30.

This is certainly the truth, as I have tried it. God's burdens are so light you never know they were burdens, but I want to inform you that the Devil's burdens are so heavy that the wages of sin is death. Rom. 6:23.

Jesus says, Come! Won't you do it?

NOTE

I am the oldest of a family of nine children, five girls and four boys.

My parents were skeptics, therefore our family was brought up without any religious training of any kind.

The fruits of that kind of bringing up was quarrelling, swearing, no real love, no joy, no peace; our home was simply "Hell" on earth.

My brother and I were rank skeptics, but we finally took heed to God's proposition found in John 7:17. If any man will to do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself.

By taking heed to this proposition, we found that there was a living God manifested in three persons, God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost.

We uttered this prayer really anxious to know the truth.

Oh God, if there is a God, show me and if Jesus Christ is Your Son show me and I will forsake all sin.

As soon as we were willing to forsake all our sin we found there was a God and that Jesus Christ was His Son, who died on the cruel cross with the spikes driven through His hands and feet and a crown of thorns on His head for our transgression.

Jesus became our personal Saviour and our lives were changed as we became new creatures in Christ Jesus and the things we loved we hated, and the things we hated we loved, and I thank God since the day we found Jesus we have had joy and peace unspeakable.

After my brother and I found Jesus we began to work on the rest of the family and today I can say with praise unto God that our whole family are saved, as they have taken Jesus as their personal Saviour, so now our home consists of real love, joy and peace.

It is Heaven now.

Oh! It is wonderful what Jesus will do if you will just give him right away in your life.

It pays to serve Jesus in every way. I know for I have been on both sides of the fence.

Remember there is no peace saith my God to the wicked. Isa. 57:21.

God says, Come now, and let us reason together. Saith the Lord: Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool. Isa. 1:18.

My earnest prayer is that you will take Jesus as your Saviour before it is too late.—H. J. Ranton.

War, Disease, Alcohol

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, noted physician and writer on diet and health, says:

"Everything else being equal, the armies which do not use the alcohol will win the European war."

"Alcohol is the worst drug habit because it is the most universal. It is not a food, but a poison, and is decidedly not a medical necessity. Several decades ago, doctors advised the drinking of whisky and other forms of alcohol as a preventive for bad colds and malaria and other diseases. They didn't know any better, and they had to advise something."

"Nowadays we recognize that instead of increasing the ability to withstand disease, alcohol decreases the vitality and leaves the body less able to throw off the germs of disease. The only excuse for the use of alcohol in the trenches is to make the men feel more comfortable temporarily, though at the same time it makes them stupid and they feel worse afterward than they did before drinking."

"Numerous tests have shown conclusively that while men under the influence of alcohol feel they are working easily and think they accomplish a great deal, in reality their output is much less than normal."

"Like all other drugs, alcohol deadens the sensibility to pain and renders the nervous system less sensitive. That, however, may be the condition for which nations are working!"—Friends' Intelligencer.

WHY HE DID NOT

A gushing lad passed the time of day to an aged boatman who stood gazing out to sea over the entrance to the pier. They fell to discussing objects of interest, and presently she inquired: "Tell me, now, if you ever saw a sea serpent?" "Certainly not, mum; I am a teetotaler!"

Can You Picture Young Abe Lincoln in the Village Pool-room Door?

Can you picture young Abe Lincoln in the village pool-room door, with his eyes all dim and blinkin'; spitting on the wooden floor?

Can your best imagination picture young Abe with the sots, "shakin' bones" to beat the nation, on the vacant corner lots?

Can you think of Abe at college, with some booze inside his belt, with his head devoid of knowledge, hunting some young freshman's pelt?

Picture "Honest Abe" at 30, loafing in a barber shop, with his face and collar dirty, hiding from the corner cop!

Abe, it seems, was quite too busy to fit into such a scene; ignorant of night life ditty, quite content with looking "green." But he surely cut the mustard when the stuff was there to cut, and he won the biggest eustard though the swells thought him a mutt.

Honest Abe! Your name's still ringing through the corridors of fame; all the world your praise is singing, every man reveres your name! Had you spent your mornings sleeping and your evenings drinking rye, poets would not now be keeping bright that fame which will not die!—Charles B. Driscoll.

Not Enough Engine Power

Have those New Year's resolutions lasted until now? Or are you regretfully wishing that they had? The Morning Oregonian of Portland a few days after New Year's Day published a cartoon that is a sermon in itself. Up a steep, rocky hill a perspiring, desperate looking citizen is attempting to travel in an automobile labeled in large letters, "New Year Resolution." Monkey wrench in hand, the driver is peering around his wind-shield at his engine, to the hood of which is attached a label reading "Will Power." And a small jeering animal in the lower left-hand corner of the picture is calling, "Hey Mister! Yer slippin' back." The cartoon is entitled "Not Enough Engine Power, as Usual." Of course not. Will-power never yet carried us up temptation hill, and it never will. If you made those New Year's resolutions with firm determination that, by the power of your will strengthened by the power of Christ, you would win this time, that is why you failed. But if you will now cease from asking Christ to add his efforts to yours, and instead leave the hill-climbing wholly to Him as exclusively His work for you, then no grade on earth can stop you—for none can stop Him.—Sunday School Times.

OUR GOD IS WILLING

Our God is willing to light up our binary roads, even the byways and back streets of our daily life. Few of us spend our days in the main streets. Most of our life is passed in very quiet ways, often in trudging along very rough and rutty roads. Well, we can

Sunshine Better Than Chemicals As Preventative of Disease

DISINFECTION

For many centuries there has been a widespread belief that if an odor is sufficiently strong and unpleasant, no disease will make its appearance in its neighborhood.

Various ill-smelling substances have been hung around children's necks to ward off diphtheria, and feathers burned to assist in preventing epidemics. This is done by some people even today.

But physicians slowly are proving that most germs of disease are unaffected by such methods.

They are teaching that plenty of ordinary hot water, lots of soap and a vigorous use of the scrubbing brush will disinfect and prevent the spread of disease. To this prescription, it is urged that plenty of sunshine and fresh air be added.

In cases, however, where chemical disinfection is deemed necessary, it is best to let the doctor or health officer direct it.

As the army selects only healthy recruits as those who can alone stand the hardships of war, so the employer who has the healthiest and most vigorous men will, other things equal, in competition outdo those whose workmen are weakened by disease.

MY ASPIRATIONS

I would be true, for there are those who trust me;
I would be pure, for there are those who care;
I would be strong, for there is much to suffer;
I would be brave, for there is much to dare.
I would be friend to all—the foe—the friendless;
I would be giving, and forget the gift;
I would be humble, for I know my weakness;
I would look up—and laugh—and love—and lift.
—Howard Arnold Walter.

go along them all "by revelation" with God's soft light of grace falling upon the deep cuts and the sharp stones. In every path of duty we can have these revealing rays, warm and sunny with the very love of God. Every way can be illumined, and in the heaviest and most miry road the place of our feet can be glorious.—Rev. J. H. Jowett.

SAID THE KING OF ENGLAND

At a recent review of the troops of the second new army (writes the London correspondent of the Liverpool Daily Post) the king commented with manifest satisfaction upon the physical fitness of the men. His majesty noted with special pleasure their healthy appearance and the buoyancy of their step as they marched past, and turning to those near him, he remarked: "Surely this must be due to the fact that we have now a temperance army."

Imminent Coming of the Lord Seems Near

"As surely as He came the first time, so will He come the second time. This same Jesus who is taken up from you into Heaven shall so come in like manner as ye have seen Him go into Heaven." (Acts 1:11).

"As it was appointed unto man once to die, but after that the judgment: So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many and shall appear the second time without sin unto salvation." (Heb. 9:27-28).

"For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." (Rom. 3:23).

"But God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." (Rom. 5:8).

"Therefore be ye also ready; for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of Man cometh." (Matt. 24:44).

"That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shall believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved." (Rom. 10:9).

"And this is the will of Him that sent me, that everyone which seeth the Son, and believeth on Him, may have everlasting life; and I will raise him up at the last day." (John 6:40).

"What an event that will be when it comes! What pen can describe the scene when He leaves the throne to call the bodies of His saints from their graves!"

"He which testifieth these things saith: Surely I come quickly. Amen. Even so come Lord Jesus. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen."

Drink Deadliest Foe

Lord Kitchener, Great Britain's secretary of war, Field Marshal French and David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, seem to be of the same opinion regarding the drink evil.

"We are fighting Germany, Austria and drink, and so far as I can see the greatest of these three deadly foes is drink," said David Lloyd-George. The chancellor was replying to a deputation of the Ship-Building Employers' Federation, the members of which were unanimous in urging total prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors during the period of the war.

"I have a growing conviction, based on accumulating evidence," the chancellor continued, "that nothing but root and branch methods would be of the slightest avail in dealing with the evil. I believe it is the general feeling that, if we are to settle German militarism, we must first of all settle with the drink."

THE LITTLE WHITE SLAVER

Henry Ford, of Detroit, the maker of Ford cars, published a pamphlet attacking the cigarette habit. He called the cigarette the "Little White Slave," and gave much evidence to justify that name. Then he received a letter from the president of the American Tobacco company which was practically a threat to bring suit for damages.

Mr. Ford replied that he was responsible for what he had said, and instead of backing down, he fired off another blast against the cigarette.

He gave the testimony of many well known men occupying positions which give them opportunities for observing the effects of cigarettes, who unite in declaring that the habit of smoking cigarettes dulls a boy's mind and unfits him for really efficient work.—Sabbath Reading.

How to Live Long

"Uncle Cape" Stanley of Downers Grove, near Chicago, has reached his hundredth birthday anniversary. As is customary with old gentlemen upon occasions of this kind, "Uncle Cape" celebrated his centenary by giving out a set of rules to be followed by those who wish to reach his ripe age.

"Uncle Cape's" rules are more interesting than most. Here they are: Mind your own business. Don't quarrel with your neighbors. Pay for what you get when you get it.

Live within your means. Laugh every time you find something to laugh at.

Don't eat between meals. Eat plain food and plenty of it. Don't drink intoxicating liquors. Don't smoke or chew tobacco.

Keep up your interest in the news of the world.

Go to bed early with a clear conscience and get up with the birds.

Sleep eight to nine hours out of the twenty-four.

Don't worry about things you can't help.

Work and exercise outdoors as much as possible.

Keep your thoughts pure.

Memorize bible verses.

Remember your obligations to your Creator.

Many of these rules are so excellent that they deserve special mention. The one about minding one's own business is perhaps the most forcible. It takes a strong mind to follow rules as rigid as those, and many persons would rather sacrifice a few years than to try.

Keep Your Place.

Great troubles arise from things getting out of their place, and one of the worst things out of place is a man. Yet nothing is more common than to see men who seem out of place. There are little men in big places, and there are big men in little places; there are round men in square places, and square men in round places; there are ignorant men lordling it over men who are wiser than they; and bad men tyrannizing over men the latchet of whose shoes they are not worthy to stoop down and unloose; there are rogues to whose custody is intrusted the property of widows and orphans; there are scoundrels who occupy positions of honor and responsibility; there are traitors who hold the reins of government; there are men of blameless lives, incorruptible and noble, who yet are distrusted and despised and rejected of men.

It is a great thing for a Christian man to seek to know his place, to find out where God would have him be, and what God would have him do, and how he would have him conduct himself. There is some one place in the world where, under Divine providence, we may be most useful, and in the fullest sense a blessing to those around us. But if through some restless uneasiness or vain ambition we leave that place, and by striving after high things, or through discontent or vanity, choose another course, we may do ourselves incalculable and long-lasting injury. Let us find our respective places, and then let us keep them, in the fear of the Lord, and with earnest desire to know and do His will.

Morning Prayer.

Heavenly Father, write thy new, best name of love upon our hearts this morning. Help us to remember Jesus Christ. During the busy hours bring Him often to our thought. When the mind is free from some set task may it revert to Him, as the needle turns to the pole. Keep us from wounding Him in thought or word. Make our communion with Him sweet. Give us of His strength, of His wisdom, of His wisdom.

Forgive the professions which have been but empty words. Forgive the sins which have brought a reproach upon the church. Forgive us if we have made it difficult to distinguish between the church and the world.

Save us from the sin of despair. Light the lamp of hope in every heart. Fill us with the spirit of expectancy. Teach us that ruined lives may be rebuilt, and that in Christ is sufficiency for all our needs. We are thankful that Christ is the way to our Father's house, that there is forgiveness for all, the bread of life for all, and a welcome. Cleanse us from the defilement of the way; blot out the memories of the far country; clothe us with the garment of righteousness, and give us the joy of knowing that thou dost own us as thy sons and daughters. Amen.

GIFTS MEANT FOR YOU

Do you know what God is asking you to take from Him? Have you really looked into the legacy, the bequest, which has been made to you in the will, the last testament of Jesus Christ—that inviolable document that we call the New Testament? We cannot know what our legacy is until we have gained a clear idea of Christ and his work, past, present, and future, as these are described here. Three offers God in Christ makes to us: "Pardon for the past, peace for the present, glory for the future." If we accept them—as we may this moment—they make the past as though it had not been; the present a continuing miracle; the future a sure hope that goes utterly beyond the best that we can ask or think. That is our inheritance. Let us claim it this moment, and every moment.—Sunday School Times.

HE LEADETH ME

He leadeth me in pastures green! Not always, sometimes He Who knoweth best, in kindness lead me In weary ways, where heavy shadows be.

Out of the sunshine warm and soft and bright,
Out of sunshine into darkest night.
I oft would faint with sorrow and afflict,
Fright.

Only for this, I know He holds my hand,
So whether led in green or desert land,
I trust, although I cannot understand.

And "by still waters!" No, not always so,
Oft times the heavy tempests round me blow,
And o'er my soul the waves and billows go.

But when the storms beat loudest and I cry
Aldry
For help, the Master standeth by
And whispers to my soul, "Lo, it is I."

Above the tempest wild I hear him say
Beyond the darkness lies the perfect day;
In every path of thine "I lead the way."

Wished to Share.

A Missouri farmer, whose wife greatly deprecates his intermittent convivial tendency, went to St. Louis in the holidays and greatly enjoyed himself. Upon returning home he was extremely thirsty, desiring above all things a drink of cold water. He put up his horses and cautiously approached the old draw well. The bucket rose almost noiselessly as he pulled the windlass, and he secured a mighty draught. He drank till he could hold no more. The night was cold and the water splendid.

Suddenly, in the gratitude of his refreshment he lifted up his voice.

"Maria!" he shouted, "Oh Maria!"

"Whatver do you want?" demanded his wife, from the house. "What are you standing out there in the lot, bellerin' like a calf for?"

"O, Maria," the husband pleaded, "you and the children come on out here and git some of this good water."

ADVISABLE AS DEFENSE MEASURE

The warring nations of Europe have forced prohibition upon the attention of the American people as a question having direct bearing upon national efficiency and preparedness, with respect both to the quality of citizenship and the quantity and source of revenue. World history now in the making impels and compels pacifists and militarists, economists and pork-barrelists, to the same conclusion regarding the drink evil. As part, therefore, of our national defense program the abolishment of the liquor traffic should be considered as especially wise and timely.

TWO GREAT FACTS

The Christian religion rests upon two great facts. The first is, that God has spoken to man in the Lord Jesus Christ and still speaks by the Holy Spirit. The second is, that man can hear God's voice and speak to Him in return. Divine Revelation and Human Response to it are thus the two foundations of all true life. The voice of God to man is heard in the Word of God applied by the Holy Spirit. The voice of man to God is mainly expressed in prayer.—W. H. Griffith Thomas, D. D.

Go to Church

There are a thousand reasons why you should attend church, but not a single reason why you should not. But do not get it into your head that you should go in order to help the church; you should go to help yourself.

After the week's work, after the strain of the six days of toil, after the activities of a busy week, there is nothing in this old life that will so rest and recuperate and re-create one as to spend an hour or two in the house of God and in the contemplation of spiritual things.

The busy man should attend divine services at least once on the Sabbath. It will do him good. It will make a better business man of him. It will give him a new view of commerce and industry as well as add something to his mental and moral equipment.

The haggard mother, weary with the onerous duties of the home, should attend church every Sunday. It will prove to be the greatest relief she can obtain from the wearing grind of the little details of the home. It will sweeten her disposition and make her burden in life a little lighter.

The young man and young woman, literally, cannot afford not to attend church. There are so many frivolities in the world, life is so sweet in its youth, that unless one gets into the habit of considering serious things for a fraction of a day, once a week, the years that are in store are going to be less cheerful years.

The children should be taken to church, that they may come to know, early in their youth, that there is something else in life than the gross affairs of the world. So there is no class of people who should fail to attend religious services of some kind at least once during seven days.—Dayton News.

Plant Black Walnut

Because of the very high lasting qualities of its wood and the moderately rapid rate of growth of the tree in good locations, black walnut is one of the few most desirable trees to plant on the farm. Small patches of rough, gullied, or unused land about the farm and narrow strips along fence rows and highways or corners of barnyards and stock lots make ideal places for planting this valuable tree. The method is simple, and the present heavy crop of nuts makes this year a most favorable time to begin work along this line. The region where walnut growing is practicable extends from southern New England west to the Central States and south to South Carolina and along the northern portions of the Gulf States to Oklahoma. The finest growth takes place in the rich covers of the lower Appalachians and over the Ohio and central Mississippi basins.

The black walnut tree is comparatively free from insect attack, particularly the wood. The price of black walnut lumber in recent years has been consistently high. Another factor to be considered is the rapidly diminishing supply of walnut trees over practically its entire range in the United States, due to recent cutting in order to meet the demand for gunstock material. The tree yields durable wood which may be used for posts and for a wide variety of purposes about the farm, in case it is not sold in the lumber market.

To plant the nuts, make a small hole with a mattock or hoe, drop one or two nuts in each hole and cover them with about 2 inches of fresh, firmly packed soil. For the larger areas, a good spacing in forest plantations is to dig the holes 8 feet apart each way or 8 by 10 feet, which amounts to 680 and 545 holes per acre for the two spacings. For small areas, or along fence rows and highways, the spacing should be about 8 feet in the row, unless permanent shade is desired, in which case the distance should be 20 feet during the early period of growth and subsequently increased to 40 feet by removing the alternate trees. For purposes of nut production the trees should be spaced at distances of from 40 to 60 feet apart, and should be given a due amount of cultivation. Requests for information along this line should be addressed to the Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department of Agriculture at Washington. The number of nuts required can easily be found by knowing approximately their quality, the area of ground to be treated, and the spacing. Care should be taken not to plant under shade. Where the trees in the old wood lot are to be cut during the next year or two and are moderately open, planting may be done in advance of the removal of the overhanging protection against early frosts and excessive drying of the soil in mid-summer.

While the best results are usually obtained by completely preparing the soil and cultivating for a few years after planting, farm owners should be aware of the possibility of starting hundreds of young walnuts in their wood lots and elsewhere at the expense of only a little labor. This will be a good step in the process of clearing useful and money-making trees in parts of the farm which would otherwise be waste land, which is making no return at all to its owner.

SETTING OUT THE COMMERCIAL ORCHARD

The Trees Used in Planting Have Much To Do With the Future Success of the Orchard; Thousands of Inferior Trees Are Planted Each Year—Get the Right Trees and See That They Are Properly Planted, and the Orchard is Well Started on the Road to Profit.

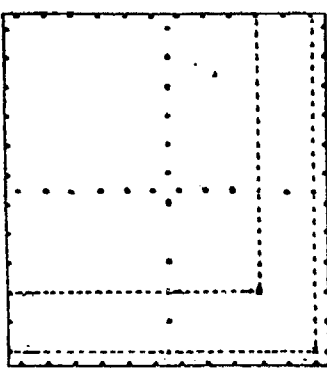

Three chief factors enter into the selection of the site for an orchard—soil, elevation, and exposure. Of these the soil is most important for even though the elevation and exposure be perfect, if the soil is unfavorable, the orchard will be a failure.

Clay-loam soil is best for apple growing. In the past the tendency has been to select rather heavy clay-loam or clay soils for apple culture. Less heavy clay-loams and even soils tending towards a gravelly nature seem to give better results, usually. Heavy clays are much more difficult to handle; have a tendency to carry the wood growth too late into the summer, and do not give as good color to the fruit as the somewhat lighter soils. Both late growth and low color are objectionable, and for these reasons heavy clays should be avoided where more suitable soils are available. It is not to be understood that light or sandy soils are preferred for apple growing.

Have the orchard site elevated above the surrounding country. This does not mean that it must be the highest piece of land in the vicinity, but that it should have lower levels in proximity to it. Elevation is an important factor in fruit growing. A rolling site which provides good air drainage and which is somewhat elevated is most likely to escape injury from frosts.

Avoid "pockets." It is not only necessary to select elevated sites, but when these sites are in small valleys it is important that the valley be open at its lower end. If it is not, such a valley becomes a "pocket," and because of lack of air drainage is very susceptible to frosts, and unsuitable for apple growing. "Pot-holes," especially if of considerable extent, are best left unplanted as the trees seldom give good results.

Exposure is the direction of slope of the site. By a northern exposure is meant a site in which the general slope of the land is towards the north. On rolling sites, it is impossible to have all the land slope in the same direction, but in such cases it is the

Preparation for planting should consider at least the character of the surface soil, and the subsoil. With the ideal subsoil no attention need be given, but where the subsoil, or even the lower portion of the surface soil is a compact clay, then subsoiling should be done. The additional root system secured in two seasons by this operation will more than pay for it.

The surface soil should be considered from two standpoints—the character of the tilth, and the presence of organic matter. While the former is more or less dependent upon the latter, the degree of firmness is a matter that should not be overlooked. A clover sod, or still better, a crop of clover, ploughed under followed by a cultivated crop, preferably corn, grown upon the land puts the soil in the best possible condition for the planting of trees the following year. Frequent cultivation of the crop so as to put the soil in good tilth is essential. The crop which has been turned under adds both organic matter and nitrogen which assists in a vigorous growth of the trees the season planted. If the soil has been put in good condition little work is necessary in the spring before planting. The land may have been ploughed the fall previous or just before planting. Fall ploughing usually permits of earlier setting of trees. A couple of discings or harrowings just before planting puts the soil in fine condition to receive the trees.

There are numerous systems for planting orchards. Many fruit growers have worked out their own systems. Those mostly used are the rectangular, quincunx, alternate and hexagonal, or modifications of them. The rectangular or square system is most used. In this plan the trees are set at the corners of a rectangular area. Most often the rectangle is a square, but not infrequently the sides are unequal. This is the simplest system to lay out. Its chief disadvantage is that it does not make economical use of the land, there being an area in the center of each rectangle little used by the trees. The quincunx system was devised to offset the difficulty just mentioned. In this operations. By this method, the number of trees per acre may be increased, the land better distributed among them, and inconvenience in orchard operations avoided. It will be seen that this method approaches the hexagonal system for when the diagonal distance between the trees of adjoining rows is equal to that between the trees in the same row, then we have the hexagonal system.

The alternate system is frequently used in close plantings. In an orchard with rows 20 feet apart, set by the alternate system, it will be found much easier to get between the trees than if the rectangular system is employed for the distance between the nearest trees of the adjoining row will be approximately 28 feet, 3 inches or over 8 feet more than when set by the rectangular. Set at this distance the space between the trees of adjoining rows would be the same as when planted 40 feet apart by the quincunx. This system would seem, therefore, to be preferable to the quincunx where trees are to be permanent and set less than 40 feet apart.

The hexagonal system or equilateral system is rapidly gaining favor as system an additional tree is set in the center of each rectangle. By this method the land is more fully occupied and the number of trees nearly doubled. In effect this system is doubling the number of rows and making the trees very much closer together. For example, where trees are set 30 feet between the rows, and 30 feet in the row, by the quincunx plan, the rows become fifteen feet apart, and the trees 21.25 feet from those nearest it. It will be seen that unless the rows are more than thirty feet apart, setting a tree in the center of the rectangle would so reduce the distance between the rows that difficulty would be encountered in orchard operations. This system is most often employed at present where fillers are used.

The alternate system is designed to correct the difficulties arising from the former. It differs from it essentially in widening the distance between rows, maintaining the same distances between the trees in the row, and is therefore better adapted to plantings under 40 feet. In the alternate plan with 30 feet apart in the row the rows can be placed much closer together without reducing the space between the trees in adjoining rows so much as to interfere with orchard the most economical system for planting orchards. In this system each tree is equidistant from the nearest neighbor in any direction. The land is equally distributed among the trees and it is practically all used without crowding the trees. It also has the advantage of increasing the number of trees about 15 per cent over the rectangular system without reducing the distance between trees.

There is considerable controversy as to what is the proper distance between trees. It is impossible to give any hard and fast rule as to the proper distances as it will differ materially with climate and soil conditions, and the characteristic growth of the variety. There is always a tendency to plant trees too close. This is undoubtedly due to the fact that there is a desire to use as much of the land from the beginning as possible, and because newly set trees always have the appearance of being farther apart than necessary. Experience has proved that serious losses in the amount of fruit produced accompany close planting. Not only is the crop reduced, but orchard operations, such as cultivating and spraying, are interfered with in close planted orchards.

"Safe Farming" Always

Outline of a Program Recommended by Government Specialists to Secure Safety in the Cotton Belt.

The history of agriculture in the south, it has been said, has been one of lean years and fat years. Short crops and high prices have almost invariably been followed by big crops and low prices and, in consequence, the farmer has experienced much distress. The increased attention which has recently been given to supporting the people upon the land has already resulted in much good, but there is some danger, it is pointed out, that with the price of cotton rising, there will be a tendency for farmers to return to the old system of gambling on cotton. If the people of the south produced their own living, the circular points out, it would steady the whole system and keep the boat from rocking. The safety measures recommended are as follows:

First: Produce a home garden for every family on the farm, the year round, paying special attention to a plot of Irish or sweet potatoes sufficient to supply the family with food of this character. Where feasible, have a patch of sorghum or other cane to produce syrup for the family.

Second: Produce the corn necessary to support all of the people on the farm and the live stock, with absolute safety.

Third: Produce the necessary oats and other small grain to supplement the corn as food. Pay attention to winter grazing.

Fourth: Produce hay and forage from some forage crop, sufficient to supply all of the live stock on the farm. Use legumes such as clover, cowpeas, velvet beans, soy beans and alfalfa for the production of hay and to enrich the soil with nitrogen and humus.

Fifth: Produce the meat necessary to supply the people, through increased attention to poultry and hogs, especially. Plan to increase gradually the number of cattle and other live stock so as to have a sufficient number to consume the waste products of the farm and make the waste lands productive.

Sixth: After all of these things have been amply provided for, produce cotton for the market.

PARCEL-POST MARKETING.

The farmer who wishes to sell his products by parcel post, and the housewife who wishes to use this method of securing country produce for her table, will find many useful points in Farmers' Bulletin 703, "Suggestions for Parcel-Post Marketing." This bulletin, in addition to explaining the postal rates and measurement limits for parcel-post matter, discusses—in some detail the types of containers which are most successful, and the methods of grading and packing produce so that it will reach the consumer in good condition and be attractive in quality and appearance. In treating standards for parcel-post shipments, the bulletin tells how to select, handle, and pack poultry, and how to grade and pack the various fruits and vegetables which the average farmer is likely to market through the post office.

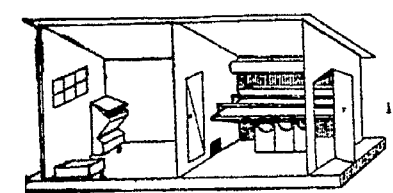

Spray, prune, cultivate, but be all means spruce. No matter how large and healthy your trees may be, nor how highly colored your fruit, if it has worms in it, it is a failure from the market standpoint.

PRACTICAL POULTRY SUGGESTIONS.

One of the very first things to do to secure a profit from the farm flock during the winter is to cull out the weak and sell every bird that does not show a promise of returning a profit.

Old hens, superfluous males and pullets that do not show good healthy development had better be sold for what they will bring. Every bird that does not appear healthy and vigorous should be placed in a house by themselves and given a chance to become marketable. In this way the size of the flock can be reduced and only those that are capable of paying for their feed and care kept through the winter.

The flock must be fed liberally during the cold weather. Nothing is to be gained by feeding starvation rations.

Poultry House with Concrete Foundation—Very Cheap and Convenient.

Wheat, corn and oats make an ideal ration for laying hens. It forms palatable feed, furnishes variety and is well balanced for egg production. With well balanced feed and meat scraps added or mixed with cut clover makes a well-balanced feed.

The grain feed can be improved by grinding and feeding in the form of a mash a part of the time. The change is highly beneficial and increases egg production. Meat scraps are a good source of protein. Green bone is preferred by many poultrymen, but it is out of the question with many poultry keepers on account of the amount of labor required in its preparation.

If one is situated nearby to a large market and can buy bone and meat at a low cost and has plenty of time to prepare it, he may then secure a good feed at a moderate cost. However, I believe that the average poultry keeper will find meat scraps at three dollars a hundred fully as cheap and economical a feed.

Hens must have bulky and succulent feed to take the place of the green grass they get during the summer. Alfalfa and red clover cut and cured early, are the best substitutes. If the hay is run through a cutting box or grinder and steamed for an hour and a half the hens will consume nearly all of it.

It is rich in protein and a good egg-producing food. If the flock has a dry and comfortable house, free from vermin, they will furnish an abundant supply of winter eggs, providing, of course, that other conditions are right.

For winter layers I like to have about one-half pullets and one-half yearlings. In this way I believe we secure a more uniform number of eggs during the fall, winter and spring.

Many may not agree with me in this respect, but I have always secured more eggs from a flock proportioned about half and half pullets and yearlings than from a flock of pullets. That is, if we consider the egg yield for the whole winter and spring.

Unless a man has an incubator and brooder the yearling hens will make better mothers than the pullets and I find this an important item to consider in the handling of the farm flock.

Good Sore Milk Ration for the Hens. Corn, 4 parts; wheat, 2 parts; bran middlings, 1 part; corn meal, 1 part; sour milk separately. Give 109 hens two and one-half gallons of milk and from 12 to 25 pounds of other food a day.

Get busy on that plan for fixing up the school yard. Does it need a hedge? A few trees and shrubs for comfort and appearance? Talk matters over with the teacher and the older children. Pleasant surroundings at home help school pay.

The best tools go soon enough.

By H. R. COX.

A study of the eradication of any perennial weed should begin with a consideration of its underground parts. When the character of its underground growth is determined the next step is to devise a method of eradication based on its habits. Hedge and field bindweed will be considered in this article.

Root Stocks of Bindweed Growing Shallowly in a Clay Soil of Medium Depth.

The hedge bindweed may start growth in the spring from near the top of the root stock sent to the surface during the preceding year, or the growth may come from any part of the preceding year's underground growth. This underground stem forms buds, from which new root stocks grow. Furthermore, new root stocks may grow from any of the buds along the old root stock. An individual root stock may retain its vitality for two or more years if left undisturbed.

The field bindweed is propagated by roots instead of root stocks. These roots extend in a more or less horizontal direction from several inches to several feet below the surface. At any point along the root an adventitious bud may form, from which a root grows or a root shoot is sent to the surface. These root shoots form buds, from which other root shoots grow to the surface, thus giving the impression that the plant propagates by root stocks.

Various methods have been tried to keep down the top growth and hence starve out the underground parts. There are three methods that have given satisfactory results, namely, clean cultivation, alfalfa growing, and hog pasturing. There are other methods that have been tried, but not with a large measure of success. These include the placing of building paper, beat pulp, apple pomace, straw, or manure on the ground to smother the weed growth, and also the application of chemicals. Conditions in irrigated regions are complicated by the fact that bindweed is often allowed to grow along irrigation ditches, the water in which distributes the seed. The water of streams, especially at flood times, is also a factor in distributing the seeds and roots to other lands.

From the facts stated it is evident that the only successful methods for the eradication of bindweed must be based on the suppression of all top growth, in order to starve out the underground parts, except, of course, those methods, at present of little value, which have for their object the direct killing of the roots or root stocks by the application of chemicals. A great many farmers are looking for some easy method of killing the bindweed, and in the meantime are letting it cover the fields and festoon the trees of the orchard. They are looking for some magic "remedy" that will completely eradicate the weed with a small amount of exertion on their part. It must be understood that such a formidable enemy as this weed requires heroic treatment. Other farmers have gone at the problem headlessly, as in the case of a man who followed the root of a plant to the depth of 4 feet and then applied a large quantity of salt in the hole.

Various methods have been tried to keep down the top growth and hence starve out the underground parts. There are three methods that have given satisfactory results, namely, clean cultivation, alfalfa growing, and hog pasturing. There are other methods that have been tried, but not with a large measure of success. These include the placing of building paper, beat pulp, apple pomace, straw, or manure on the ground to smother the weed growth, and also the application of chemicals. For the home garden choose vegetables of best quality. Quantity is not the important thing.

There is no longer any more question regarding the control of worms affecting apples, or other fruit. Spraying will do the work.

Keep the house plants clean and you will not be bothered with mealy bug or aphids.

Worked vegetables need rich, well-worked soil. Having this, and adding thorough cultivation and care, anyone can have a number-one garden.

GET RID OF DISEASE SPREADERS

With the widespread realization of the fact that flies spread diseases as well as cause almost intolerable annoyance, there has developed a demand for efficient means of abating or controlling the nuisance.

The use of formaldehyde (or formalin) seems to offer one such means. R. I. Smith of North Carolina found that one ounce (2 tablespoons) of formalin (40 per cent formaldehyde) in 16 ounces (1 pint) of a mixture of equal parts of milk and water in shallow dishes with a piece of bread in the center for the flies to alight on, proves very attractive and destructive to the flies, especially when placed on the front and back porches of houses. It is less effective when used inside the house, although the method was used with good results in ridding dairies of flies.

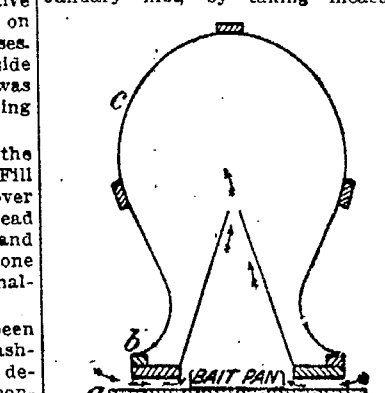

E. E. Green of Celon has used the following method with success: Fill a soup plate with damp sand, cover with a piece of blotting paper, spread sugar on the blotting paper and sprinkle it with a mixture of one part of formalin (40 per cent formaldehyde) with 20 parts of water.

Various forms of fly traps have been used with good results. F. L. Washburn of the Minnesota station describes an efficient and easily constructed form of trap as follows:

The trap is 24 inches long, 12 inches high, and 8 inches wide. The upper part (c) which may be oval or rectangular as preferred, serves as a receptacle which the flies enter through the opening in the top of the middle portion (b) made of ordinary mosquito wire screen and shaped like the roof of a house. Under this is the baseboard (a), upon which rest two tin bait pans. The space between the baseboard and the middle portion is about one-half inch, and between this and the bait pans through which flies enter pans, about one-fourth of an inch, stale meat, bread, and milk are used as bait. The trapped flies are killed by immersing in hot water.

The City of Chicago is going about this "fly" question in earnest. Their methods should be adopted by every other city in the land. The city officials of Chicago did not wait until millions of flies were buzzing around spreading disease and death, but began a strenuous war on these pests on January first, by taking measures providing for the abolishing of all alley receptacles for manure after that date. All citizens have been asked to co-operate with the officials. It is believed that if all manure receptacles can be removed from alleys and properly constructed on private property the fly pest will be largely controlled.

OATS GOOD GREEN FOOD.

Oats soaked over night in lukewarm water, then spread in shallow boxes where the frost cannot touch them and kept covered with a damp cloth for a week after will, at the end of that time, show up an ideal green food for the winter layers. Three or more such boxes coming on alternately will keep the fowls supplied.

The incubator should be operated according to the manufacturer's directions.

"How many head o' live stock you got on the place?" "Live stock," echoed the somewhat puzzled farmer. "What d'ye mean by live stock? I got four steam tractors and seven automobiles."—"Judge!"

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Feb. 17.—Overnight advances suggesting a reopening of the Lusitania controversy were reflected in the further heaviness of stocks at today's opening, while conditions in Mexico also made for increased uneasiness. Losses of one to two points were registered by Crucible Steel, New York Airbrake, Mexican Petroleum, American Smelting and other active issues, while various shares were lower by substantial fractions. United States Steel yielded only slightly with immaterial change in rail. Crucible led the moderate rally before the end of the first half hour, but the undertone was uncertain.

Railroads were checked by the increased weakness of coppers and oils, but the market reversed its course later on, buying of Crucible as well as Canadian Pacific, Baldwin Locomotive and American Can. Canadian Pacific soon showed an overnight gain of two points and United States Steel also more than made up its early loss. Dealings slackened visibly on the second readjustment of prices, the market drifting idly until just before midday, when further general improvement was noted as a result of more favorable advices from Washington. Bonds were irregular.

Metal shares, especially Butte and Superior and American Zinc, rose substantially in the last hour while specialties, particularly Baldwin, were heavy. The closing was irregular.

WILL BE THERE FOR THE EARLY PLOWING

Paul Miller, Chronic Inebriate Sent to the State Farm.

Paul Miller will arrive at the state penal farm near Putnamville early enough and will remain a sufficient time to help out with the spring plowing and seeding. Mr. Miller's specialty is not agriculture, but it is rightly encouraged by the fact that he is under duress constrained to turn to with a willing hand and learn something of the cultivation of the soil. He has been mainly engaged in a laudable effort to destroy all the red liquor herabouts and his appearances in the city court have been frequent. He was arrested Wednesday while managing a truculent souse and headed off just as he started to rough-house a saloon. Previous convictions were laid against him and Judge H. Waveland Kerr tagged him with $50 and costs and an added thirty days, all of which will keep him on the farm for three months.

Held for Grand Larceny.

Judge Kerr, Thursday morning, handed down his decision in the preliminary hearing of James McDonough, a promoter, who is charged with grand larceny, binding him over to the circuit court and fixing his bond at $100. He went to jail. McDonough is charged with having victimized Mrs. Alta M. Foster to the extent of $110, which he obtained from her for investment in the Purity Baking company, a concern that went broke before it was fairly started. McDonough had more recently been promoting the organization of a new bank at New Haven with $25,000 capital. He is believed by the police to have a record and will be investigated pending his trial in the circuit court.

Other City Court Cases.

Of four hoboes arrested at the Wash-bash coal chutes, Wednesday afternoon by Lieutenant Harry Grinnin and Officers Joe Degitz and Cy Andrews and charged with vagrancy, Leo Webb was turned loose and Roy Alther, William Hanecek and Albert Richard were fined $5 and costs each.

Richard Chandler, whose right name is said to be Sherwin, was arraigned on a drunk charge and pleaded guilty. The police believe he had touched a companion for $10, but the prisoner said he had merely borrowed the money. He returned $5 to the man it belonged to. The intervention of a friend got Chandler off with a thirty day continuance on his own recognizance. Chandler has been in trouble before.

Don Hart, a harmless drunk, who had fallen and cut his face badly, was found down and out and taken in to be cared for. He was fined $1 and costs, which he paid. Hart, who is employed in a factory, said he had come down town Thursday evening and drank some wine in a saloon on Calhoun street near the south railroad and believed he was dozed.

Albert Cashmore, a drunk, was fined $5 and costs and John Cursner, another one, was continued a day to get sobor Louis Moore, a vag, was turned loose.

POLICE ANSWER FALSE ALARM.

An excited telephone call to police headquarters at 5:15 Wednesday afternoon that in the progress of a fight between two schoolboys on the banks of the St. Marys river back of the 3400 block in Broadway one of them had been knocked down and hurt or killed and had then fallen through the ice into the water sent the patrol wagon, police boat and officers on a hurry-up run to the scene. When the officers arrived they learned there had been a fight between a boy named James Gardiner and another lad named Seeler and that one of them had made a pretense of being badly hurt and crumpled up on the ground. They had disappeared before the police got there. There was considerable excitement in the vicinity for a time.

MOTORCYCLE RIDER HURT.

When the motorcycle he was riding struck a pedestrian at Maumee and Glasgow avenue, about 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening, H. L. Daler, 1028 Glasgow avenue, was hurled from his machine and sustained serious injuries to one of his legs and for a time was rendered unconscious by the shock. He was taken to his home. Officer John Keintz, who investigated the accident, was unable to learn from Daler the identity of the man he struck.

AFTER LAGRIPPE—WHAT?

Coughs that "hang on" after lagrippe exhaust the strength and lower the vital resistance. F. G. Prevost, Bedford, Ind., writes: "An attack of lagrippe left me with a severe cough. I tried everything. I lost in weight and got so thin it looked as if I would never get well. I tried Foley's Honey and Tar and two bottles cured me. I am now well and back to my normal weight." Foley's Honey and Tar gets right at the trouble. It is a safe, reliable remedy. Dreier Drug Co.—Advertisement.

RAILWAY WORKERS ARE BEST PAID EMPLOYEES

Some Interesting Figures Develop in Government Reports.

New York, Feb. 17.—Figures compiled from recent government reports show that the highest paid class of workers in the United States are the employees of the railways, and of these the ones making the best earnings are the men who run the trains—the engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen. Statistics based on interstate commerce commission reports show that the average earnings of locomotive engineers for the year 1914 were $1,700, while firemen during the same period received an average of $1,000. The conductors enjoyed an average yearly income of $1,520, while trainmen received $1,020. The average for all men in train service was $1,210.

This is more than twice the average wage of all classes of workmen in the United States, according to Scott Neasing, who places it at $600 for all that section of the country east of the Rockies and north of the Mason and Dixie line.

On the express passenger trains and many of the freight trains the earnings of engineers and conductors are much higher than the average. Official figures from all roads west of Chicago show that over 16 per cent of the engineers earn over $200 per month, while many of the older men earn from $2,500 to $3,500 per year.

Aside from railway employees the highest paid class of workers represented in great numbers are the men engaged in various branches of the steel industry. With the great prosperity that has been brought to this industry by the receipt of heavy orders for war materials, wages in steel and allied trades have advanced greatly and are now at the highest level they ever have reached, or about $900 a year. In other similar occupations wages range somewhat lower than this, while agricultural labor, according to the researches of Professor King of the university of Wisconsin, receives the low compensation of only $368 a year.

Not only do the men who drive locomotives and punch tickets fare well as compared with other workmen, but they enjoy incomes greater than those who have gone through a long and expensive training to fit themselves for one of the so-called learned professions. Dr. Otto V. Huffman, secretary of the New York State Medical Board, is authority for the statement that the average income of the 127,000 doctors in the United States is only $500 apiece. Clergymen receive about the same amount, while lawyers are very little better off.

The railway workers are not only the best paid, but they are by much the most numerous of all divisions of the national industrial army, comprising a million and three-quarters men. Their pay in the aggregate amounts to over $1,400,000,000 a year, and of this approximately $400,000,000 represents the share of the train employees.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL

New Evidence Found in Mohr Case, Attorneys for Negroes Say

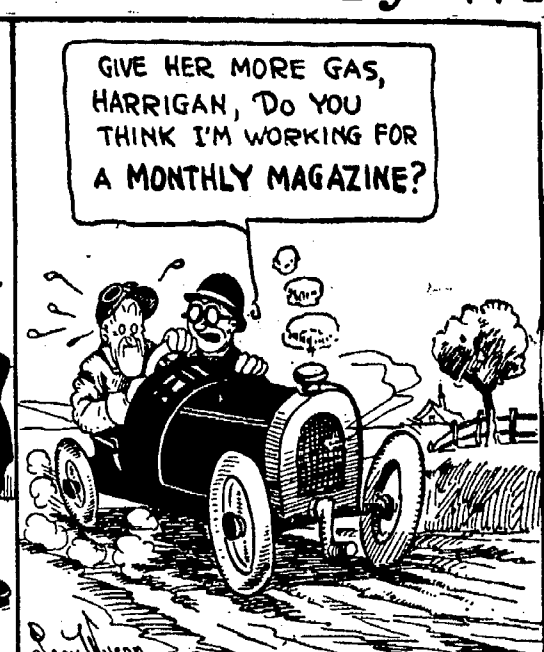

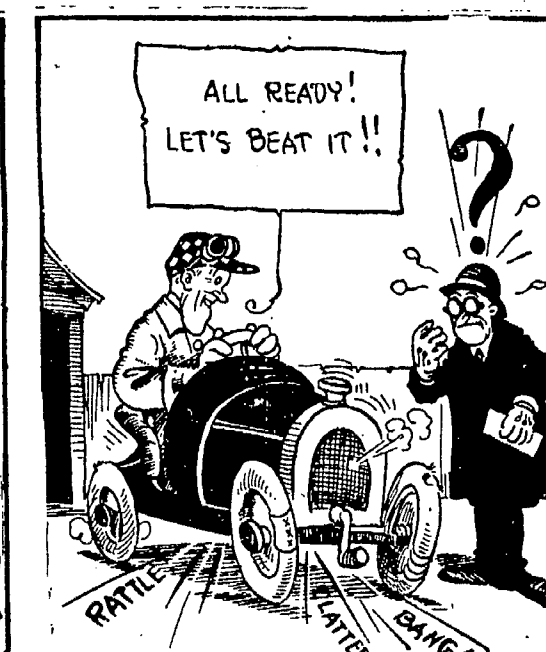

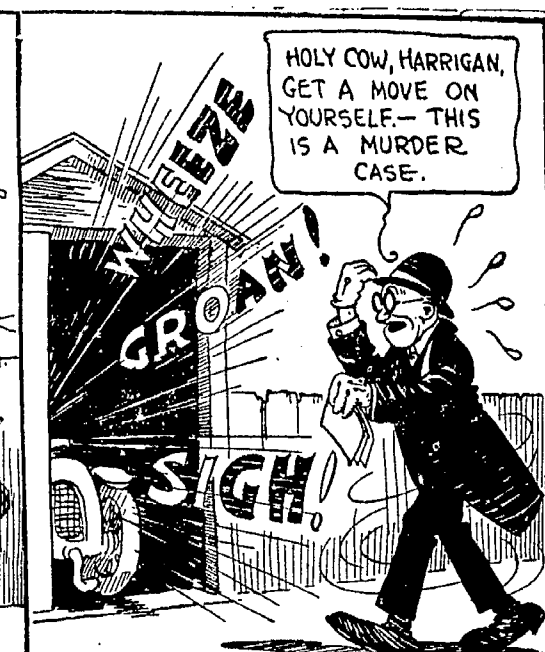

Providence, R. I., Feb. 14.—A motion for a new trial for Cecil Brown and Henry H. Spellman, convicted last week of the murder of Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, was filed in the superior court here.

The motion was based on the ground that the verdict was contrary to law and evidence; that the jury "misconceived or disregarded" the court's instructions, and on newly discovered evidence.

The same jury which convicted Brown and Spellman acquitted Mrs. Elizabeth F. Mohr on the charge of having instigated the murder of her husband.

WANT MONEY?
Let us tell you how to make it on those chickens you have been feeding so long.
Start feeding some of Bash's Laying Mash in your hoppers and your hens will lay or bust. Then scatter a bale of our nice green Alfalfa hay over the floor for the chickens to eat and scratch in. It takes the place of grass and green foods which the hens must have to insure results for getting eggs. If you haven't started to feeding Bash's Standard Scratch Feed, you'd better begin now; the highest quality and the best egg making food on the market.
Alfalfa hay is also for rabbits.
